IS 'HOODED' PLOT PERIL OR PLAY? PARIS PUZZLED

Police Probe Extent of Cagoulards.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 29.—France's blood is boiling over the affair of "Les Cagoulards" [the hooded ones] whose ramifications so far are so intricate that no one in Paris seems sure whether the whole business is a lurid melodrama or whether an anti republican conspiracy is developing which may rip up the entire social structure of the nation.

There seems no doubt that sinister things were afoot. The puzzle is about their extent. Investigations are in progress to determine just who and what were behind this organization of French hooded men—a group on the surface at least, corresponding to the Ku Klux Klan in America.

Seek to Learn Scope.

What the French public wants to know is whether Les Cagoulards were mere disgruntled followers of Col Francois de la Rocque, debunked leader of French Fascism, or whether Cagoulardism has a wider scope and really masks the participation of various right elements—royalists, Fascists, industrialists, and all other elements dissatisfied with the leftist government, including Italian and German intrigues—which would like to see a movement toward dictatorship and Fascism established in France.

Foreign chancelleries in Paris are watching this affair, which has occupied the front pages of the Paris press for the last two weeks, to see whether there are elements of revolution present which might compare with those of Gen. Francisco Franco's uprising against the leftist government of Spain.

The French people are disturbed, but, they do not seem to think there is any immediate danger of a successful issue for a general conspiracy against republican institutions.

Plot Frustrated for Moment.

But this business of Les Cagoulards continues to give dismay despite attempts to laugh it off, for intelligent French people are pointing out that the great conspiracies of history had their origin in the machinations of secret societies.

The plot against the republic, if such there has been, has been frustated for the moment. The question is, whether it has been stamped out, or just driven into further secrecy. However, many elements in Paris fear that events of the past couple of weeks—the discovery of arms dumps, the issuance of royalist proclamations, and contrary assertions that the whole affair was cooked up by the police—will leave behind a legacy of anxiety and embitterment and will widen the gulf between the classes and between political parties, even if it does nothing else.

Affects French Position Abroad.

The question of whether the fire could have spread as a conspiracy to put France in another political constellation is of importance, for it affects the position of France in international affairs.

The concensus so far as this correspondent has been able to learn is that the present French social and political structure is unlikely to be turned upside down either by arms or by the aims of such elusive conspirators as Les Cagoulards—whatever that picturesque name really conceals in the way of political amalgamations.

In other words, no outbreak may be expected which would lead to a coup d'etat such as took place in 1851 when Napoleon II. overthrew the second French republic and seized power, proclaiming himself emperor.

Emperor Material Scarce.

To begin with there isn't much emperor material about and secondly, Premier Camille Chautemps and Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos would not have left the country for talks in London if there were danger. A negative answer to whether the third French republic is endangered by the present wave of conspiracy is also implied in the very name "Les Cagoulard" or "cowl wearers," which, in the absence of an authentic title, was given by the public to those members of the secret society who were unearthed by the French police.

There is no evidence that the French conspirators ever donned hoods for their secret gatherings, or even described themselves as Les Cagoulards. The name seems to have been applied to them contemptuously

Before an audience of 15,000 persons who filled to overflowing the International Ampitheater, the prize boys and girls of America, 1,500 strong, paraded last night for twenty colorful minutes. The occasion was the International Live Stock show, where the nation pays tribute to these youngsters' accomplishments of the year past.

The 1,500 aristocrats of American farm youth who marched last night in the arena's glare are here as representatives of 1,400,000 other 4-H club members whose homes are in every state in the union, in at least one possession, and in three provinces of Canada.

Represents a Year of Work.

Behind these exciting twenty minutes of music and light lay twelve months of work in dimly lit barns and lonely fields — twelve months of devotion to the pledge from which the 4-H club takes its name.

"I pledge my head to clearer thinking, my heart to greater loyalty, my hands to larger service, and my health to better living for my club, my community, and my country."

It is the third day of the stock show and more than a dozen of the 1,500 have been awarded championships in live stock raising, grain production, or household achievement. Others have exhibits that stretch away along the broad ailes of the amphitheater. The time has come for the nation's tribute to its prize boys and girls.

A Big Moment for Young Farmers.

As the moment approaches, attendants begin clearing the arena of prize winning cattle, sheep, and horses. In the wake of a mooing, baaing throng move the mechanical sweeping machines, smoothing the tan-bark for the spectacle. The lights blaze brighter. The moment has come:

Beneath the tiers of seats there is a mighty rolling of drums; the strident voices of bugles. Into the glare thud eight great Percherons drawing a van loaded with the champion boys and girls of the show. Silver mounted harness glistens about the bodies of the great horses, and the uniformed boys and girls in the van add to the brilliance of the spectacle.

4-H Band of 50 Pieces Plays.

And now music. Behind the van marches the 50 piece 4-H club band of Hamilton county, Iowa, playing a lilting marching song that blends into the songs of the states as platoon after platoon of bright faced youngsters step proudly into the focus of the lights.

The Iowa Corn Song is changing now into something else. You get the cue as the first line of the next platoon comes into view. Sombreros and bandanas—and The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You. More eyes are upon these marching youngsters than most of them have ever seen before. Every seat in the amphitheater is occupied and the overflow crowd is standing three and four deep around the barricade.

Now the Kansans with Sunflower standards, smartly swinging their swagger canes in cadence with the music. Cheering is almost incessant now, swelling in volume as some state or territory takes the fancy of the throng. The little girl who marched alone, bearing the standard of the Hawaiian territory all but stopped the show.

1,500 Stand in Ranks.

Finally the marching and countermarching is at an end and the 1,500 stand in ranks along the center of the great oval. The Iowa band is silent and the Stock show's symphony band plays the opening strains of "America." Boys and girls first, then the audience join in the anthem.

Two verses are sung with a volume that fills the great amphitheater, then abruptly, silence. The Iowa band takes up the theme of its marching song and again the arena is a scene of colorful movement. Before the audience has realized it, the big moment of the 38th International Live Stock show, is over.

When the marchers broke ranks behind the scenes, most of them went back to their prized charges who line the ailes of the building, or back to their exhibits of the field and of the household. But today most of them will be remembering another

THE ROBBERY DIVISION BANKRUPTS THRIVING WATCHMAN SERVICE

Though their equipment was limited, the partners Roach and Harrison were definitly successful. Rufus Roach was head of the Roach and Harrison watchman service and had as his clients neighborhood drug and grocery stores. John Harrison was head of the armed robbery division and held up neighborhood stores, but usually avoided the ones Roach guarded. This was a bow to ethics.

The firm had only one pistol, which Harrison would borrow from the watchman, returning it after the night's work was done. Last Wednesday night, however, Harrison did not return with the gun. He had been intercepted by police as he fled from Leon Garvey's drug store at 101 East 35th street with $15 of Mr. Garvey's money. Harrison did not tell police until Sunday about his business connections. It was not until early yesterday, therefore, that Roach was arrested. And he might not have confessed, except that the victim of their one unethical robbery identified them both. The victim was Joseph Fishman, druggist at 239 East 51st street, who had once subscribed to the watchman service. Roach and Harrison are colored.

FRITZ KREISLER RECITAL HALTED BY A GAS BOMB

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Explosion of a tear gas bomb, dropped by an unidentified person, interrupted a recital by Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, at the University of Michigan tonight.

Spreading fumes from the bomb caused many in the audience of 5,000 to leave their seats hastily. Kreisler, who just had finished a Bach Concerto when the bomb exploded, took the interruption good-naturedly, resuming his recital after a five minute delay. The bomb was regarded as a college prank.

An Editor Goes Into the Woods to Find Solace

Magnus A. Arnold would tell you that he never was much of a hunter; never cared for hunting. He likes the outdoors but only as a place to take walks and relax from his work as associate editor of the Graphic Arts monthly, 608 South Dearborn street. A month ago he went on vacation, choosing so remote a spot that only yesterday did news of him trickle back to Chicago.

The place Mr. Arnold chose was the Chris Bliese preserves, seven miles west of Phillips, Price county, Wisconsin. For three uneventful weeks he hibernated, strolling occasionally through the somber woodlands.

Last Wednesday morning was much like other Wednesday mornings in the north woods until Mr. Arnold heard a muffled cry for help.

Locked in Deadly Embrace.

He hurried deeper among the trees and came upon a scene one seldom encounters in the graphic arts business. Locked in the deadly embrace of a great black bear was a woodcutter, who apparently had been surprised by the beast while felling a tree. He was beating weakly with a stick at the bear's head and calling for help.

Now to be an editor, one must be observing. Mr. Arnold observed that the woodcutter's ax lay beside the notched tree. He observed that the bear had not yet become aware of him. As Bruin waltzed away with the woodcutter, the editor picked up the ax and followed warily.

Precision Does It.

His first blow would have to do the work. A glancing lick might carom off the bear's skull and complete the billiard on the woodcutter's. This would be bad, both for the woodcutter and Mr. Arnold. So, though the victim's cries were growing weaker, the editor bided his time, because an editor must also be precise.

Then the moment came. Bruin's back was turned and his 455 pound bulk shielded the man. Mr. Arnold swung the ax in a vicious arc, striking the beast precisely between the ears and reducing Wisconsin's bear population by one.

Eric Hoagland, the woodcutter, said it was the neatest piece of work with a pole ax that he had ever seen. Mr. Arnold was pleased, but said he wasn't much of an axman or hunter either, for that matter. But few men can slay a bear and remain unmoved.

To the Victor, the Spoils.

The Chicago editor finally got around to feeling a bit proud of himself and arranged to have the late Bruin dragged in to be skinned. But when he returned to the spot with helpers, Mr. Arnold made the acquaintance of one Harold Thornwald, a deputy game warden who arrested him for killing a bear out of season. They went into the town of Phillips and the charge was filed.

But just as the editor was preparing to post bail, Mr. Hoagland arrived from the doctor's, where his two broken ribs had been taped up. His moving account of Mr. Arnold's prowess with a pole ax moved authorities to dismiss the charge.

"And now," inquired the editor, "and now, do I get my bear?"

"Have you got a hunting license?" asked Deputy Warden Thornwald.

"Nope," said Thornwald.

CHAMPION KENTUCKY PAPPY WANTS ALL 30 OF HIS BROOD HOME

Whitesburg, Ky., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The champion pappy of Kentucky has started a roundup of his 30 surviving sons and daughters. Two are dead. The father is John D. Sloan, a former coal miner of Kona.

Sloan knows where 13 of his children can be found. They are at home, but the other 17 are scattered. Three sons and three daughters are in the far west, the others are somewhere in Kentucky. "I would like to get them all to come home once more," Sloan said. "I have set March 20, next year, for the homecoming. It will be the greatest day of the mountains."

There are three sets of twins and one set of triplets in the Sloan family. The youngest is 3½ years old. The oldest is a son, 52. The father is 69 years old. He has been married three times and had nine children by his first wife, twelve by his second, and eleven by his present wife.

Roosevelt Asks U.S. to Back Scheme for 16 Billion.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—A 16 billion dollar home building scheme, backed by the credit of the government, which President Roosevelt submitted to congress today as a panacea for the new depression, was received with mingled faith and skepticism. The program calls for 4 million new homes.

Most of the Democrats praised it as a triumph of statesmanship that will revive business and restore confidence. The Republicans and a few Democrats viewed it as impracticable in important particulars and a dangerous hypothecation of government credit.

Under Mr. Roosevelt's plan for the government to insure 90 per cent of each mortgage, any one able to make a down payment of 10 per cent, the equivalent of a year's rent, could build a home with reasonable assurance of occupying it rent free for four or five years before losing it by foreclosure, it was pointed out.

Predicts Flood of Foreclosures.

"There will be a terrific number of foreclosures," said Representative Charles L. Gifford [R., Mass.], a real estate dealer, "and the United States government will become the greatest landlord of all times."

Many critics pronounced the scheme merely another poultice for economic sores. They ascribed the new depression to the rise of production costs and prices, produced by the Roosevelt inflation devices and labor policies, and to government intimidation of private enterprise, which the President would now remedy, not by removal of the causes, but by application of artificial stimulants.

"The President's message," said Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], "is excellent as far as it goes. I support his specific housing suggestions — particularly his proposal that conferences between capital and labor shall reduce unit building costs by aiming at a larger annual wage in the building trades instead of higher hourly wages.

Not Enough, Says Vandenberg.

"But I have no illusions that these new schemes alone will revive the building industry. It is integrated with the whole business situation. Jobless workers cannot buy or repair homes at any price. Frightened and hamstrung capital cannot finance construction on any basis.

"Our need is to treat this dangerous recession as a whole, with a forthright abandonment of past and present errors and a forthright proof of purpose to give prosperity a chance. My own view of these necessities was

Democrat Calls On Party to Correct Its Own Error.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Placing responsibility for the business slump and the increase of unemployment on punitive taxes, Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, tonight called on the Roosevelt administration to acknowledge its mistakes and proceed to correct them.

Pat Harrison.

Senator Harrison, whose committee handles all revenue legislation in the senate, said the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax not only have affected adversely the government's revenues, since they reached the point of diminishing returns, but have retarded industrial progress and contributed to unemployment.

The finance committee chairman, speaking over a nation-wide radio network, pledged himself to do everything possible for the relief of business and industry from the repressive operations of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.

Points to Coöperation.

However, he made it clear that relief from the punitive taxes cannot be expected at the present special session. Under the constitution, he pointed out, the senate must wait for the house to originate revenue legislation. He said the senate committee is coöperating with the ways and means committee of the house and all are working toward one goal and trying to do the job as expeditiously as the magnitude of the task will permit.

Harrison also said the people should not be encouraged to expect retroactive provisions in the tax modifications, since many corporations already have distributed their 1937 profits in dividends and others will do so by Dec. 15.

It would not be fair, the senator declared, to penalize these corporations and favor others which might be able to take advantage of retroactive provisions.

Admit Mistake, He Urges.

Harrison bluntly called on the proponents of the punitive tax legislation, which, as chairman of the finance committee, he never did favor, to acknowledge their mistake. The theory of the undistributed profits tax was advocated by Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, former No. 1 brain truster, in a book called "The Industrial Discipline" back in 1933. The tax was demanded by President Roosevelt in a message to congress last year, and its chief proponent before the ways and means and finance committees was Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the treasury department.

"As it is the duty of the taxpayer to deal fairly with his government, it is likewise the duty of a public servant to be fair toward the taxpayer," Senator Harrison declared.

"If those who formulate a government policy, either through legislative enactment or administration, have made a mistake which works injustices to the taxpayer or injuriously affects government receipts, then the mistake should be acknowledged and corrected.

Finds Benefits Outweighed.

"However high and laudable may be the purpose of certain policies, and however attractive they may appear theoretically, sometimes, as a practical matter, the injurious effects are greater than the benefits sought."

Senator Harrison said he was one of those who recognized, when the so-called undistributed profits tax was proposed in 1936, that it was an unfair practice for certain corporations to accumulate huge surpluses in order to prevent the payment of individual surtaxes by their stockholders. But he added:

"Experience has shown, and to me it has been shown conclusively, that while the law corrected some improper practices of a few corporations, it has worked tremendous hard-ships upon many others. In other words, for each corporation which has been justly penalized by this tax there are probably a hundred which have been unjustly penalized because, for legal or moral reasons, they could not distribute their earnings in dividends. The result has added confusion to the economic life of the country, and to many of our fine American citizens it has been most disheartening and discouraging.

"It is a harsh and unwise policy for the government to compel a corporation that may be giving employment to hundreds of thousands of men and women to declare its earnings in the form of dividends to its stockholders when it needs such earnings to perpetuate the employment of those people.

"If the corporation has sufficient reserves to meet these necessities, then well and good; but when the corporation is without reserves, and there are thousands of them, and we require the profits made to carry a punitive tax when used to pay its legitimate obligations or to improve or enlarge its plant, then the policy is wrong and must be corrected."

Recalling the government has expended billions of dollars for unemployment relief, resulting in a necessity for new taxes, Senator Harrison said the unemployment problem is still unsolved.

Looks to Business for Help.

"If the unemployment problem is to be solved, and solved soundly and permanently," he declared, "it must be through the whole-hearted coöperation of private business. I believe, therefore, that an incentive should be given to business to take up as much as possible of the slack of employment.

"We cannot give this incentive by excessive or punitive taxes. If such a tax is imposed upon an industry as to make it impossible for it to pay its debts or to expand its business, serious consequences result.

"Business expansion will not only bring about increased employment in the construction of added plant facilities, but it will also bring about substantial and continuous employment in the operation of such added plant facilities.

"As new people are employed in new industries, to that extent persons are taken from the relief rolls and necessary governmental expenditure to aid unemployment is thereby lessened. And, as private industry prospers, more revenue comes in to the government and less money goes out in relief."

Tax Demands Continue.

Despite the contention of congressional leaders that tax relief cannot be granted before the regular session convenes in January, the overwhelming demand for immediate action continues in both houses.

Representative Alfred F. Beiter [D., N. Y.] today introduced a petition to discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of his bill to repeal the capital gains tax.

'DICTATORSHIP' IS CRY AS HOUSE GETS FARM BILL

Heated Attacks Continue in Senate.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—A warning that the administration is seeking a new dictatorship over American agriculture, more complete and dangerous than the false regimentation schemes of the past, was sounded before the house of representatives today at the outset of a three day debate on the farm bill.

Representative August H. Andresen [R., Minn.], minority member of the house agricultural committee which had reported the measure, ripped into the new farm legislation as "unsound, unworkable and un-American." The plan would not only dislocate the nation's economic balance, the Minnesotan charged, but the farmer himself would become the prey of "tens of thousands of political minded agricultural G-men out measuring and weighing and snooping and examining."

Senate Continues Debate.

While the house began consideration of its bill, the senate launched into its second week of debate over a farm measure which supporters were still attempting to explain and the cost of which was still a mystery.

Although house and senate bills differ in some details both schemes provide for marketing quotas, acreage allotments, stiff penalties for overproduction or disposal of quota excesses, and other forms of control. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace would be the supreme ruler over the producers of these commodities.

The house bill was introduced by Representative Marvin Jones [D., Tex.], chairman of the agricultural committee. Jones expounded his [and the administration's] theories. These included the reasoning that Thomas Jefferson had pronounced all men equal 160 years ago and that the farmers had failed to obtain their share under the high tarifs of past regimes.

Texan Defends Bill.

"In making an appropriation out of the United States treasury for a farm program," shouted Jones, "we are not giving the farmers anything, we are simply making restitution and restoring the ancient fundamental of our government."

Andresen immediately took the floor to answer Jones. On one side of the wall of the house he mounted a large map of the United States showing the sections of the nation where corn, wheat, cotton, rice, and tobacco, the commodities the administration is seeking to control, are grown.

"The compulsory sections of this bill rather than encouraging and giving the farmers the benefit of the philosophy of our forefathers will work in just the opposite direction," asserted Andresen. "They will not only lower prices on the things the farmer has to sell, but they will take away from him his world markets on the exportable surplus that it is necessary for him to sell if he is going to maintain any parity whatever in his farming operations."

Recalls Roosevelt Mistakes.

Andresen recalled the mistaken panaceas of the Roosevelt administration in the past and warned of similar disasters in the future. He complained of the imports of 10 million pounds of butter, 42 million pounds of cheese, hundreds of millions of pounds of competitive vegetable oils and fats, an unprecedented condition caused by the imposition of an economy of scarcity on the nation. He said the bill was complicated and impossible to understand.

In the senate debate today, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, interrupted Senator John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.] to present what he called "startling" figures on the loss of our cotton export market.

Cotton Exports Decline.

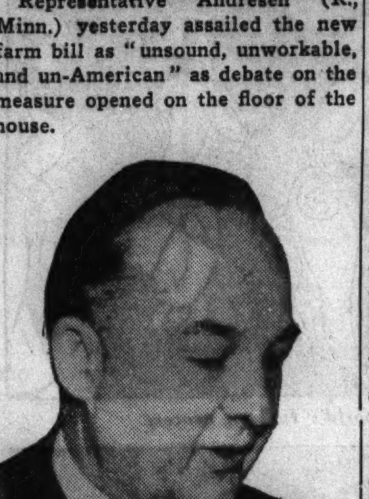
In the marketing years 1932-1933, before the AAA's plow up campaign and the enactment of the Bankhead compulsory production scheme, McNary asserted, the United States exported 7,700,000 bales of cotton. The exports dropped thereafter to 6,300,000 bales in 1933-1934, 6,000,000 bales in 1934-1935, 4,555,000 bales in 1936-1937, and an estimated 3,000,000 bales in 1937-1938.

Senator Smith [S., S. C.], known as "Cotton Ed," chairman of the committee that drafted the "ever normal granary" proposal, shouted personal disapproval of it.

Clash on Farm Bill

(Story in adjoining column.)

Representative Andresen (R., Minn.) yesterday assailed the new farm bill as "unsound, unworkable, and un-American" as debate on the measure opened on the floor of the house.



Representative Marvin Jones (D., Tex.) who introduced the bill. He defended the administration for "making an appropriation out of the United States treasury for a farm program."

ATTACKS MOUNT ON WAGE BILL TO DOMINATE LABOR

Farmers Add Voice to Opposition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—A scathing indictment of the administration's scheme for political regulation of wages and hours was made today by Representative Claude A. Fuller [D., Ark.]. He declared the plan would create "a drastic autocratic dictatorial board of five members, clothed with authority to direct the destinies of the farmers, the laborer, small merchants, and the industries of America."

Representative Fuller asserted that if the bill became law the bureaucracy of the old NRA would be restored as a constant nightmare to business and industry.

Will Be Enormous Bureau.

"It will take an army of employés, larger than any bureau now in existencen," Fuller declared, "to formulate codes and enforce the law, including rules and regulations of the board which will carry fines and jail sentences.

"Such delegation of authority is an acknowledgment of lack of ability to legislate except through dictatorial boards, the membership of which, with its multiplied thousands of employés, are not responsible to the people, and could not be elected to any office.

At the end of the day's session a total of 188 names of house members had been affixed to a petition to force the measure out of the rules committee, where it has remained through the efforts of southern congressmen, and to bring it to the floor for debate and action. A majority of the house, or 218 signatures, is required.

Farm Organization Opposed.

A letter opposing the measure pending before the house has been sent to all members, by the National Grange, the National Coöperative council, and National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation. These organizations characterized the bill as "a piece of revolutionary legislation that violates the principles of democracy and good government." Such a plan would hinder the cause of workers rather than help them, the letter declared.

"We are in accord with the American Federation of Labor in opposing the creation of an appointive board of five men that would have the power of life and death over all industries affecting interstate commerce," stated the letter.

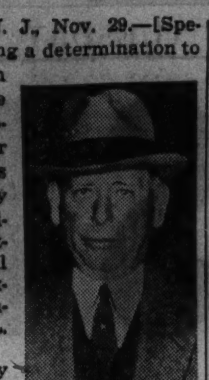
Police of Jersey City Drive Out Forty CIO Organizers

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Announcing a determination to avoid a repetition here of violence the C. I. O. provoked in other states, authorities today summarily halted the organization's first attempt to marshal Jersey City workers under the banner of John L. Lewis.



Mayor Frank Hague.

Police quickly broke up a demonstration launched by the C. I. O. as a showdown. Forty C. I. O. representatives were escorted out of the city. Thirteen organizers were arrested. Seven were given immediate trials and sent to jail for five days each.

The police acted under orders of Mayor Frank Hague, Democratic boss of New Jersey. The mayor frequently has indicated his antipathy toward communists and the C. I. O., which has been warned to keep its organization activities outside Hague's balliwick.

Leaders Defy Authorities.

After their setback C. I. O. leaders declared open war and ordered hundreds of organizers into the city to enlist workers in their organization in defiance of authorities. They declared they would seek a federal court injunction to restrain police from interfering with the distribution of handbills.

The C. I. O. campaign began early this morning. Organizers marched in a body to a Riverside industrial building, where they began handing out literature urging workers to join their organization. A police squad quickly arrived, confiscated the pamphlets, and ordered the crowd to disperse.

Four leaders of the contingent were arrested. Some of their followers spread through the city to distribute bills in other districts. Special details of policemen hunted them in the business area. Other C. I. O. members straggled back to headquarters and voted to march to the police station and protest the arrests.

Officers met them more than half way on this march. As the demonstrators poured out of their building they found the street blocked by police. Forty C. I. O. representatives were rounded up and driven to the city limits. Nine others were arrested.

Seven Sent to Jail.

Seven of those in custody were immediately arraigned in court and sent to jail for five days on charges of violating an ordinance against distributing leaflets. The six others, charged with unlawful assembly, were held by Judge Anthony Botti in $1,000 bail each for the grand jury.

From the bench Judge Botti characterized William J. Carney, a C. I. O. regional director who organized the showdown campaign, as an "inciter of riots,"

EVANSTON POLICE JAIL THEIR MAN ON 38TH ARREST

Evanston police smiled triumphantly last night. They had locked up Albert Ware with an excellent chance of keeping him locked up all night. It was the first time anything like this had happened in the history of the Evanston police vs. Ware in eleven years, thirty-eight arrests, and fines totaling $327.

From May, 1929, until last night Ware, who is colored, was arrested thirty-seven times on various charges, but each time he managed to provide bail, pay his fines, and stay out of jail. He was arrested three times last week on charges of violating fire laws at his establishment, and each time he promptly put up $200 bail. But last night the police were wiser. They had discovered that under the fire law Ware could be held without bail until the next court hearing, which is today.

FIRST CATCH OF TRIP IS MADE BY PRESIDENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt caught a fish today within two hours after he embarked on his Carribean fishing cruise. It was the first catch by any of his party. James Roosevelt, his son and secretary, radioed the news to the temporary White House at the Miami-Biltmore hotel.

A light fog hung over the city when Mr. Roosevelt arrived at 8:45 a. m. on his special train. Streets were lined with vacationists and residents eager to look upon a President.

During his week's fishing cruise, Mr. Roosevelt will in odd moments confer with Assistant Attorney General Robert L. Jackson on revision of the anti-trust laws and with Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, and WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins on subjects affecting their departments. He will return to Washington about Dec. 9 by way of Warm Springs, Ga.

STATE TO PRESS MURDER CHARGE AGAINST YOUTH

Efforts to obtain a murder indictment against Paul Reeder, 18 years old, a problem boy, for the killing of Raymond Sedlacek, Oak Park store clerk, will be made before the grand jury as soon as Sedlacek's mother, Rose, 48 years old, recovers from gunshot wounds. She was wounded when her son was slain in Reeder's robbery attempt.

Meanwhile, officials were considering ways to prevent a repetition of the mixup that enabled Reeder to go free, continue his crime career and finally kill.

FIND KEY WITNESS AFTER VICE LORD WINS LENIENCY

Girl Returns to New York from Chicago.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—On Nov. 16 District Attorney William C. Dodge, Tammany protégé whose term is drawing to an end, permitted Nick Montana, the overlord of New York's vice industry, to plead guilty to a misdemeanor instead of standing trial for a felony, carrying a penalty of 25 years in prison. This was, said Mr. Dodge, "a bargain for the people"; it was impossible to convict Montana without a key witness, Beverly Reynolds—and it was impossible to find Beverly.

Today, Miss Reynolds, brunette "call girl" who had testified at a previous trial of Montana that he negotiated with her to enter a house of ill fame and collected from 10 to 20 per cent of her earnings from prostitution, arrived in New York and announced that she hadn't been hard to find. She merely was staying in Chicago and wasn't aware that anybody wanted her here until a newspaper reporter told her about it

Sentence Is Delayed.

Her arrival prevented the sentencing of Montana to an indeterminate sentence that will not in any event exceed three years. Mr. Dodge appeared before Judge Charles C. Nott Jr., who had accepted Montana's plea of guilty to the misdemeanor, and announced that Miss Reynolds had been found. At his request the sentencing was delayed until Dec. 6.

Then, angrily, Mr. Dodge declared that an evening newspaper was holding the important witness in custody. The newspaper a little later confirmed this. One of its reporters had learned from a sister in Beverly Reynolds' home town of Mason City, Ia., that she was at 9 North Carpenter street, Chicago. The reporter went there and at his request the young woman accompanied him to New York.

It had taken one man, without police aid, eight days to find the witness that Mr. Dodge's vast organization had failed to discover in what Assistant District Attorney Charles Pilatsky had called "a nation-wide search."

Threatens to Cite Editor.

In the afternoon Miss Reynolds and an attorney called on the district attorney. Mr. Dodge sent both before the grand jury. Then he fulminated that he would have the editor, the city editor, and the reporter of the afternoon paper before the same body tomorrow to determine whether there was a "conspiracy to obstruct justice."

Montana, who is said to have shared in the earnings of 1,000 women in the vice districts, was found guilty of compulsory prostitution two years ago. The penalty for the crime is 25 to 50 years in prison. But on July 16 this year the Appellate court division overruled the conviction and ordered a new trial for Montana.

While he was awaiting trial he threatened to "blow the works against any officials that try to frame me again." In view of this there was some surprise when Mr. Dodge appeared in court and personally gave his consent to let Montana plead guilty to living off the proceeds of prostitution, a misdemeanor count in the indictment against him.

State Spends $100,000.

It was estimated that the state had spent $100,000 in an endeavor to convict Montana on the more serious charge, and it was the district attorney's contention that the guilty plea was, therefore, a bargain for the taxpayers.

Thomas E. Dewey, special rackets prosecutor, who has been elected to succeed Dodge in his post, continued today to question witnesses before an extraordinary grand jury, seeking to strengthen his charges that County Clerk Albert Marinelli, a Tammany district leader, is unfit for office. Dewey, who becomes prosecutor Jan. 1, has described Marinelli as an associate of thugs and racketeers. He has asked Gov. Lehmann to remove the county clerk, whose term expires Dec. 31, from office.

Remove 87 Foot Derrick in Fighting Gas Well Fire

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 29.—(AP)—An 87 foot steel derrick, turned to white heat and in danger of falling in a roaring gas well fire, was dismantled tonight while workmen battled flames which started yesterday in an explosion which burned eleven men. A pipeline a half mile long was run from the Pocatalico river to carry water to the 10,000,000 cubic foot well on a farm near Sissonville. Chemicals also were used on the sixty foot flames.

Loses Plea for New Trial on Medical Quack Charge

Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton, sitting in the county court here yesterday, denied a motion for a new trial for Joseph DeYoung, 56 years old, of Thornton, who was fined $125 on Nov. 4 for posing as a physician. His attorney, James Barbour, former state senator, said he would appeal to the Illinois Supreme court. He contended that the practice of naprapathy, in which he said his client was engaged, was not a violation of the medical practice act.

Anna doesn't speak English, but the Travelers society is caring for her and continuing the search.

MORRO CASTLE CAPTAIN'S SHIP RUNS AGROUND

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The freighter Cauto, the first ship on which William F. Warms has sailed since his last command, the Morro Castle, burned with a loss of 134 lives three years ago, was lying helpless near Puerto, Mexico, tonight.

Capt. W. F. Warms.

The Ward line ship ran aground on a breakwater while an attempt was being made to take her into the channel without a pilot. Part of the crew was taken ashore. The first mate, Cayo Mambi, was drowned in launching a boat. Although the ship was being pounded by heavy seas, it was said it was in no immediate danger.

Warms, who was captain of the ill fated Morro Castle at the time of the tragedy off the New Jersey coast, is second officer of the Cauto. No passengers were on board the freighter.

G. O. P. EXECUTIVE GROUP MEETS IN ST. LOUIS DEC. 13

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The executive committee of the Republican national committee will meet in St. Louis Dec. 13 to consider chairmanship and membership of the program committee, John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the national committee, announced today.

The original plan was to hold this meeting at French Lick Springs, Ind., but objections by western members to going there caused the change.

The formation of a program committee of 100 to draft a declaration of party principles was authorized by the national committee at its meeting in Chicago, Nov. 5.

This committee will draw up a series of planks that will define the party's stand on important questions and present them to the national committee March 1. Then the national committee will decide whether to call a national conference for their adoption or adopt some other way of making them public.

FIRST OF 70 NEW BUSES ARRIVE IN CITY NEXT WEEK

Open Top Doubledeckers to Be Scrapped.

The first deliveries of seventy new buses ordered by the Chicago Motor Coach company last spring are expected next week, Benjamin Weintraub, vice president, announced yesterday. All the buses, consisting of forty double deck and thirty single deck units, should be delivered by the middle of January, he said.

The last of the open top double deck buses still used by the company will be scrapped after the new units are put in service, Weintraub said. There are about eighty of these old vehicles still in service.

Part of Modernizing Program.

The new buses, costing more than a million dollars, will supplement 3 million dollars worth of equipment purchased since a modernization program was started by the coach company two and a half years ago. Approximately 80 per cent of all passengers will be carried in modern buses after next January, according to Weintraub.

The additional double deck buses will bring to 140 the number of new vehicles of this type operated by the company. The number of new single deck buses purchased in the last two and a half years, including those now being built, is 148. General Motors Truck corporation is building the new buses at Pontiac, Mich.

Improve North Side Service.

Weintraub said that local service on north side lines will be improved with the delivery of the new buses. It is planned that the new double deck vehicles will be placed in service on the Addison street line. Two-thirds of the 45 single deck buses now in use on Addison street and the new ones now on order will be used to improve local north side service, he said.

The new buses will be paid for on long term instalment financing. The company will pay 10 per cent down and the balance over a seven year period with interest at 4¼ per cent. The financing period coincides with the depreciation policy of the company, which provides for the retirement of the vehicles after seven years of service.

YOUNG G.O.P. CLUB ADVISED TO TAKE THE OFFENSIVE

About 500 members of the Cook County Young Republican organization dined at the La Salle hotel last night and heard Thomas J. Downs, national committeeman of the Young Republican Organization of Illinois, refer to President Roosevelt as "the White House quarter back who made a touchdown from kickoff last year and since then thinks he is the whole team."

"He is now on the defensive, and it's our ball," Downs said. "It is no time to fumble. Let's tie the score in 1938 and go ahead and win in 1940. The only refuge from tyranny, bankruptcy, and malfeasance this country has is in its traditional two-party government. The Republican party offers the only available means for that safety to which the people are entitled."

Richard Nowinson, chairman of the Cook County Young Republicans, presided, and other speakers included Edward F. Moore, chairman of the county central committee; Fred Lundin, and Miss Katherine Ford.

Youth Hired Because He's Starving Robs Benefactor

Two weeks ago a shabbily dressed colored youth entered the National restaurant, 5442 South Halsted street, and begged Louis Djikus, the owner, for a job, saying he was starving. MRS. MORELLA OLDHAM LEHMANN.

In a bill for separate maintenance filed in Superior court yesterday Mrs. Morella Oldham Lehmann charged her husband, George W. Lehmann, grandson of the founder of The Fair store, with cruelty and asked for suitable support for herself and her son, George W. Jr., 6 weeks old.

Mrs. Lehmann's attorney, Benjamin B. Davis, said that later this week he will move for the granting of temporary alimony. Mrs. Lehmann, who is 27 years old and a former queen of the Michigan cherry festival, lives at the Embassy hotel, 2756 Pine Grove avenue. Lehmann, who is 25, lives at the Park Lane hotel, 2842 Sheridan road. They were married Dec. 7, 1936.

In her bill Mrs. Lehmann alleges that her husband struck her at the home of friends on Dec. 31 of last year and that earlier this year, on a plane trip to Mexico City, he abused her and was so drunk that the air line put them off the plane at Kansas City and refunded the passage money. In 1931 Lehmann married Miss Louise Miles, but the marriage was annuled a few months later.

MACHADO LOSER OF FIRST FIGHT ON EXTRADITION

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Gerardo Machado, former president of Cuba, today lost two court battles in his fight against extradition to his native country for trial on murder and embezzlement charges. The former strong man, who was deposed in the 1933 revolution, is under guard in a hospital.

In a stormy, informal session, United States Commissioner Garret W. Cotter denied a motion for dismissal of an application for his extradition to Cuba. The commissioner ordered a bedside arraignment of Machado at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

A short time later Federal Judge John C. Knox denied an application for a writ of habeas corpus. Counsel for Machado sought to remove him from the twenty-four hour surveillance to which he has been subjected since he was arrested Friday.

SUES ALEX. KIRK, STOCK BROKER, FOR A DIVORCE

Mrs. Clara Hollis Kirk, 936 Lake Shore drive, daughter of Henry L. Hollis, manager of the Potter Palmer estate, filed suit for divorce yesterday in Circuit court from Alexander Kirk, a stock broker at 231 South La Salle street. The bill charges desertion. Attorney J. H. Cartwright of the firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, who filed the suit, said the couple married Sept. 14, 1927, and that Kirk deserted his wife Nov. 23, 1936. They have no children.

YOUTHFUL BANDITS ROB BAKERY.

OPEN HEARINGS ON WAGES PAID FOR PWA WORK

Contractor Cited Under New Labor Act.

Administrators of the Walsh-Healy act regulating labor relations of government contractors yesterday began hearing their first big case in the midwest.

Julian L. Johnson, department of labor examiner is hearing, and John H. Powers, another federal examiner, is prosecuting, a complaint that the Beverly Improvement company, black earth contractors of Argo, violated this labor act in supplying black earth for PWA and WPA park projects in ten contracts totaling $600,000. The hearing, in the new postoffice building, will last about a week.

Inquiry by State Department.

The complaint was authorized by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins following an investigation by the Illinois department of labor. The Beverly company is charged with failure to pay time and a half for overtime on contract labor, as provided by the Walsh-Healy act.

The act provides three means of forcing government contractors to live up to its wage and hour provisions.

On the basis of the examiner's finding the labor department's director of contracts may [1] take any amount still due the contractor and pay the employes, [2] give the contract to another company and charge the difference in cost to the offender, or [3] bar the contractor from government contract bidding for three years. The company may appeal first to the public contracts board and then to the United States district court.

Question Truck Drivers' Status.

Yesterday's testimony was confined to independent truck drivers whom the Beverly company pays by the load, in an attempt to determine whether they should be included along with shovel men and other laborers as regular employes and thus benefactors of the government's suit. If classed as sub-contractors, these truckers would be outside Walsh-Healy jurisdiction.

APPRAISERS GET BUSY ON AIRPORT PRICE FIXING JOB

John R. O'Connor, appraiser for the city in the proceedings to acquire property needed for the expansion of the Chicago airport, and Ernest H. Lyons, appraiser for Raymond E. Herman, owner of the needed property, conferred briefly yesterday. Both said they expected to have several more meetings within the next few days and hoped to be able to report progress soon. Lyons said they discussed preliminary matters yesterday and examined sale prices of other property in the vicinity of the airport. O'Connor said Lyons asked him to have patience.

DUKE REFUSES TO APPROVE BOOK ABOUT HIS LIFE

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The duke of Windsor's attorney said today that the duke "has no intention of approving the contents of any biography that may be written about him, nor is his royal highness prepared to supply information for such biography." The statement came after announcement by the publishing firm of Rich & Cowan that negotiations had been undertaken to have an authorized life of the duke written by Compton MacKenzie, Scottish novelist and historian.

JAPANESE CHASE FLEEING CHINESE TOWARD NANKING

Three More Strongholds Seized by Invaders.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 30.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Japan's army today reported its columns were pursuing retreating Chinese to fortified lines close to Nanking itself after capture of three important strongholds.

Harried by heavy aerial bombardment, the Chinese were reported falling back to the line of Chinkiang-Tanyang-Kintan, forty to sixty miles east and southeast of Nanking, China's almost deserted capital.

Far to the south the desperate Chinese right wing stalled Japanese progress from Hangchow bay. On the north the Kiangyin forts, overlooking the mighty Yangtze river, were stubbornly held, although outflanked and threatened with momentary capture.

Japanese Push On.

But elsewhere the story was of almost unimpeded Japanese progress. Kiangyin city—not the forts—Wutsin and Ihing had fallen to Japanese columns which moved on westward into the heart of China, leaving their rising sun flags fluttering from pagodas and postoffices in captured towns.

In their westward drive the Japanese benefited greatly from railways and motor roads forming some of the most valued accomplishments of the Chinese republic.

The main column advancing along the Nanking-Shanghai railway after seizing Wutsin was approaching Tanyang, 60 miles from Nanking. The column which took Ihing was marching along the Hangchow-Nanking motor road with only three undefended villages between it and Liyang.

Another column reported it was engaged only eight miles east of Kwangteh, stronghold in eastern Anhwei province.

Bomb Troop Concentrations.

Japanese planes bombarded Chinese concentrations at Tanyang, Kintan, and Kwangteh and junks carrying troops and supplies up the Yangtze toward Chinkiang. Ihing, Wutsin, and Wusih were reported in flames. Japanese bombs and retreating Chinese troops alike were blamed for the fires.

Japanese officers said they were moving troops in large numbers across Lake Tai to reinforce the columns converging on Nanking and Wuhu, Anhwei port on the Yangtze 55 miles above Nanking.

Although the Japanese were rapidly approaching Wuhu, 24 Americans and several other foreigners remained there with the United States gunboat Oahu standing by to aid their evacuation in case of need.

Refugees Stream from Nanking.

The United States gunboat Panay, stationed off Nanking, reported to the flagship Augusta, at Shanghai, that Nanking was quiet although refugees were streaming from the city and crowding upriver vessels.

In Shanghai the tense international situation arising from Japan's seizure of all Chinese communications facilities and efforts to gain control of the Chinese maritime customs was somewhat eased.

It was reported foreign officials of the customs service and Japanese had reached an agreement which would permit resumption of virtually normal cargo landings in the port of Shanghai. Previously the customs had refused to authorize cargo landings in the Japanese-occupied sections of Yangtzepoo, Hongkew, and Pootung, in which the major docks are located.

Foreigners Moved to Hulk.

NANKING, Nov. 29.—(AP)—As a precautionary measure, 82 foreigners remaining in Nanking were moved today to a hulk near the United States gunboat Panay and the British gunboat Cricket.

Anglo-American naval authorities considered it advisable that the foreigners spend nights aboard the hulk, going ashore days rather than risk a last minute mass departure. Hulks or old boats, anchored in the river, are used to facilitate landing from other boats.

American authorities were facing the most difficult evacuation problem because 32 missionaries, news reel men, and newspaper correspondents out of 42 here were reported determined to remain until the last minute. Some insisted upon staying even if the Japanese capture the capital.

30 Chinese Planes Destroyed.

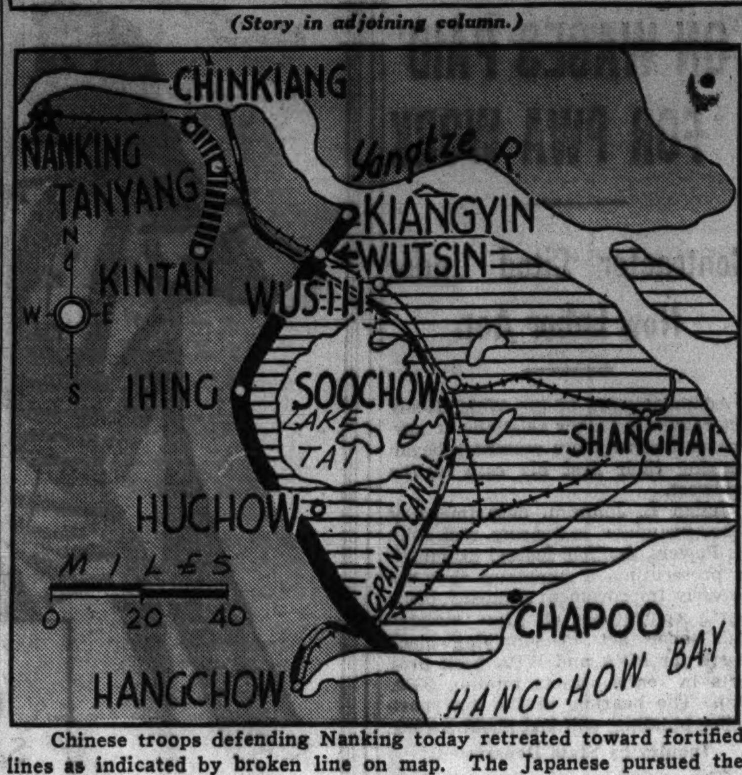
HONGKONG, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Domei [Japanese] news agency reported today 30 Chinese airplanes, recently purchased from England, were destroyed when Japanese airmen bombed Pokwan and Tienho airdromes in Kwangtung province.

Chinese Bandits Kidnap Two Italian Missionaries

TOKIO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Domei [Japanese] News agency reported today in a dispatch from Taiyuanfu, China, that Chinese bandits had kidnaped two Italian missionaries and were holding them for a ransom of $29,000.

Japs Pursue Chinese Toward Nanking

(Story in adjoining column.)



Chinese troops defending Nanking today retreated toward fortified lines as indicated by broken line on map. The Japanese pursued the fleeing enemy and bombed the troops from the air. Three more Chinese strongholds, Kiangyin, Wutsin, and Ihing, were captured. Black line shows the Japanese battle line. Ruled portion indicates area conquered by the invaders.

DUCE RECOGNIZES MANCHUKUO, JAP PUPPET EMPIRE

Rome Honors Anti-Red Pact with Tokio.

ROME, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Italy today honored its anti-communism pact with Japan by formal recognition of Manchukuo, the so-called independent empire Japan carved out of Chinese Manchuria in 1932.

The action legalized Italy's virtual recognition of Manchukuo last January, a month after Japan had accorded de facto recognition to the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

Ciano Sends Message.

Italy announced the step in a cable from Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign minister to Foreign Minister Koki Hirota of Japan. The message said:

"I am happy to inform your excellency this government has decided to give formal recognition to Manchukuo and to install a legation in that state. The Italian consul general at Mukden will be charged with notifying the Manchukuo government of this decision."

A second message was sent to the Manchukuo foreign minister by Ciano with best wishes for the future "in the moment of commencement of regular relations between our two countries."

"Realties" Recognized.

Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor, and regarded as Premier Mussolini's spokesman declared Italy was recognizing "realities." The move was the latest of the growing friendship between Italy and Japan as evidenced by the Italian-German-Japanese pact against communism and Italy's support of Japan at the Brussels conference on the Chinese-Japanese war.

Formal Italian recognition lagged behind the general attitude of Fascists, whose controled press has long shown itself sympathetic to the Japanese point of view toward Manchukuo.

[Italy was the third nation to recognize Manchukuo. Japan, of course, was first and Salvador second. Salvador, however, never established a legation and has carried on business through her consul general in Tokio. Nearly all major powers have maintained consulates either at Mukden, the principal commercial city, or Harbin. Generally, as in the case of the United States, these have been listed as accredited to China.]

DUCE PAYS DUES; KEEPS ON HONOR ROLL OF LEAGUE

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Nov. 29.—The Italian government has completed payment of its 1937 league of nations dues, a total of 1,383,628 gold francs [about $275,000] it became known today.

This payment was made after Premier Mussolini's last diatribe against the league, after his visit to Reichsfuehrer Hitler and after he had shown his pressing need for money by requiring that all corporations hand over to the government 10 per cent of their capital in addition to other taxes.

Since asking Italian women to give the government their gold wedding rings, to help finance the Ethiopian campaign Italy has paid Geneva nearly a million dollars to help keep alive a league whose meetings she has never attended in this period.

UPROAR HALTS TRIAL OF FRENCH FASCIST CHIEF'S LIBEL SUIT

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The judge walked out today when cries of "Fascist liar" and "dirty communist dogs" disrupted hearing of the Fascist leader, Col. Francois de la Rocque's slander action against fifteen political opponents.

The outburst came when the Duke di Borgo's attorney contended De la Rocque inspired arrests in the current investigation of the secret revolutionary organization, Les Cagoulards [the hooded ones]. Di Borgo and Gen. Edouard Duseigneur, two of the defendants, are held in connection with the investigation. De la Rocque's action is based on accusations by the fifteen defendants that he received government "secret funds" [usually used for government subsidy of its opponents].

PLANE ATTACKS FRENCH VESSEL OFF SPAIN COAST

MARSEILLES, France, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The 1,450 ton French freighter Le Zardrieux reported today she had been attacked by an airplane of undetermined nationality off the eastern coast of Spain near the French frontier. The ship, bound from Marseilles o Oran, Algeria, later wirelessed none of the 25 members of her crew was injured as she was proceeding, undamaged. The attacking plane flew off to the south, the freighter reported.

Planes Strike Near Madrid.

MADRID, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Government army headquarters tonight officially denied military reports that a rebel air raid caused thirty-seven deaths in Guadalajara, 30 miles northeast of Madrid. The government communique said that 30 rebel planes flew over the city but that Guadalajaha authorities declared no projectiles were dropped.

Bombings occurred, the communique said, at Arganda, 15 miles southeast of Madrid, the factory of La Polveda and near Alcala de Henares.

PRINCE SEEKS TO CLEAR WAY FOR SECOND WEDDING

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Uncertainties tonight surrounded plans of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg to wed a beautiful Viennese actress, Nora Gregor. Friends said the prince, Austria's former acting chancellor, was trying to arrange a religious ceremony next week.

They asserted, however, that certain formalities still were to be completed in connection with annulment of his first marriage to Countess Marie Elisabeth Zu Salm-Reifferscheidt-Raitz. Annulment proceedings have been in Austrian [Roman Catholic] ecclesiastical courts and the Vatican for some time.

The prince's friends said that church officials had acted favorably, but there remained a question whether formalities would be complete next week.

PARIS PUZZLED WHETHER PLOT IS DRAMA OR PERIL

France Probes Extent of "Hooded Men."

by Maurice Pujo in the monarchist "Action Francaise," of which he is editor in chief, when he learned that attempts were being made to induce former members of the dissolved Camelots du Roi [king's henchmen] to defy the law by enrolling themselves in secret societies.

Appeals to Appetite for Mystery.

Pujo suggested that members of such societies would perhaps indulge their sense of importance by coming to their meetings in cowls, and he sternly warned his own adherents from participating in such mummeries.

The word "Cagoulard" appealed to the public appetite for romantic mystery and when police disclosures were made it was generally applied to the still nameless organization.

It is now known that the organization really called itself the "Comité Secret d'Action Revolutionaire." As the initials of this title form the word "CSAR," which lends itself equally well to pleasantry, it may eventually displace "Les Cagoulards" in popular favor.

The danger of sedition is constituted by the standing and ability of the leaders of such an organization, the number of their adherents, their influence on the armed forces of the nation, their appeal to the masses, the efficiency of their military organization, and the arms at their disposal.

Leader Little Known Man.

Police assert the head of the conspiracy was a former naval engineer, Eugene de l'Oncle, who, though of some weight in his own profession, had played no part in politics, and was first heard of by the general public when it was announced that a warant was out against him.

Of the military organization of the "CSAR," it is said to have had a general staf. Further, it supposedly imitated Nazi brown shirts in modeling territorial subdivisions similar to the regular army. There is no evidence yet forthcoming that these arrangements got beyond the purely theoretical stage.

The captured arms officially announced up to date aggregate about 100 machine guns, nearly 200 military or sporting rifles, 3,000 bombs and grenades, 120,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, and a ton or two of explosives.

This curious assortment of weapons would seemingly not avail much against fifteen to twenty thousand well armed and disciplined mobile guards.

Element of Defense Strong.

The main reason it does not appear that any successful conspiracy can be staged at present in France goes beyond these considerations. It is that no moment could be more unpropitious than the present for an attempt to establish a monarchy or a Fascist régime in France.

The moment is unfavorable because the popular element to lead such an attack is miserable and weak, while the popular element of defense is extraordinarily strong.

Enemies of the republic are weak because they are tearing each others' throats in irreconcilable hostility. The two bodies which might have supplied standard bearers for an anti-republican uprising are Col. de la Roques' French Social party and the "Action Française" organization. But at the moment both of these are fighting each other much too fiercely to be of danger to common enemies.

The Red Ring of Suburbs.

The republican defense is strong because, in obedience perhaps to soviet opportunities, French communists are at present a "patriotic" party who want France to be a powerful ally of Russia. Leon Jouhaux's immense French Trade Union Federation, though already past its prime of last year, is still strong enough to throttle any anti-republican uprising by a general strike, as a corresponding body in Germany defeated Dr. Alexander von Kapp when he attempted a monarchist putsch in Berlin in March, 1920.

Again, the republic is strong because Paris, where alone a coup d'état would be successful, is almost entirely surrounded by a "red belt" of communist suburbs which, if the occasion were to arise, would unquestionably take the field with much more formidable armament than the police researches have revealed in the haunts of Les Cagoulards.

JULIANA VISITS PRINCE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Nov. 29.—Crown Princess Juliana, who expects to become a mother in January, overruled the advice of her physicians and went to Burger hospital in Amsterdam today to be with her consort, Prince Bernhard, who was injured this morning in an automobile collision near Amsterdam.

Bernhard was cheerful and despite a slight concussion and gash on his face that required stitches, assured Juliana that he would be out of the hospital in a week. She remained at the hospital for the night.

Bernhard was thrown against the windshield of his light American made car when he applied the brakes suddenly, but could not avoid hitting a sand truck which came out from a side road. It was asserted he was traveling 60 miles an hour and, on pavement slick from last night's rains, pushed the truck 30 yards.

SENTENCED FOR $50 HOLDUP.

Adrian, Mich., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Clair Dull, 25 years old, was sentenced today by Judge G. Arthur Rathbun to serve from 3 to 15 years in the southern Michigan prison at Jackson for the $50 holdup of a gasoline station at Hudson last Friday night.

GEN. LUDENDORFF, GERMAN WORLD WAR HERO, DYING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Nov. 29.—Gen. Erich Ludendorff, quartermaster general of the German army during the world war, was near death tonight.

Ludendorff was operated upon for gall bladder trouble on Nov. 4 by Prof. Ludwig Kielleuthner. The operation failed to give the general relief although he was able to leave his bed for a few days. His pulse was reported irregular at a late hour tonight. He is 72 years old.

Gen. Ludendorff's name long was banished from the Nazi press as a result of his break with Adolf Hitler in 1932. In view of his reconciliation with the Fuehrer this year all newspapers now pay him tribute and express hope for his recovery.

50 PANHANDLERS FINED.

Fines of $50 each were assessed by Judge Eugene Holland of the State Street court yesterday against fifty defendants accused of begging in the loop. Unable to pay, the beggars will be sent to the Bridewell to serve thirty days.

GIFTS TO HITLER MUST WAIT, SAY FRENCH, BRITISH

Not Ready to Grant His Colonial Demands.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The premiers and foreign ministers of Great Britain and France today decided in a "successful" eight hour discussion of major world problems they were not yet ready to grant any German political or territorial demands.

French Premier Camille Chautemps said the British and French ministers were in "full solidarity" in their search for peace. "We made a tour of the world," he said as he left British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's official residence.

Agree on Five Points.

The diplomats appeared pleased with their first day's work and authorized this official five point account of the conference:

1. France fully understood the limited scope of Viscount Halifax's exploratory talk with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and agreed with Britain it fulfilled its purpose;

2. The ministers discussed the colonial question in all its aspects and agreed it required further examination;

3. Both governments expressed themselves as concerned for preservation of peace in central Europe and discussed Germany's ambitions there;

4. They also expressed their appreciation of the "seriousness" of the Chinese-Japanese war and their "need for vigilance" to safeguard their interests;

5. They pronounced nonintervention the right policy in the Spanish civil war.

The ministers were understood to have dwelt seriously on French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos' coming tour of France's eastern and central European allies.

Washington to Be Informed.

Informed sources said the two nations had declared their desire to cooperate with all nations but needed a great deal more preparation before a detailed plan could be drafted.

The premiers and foreign ministers of the two powers, which—with the United States—largely dictated a new map for Europe after the world war, sat through the first of two days of talks which observers in both London and Paris described as among the most important since the war ended.

While the United States took no part in the conference it was understood Washington later would be informed on any phases of special interest.

As the conversations began among Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Chautemps, and Delbos, the chances for settlement of Europe's problems were held generally brighter than in several months.

Japan a Major Concern.

The conflict between China and Japan was considered one of the foremost problems under discussion. But equally important in the review of the entire post-war era were the issues raised by a Germany reborn under Hitler—her claims to colonies and demands for special rights in central and eastern Europe. Of only slightly less importance was the Spanish civil war and its attendant threat to Mediterranean security.

Behind the Anglo-French meeting was believed to be a determined effort by Chamberlain to find some method of European settlement that would lead to arms limitation.

Britain, spending vast sums on an armament race from which she would like to withdraw but cannot, has shown recently a more conciliatory attitude toward German demands. Like France, however, Britain was insistent any concessions be coupled with peaceful guarantees from Germany.

Halifax Present at Parley.

Lord Halifax attended the conference. The session was understood to have been mainly exploratory, with the conferees planning to get down to specific proposals on primary issues tomorrow.

Restive opposition members of parliament sought with little success to get detailed information on the talks. Viscount Cranborne, foreign undersecretary who acted as government spokesman, did tell the house of commons, however, no other special trips like Halifax' were arranged.

Answering another question he said Britain would abide by the league of nations covenant, which forbade any engagements inconsistent with its terms. To another he said he was unaware of any petition from German minorities in Czechoslovakia asking the league to deal with their alleged grievances.

The French visitors will be guests of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham palace for lunch tomorrow and return to Paris that night. Delbos plans later in the week to start his tour of France's central and eastern European allies.

Wins $104 Month Alimony from Railroad Engineer

Mrs. Julia McDermott, 2648 North Francisco avenue, was awarded $104 a month temporary alimony yesterday by Judge John J. Lupe from her husband, John J. McDermott, a railroad engineer living at 2636 North Francisco avenue. Their son, John, 17 years old, was given permission to continue attending high school at Goodland, Ind. A suit for divorce is pending. The McDermotts were married July 14, 1915, and separated last Oct. 6.

PROF. BOBBITT PERILED BY GAS; SAVED BY MAID

U. of C. Educator Is Taken from Garage.

Franklin Bobbitt, 61 years old, professor of educational administration at the University of Chicago, was taken to the Billings Memorial hospital yesterday after he was found suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning in the garage behind his home at 5723 Kenwood avenue.

Early in the afternoon a maid, Moselle Keyes, noticed Prof. Bobbitt drive his car into the garage. When he failed to come into the house in fifteen minutes she went to investigate.

Maid Helps Him from Car.

"The garage doors were closed," she told the Hyde Park police a little later, "and the engine of the car was running. Mr. Bobbitt was sitting in the car and its doors were closed. I helped him out and into the house."

Prof. Bobbitt was taken to the hospital in a private ambulance.

On Oct. 25 Mrs. Sarah Annis Bobbitt, who was married to the educator in 1903, sued for divorce, alleging cruelty. She declared that on several occasions her husband beat her and called her names and that she did not consider it safe to live with him. She asked for a court order to restrain him from molesting her.

At U. of C. Since 1909.

Prof. Bobbitt has been with the University of Chicago since 1909. He obtained leaves of absence in 1922 and 1924 to serve as assistant superintendent of schools in Los Angeles, Cal., and Toledo, O.

Temporary maintenance of $12 weekly was granted yesterday to Mrs. Zena B. Wacker, 27 years old, when she told Judge John J. Lupe of the Superior court that after helping her husband obtain a medical education he told her he was through with her. The husband is Dr. Maxwell Wacker, 30 years old, 3554 Roosevelt road. They were married on Aug. 19, 1931, and separated last Tuesday.

Lovers' Quarrel Blamed for Murder and Suicide

Malone, N. Y., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—A lovers' quarrel was blamed for the murder and suicide today of two Cornell university graduates, Faith Soper, 22 years old, social worker, and Francis H. Hoyos, age 26, of Niagara Falls, her suitor. Supposedly jealous because the girl had visited in New York, Hoyos shot her in the back and killed himself near their car in a lover's lane on the outskirts of Malone.

MOTHER PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MURDER OF RIVAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

Earl Pullman, larceny, sentenced to one year in Bridewell; Alvin Grenko, larceny, sentenced to one year in Bridewell by Judge John C. Lewe.

Mrs. Ada Szczytowski, 31 years old, mother of three children, yesterday pleaded not guilty before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington in Criminal court to an indictment charging her with murder. The case was assigned to Judge Rudolph F. Desort, who set Jan. 3 for the trial.

Mrs. Szczytowski is accused of shooting and killing Miss Irene Kirstein, 26 years old, on Nov. 22 in the bakery operated by her husband, Rudolph Szczytowski, at 1352 North Paulina street. Police said she regarded Miss Kirstein, a clerk in the bakery, as a rival for the attentions of her husband.

FAIRBANK DEATH IS FOUND DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES

Freeman Le Roy Fairbank, formerly judge of the Municipal court and assistant state's attorney, died of natural causes and not of injuries received in a fall in his home, a coroner's jury found yesterday. Mr. Fairbank, who was nearly 56 years old, was found dead in his home at 9167 Pleasant avenue Saturday night after he was heard to fall. Dr. Alfred Biggs, coroner's physician, reported after an autopsy that he believed death was due to a heart attack.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

REAL FLYING ON A SMALL SCALE

By CALEB

IN the early years of the century when airplanes were fabulously intriguing—if not graceful—certain enterprising persons made airplane models their hobby. From the first weird-appearing machines up through the then marvelous but now antiquated planes of wartime, on to the sleek, streamlined speed ships of today, the hobby riders have kept pace with the industry.

Many people are not interested in model airplanes as a hobby. Many people are not even interested in examining model planes and in seeing them fly. But most such people have never beheld these model ships at close range and handled them, or heard their tiny motors with diminutive roar take off into the blue.

Model ships nowadays, for the most part, are built from kits which are prepared by workmen as skilled and as accurate and careful in their work as real plane builders. The models made from the part kits are very light in weight, but they are sturdy and strong. They are constructed principally of balsa wood, native to South and Central America. Balsa wood has only half the weight of cork, but a balsa-framed plane has strength almost beyond belief.

The most economical power for such a plane is provided by a durable rubber strand. When it is twisted, it twirls the propeller sufficiently to power the plane in a short flight.

But hobby riders want realism. So in the last several years gasoline motors of amazing lightness have been made available. Men buy them and build model ships thus powered, and so do boys.

Model airplanes do most of their flying in the summer, but this is the time of year when a great many are bought for gifts. Moreover, model building is popular during winter days and evenings indoors.

These high-flying model ships stay in the air for fifteen minutes or longer. Flight is, of course, without a pilot—a tribute to the skill with which the models are constructed.

Such a hobby has a future. There is drama to the roar of a tiny, unmuffled engine, the racing of a clean-cut model down a runway, and a graceful lifting into the air for a successful flight.

CANADIANS WIN 13TH AWARD AT LIVE STOCK SHOW

British Columbia Farmer Is 1937 Wheat King.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Gordon Gibson of Ladner, British Columbia, Canada, was crowned the 1937 wheat king. It was the fifteenth time the grand champion wheat honor has been won by Canadian growers in the nineteen years of the grain show. It was also the thirteenth championship award won in this show by dominion farmers. The other twelve major awards were on oats, barley, rye, flax, field beans, field peas, red clover, alsike clover, crested wheat grass, flint corn, and two on sheep. The sheep awards were for the carload of fat lambs and the champion cross bred grade wether.

Developed by Government.

Gordon won with a sample of reward wheat, a hard red winter variety developed by the Canadian government's central experiment farm at Ottawa. It was with this same variety of wheat that Herman Trelle won the world title at the International four out of five times, the other time being on durum. Trelle switched to a sample of the marquis variety and was also defeated for the reserve wheat title, which was won by L. O. Peterson of Victor, Mont. This is the second consecutive year Peterson has won the reserve award. His wheat was of the Montana No. 36 variety. Trelle was only able to make second place in the hard red winter wheat class.

The winners of the other championships that have gone to Canada in addition to wheat are: Oats, Alex M. Stewart, Ailsa Craig, Ontario; barley, John Weiner, Miami, Manitoba; rye, M. G. Trowell, Saltcoats, Saskatchewan; flax, George Avery, Kelso, Saskatchewan; field beans, Albert C. Cohn, Emo, Ontario; field peas, John Hamilton, Coaldale, Alberta; red clover, Kenneth Smith, Cobden, Ontario; alsike clover, J. E. Reicheld, Fisherville, Ontario; crested wheat grass, S. Peterson, Tilly, Alberta; flint corn, MacMaynard, Chatham, Ontario; sheep, carload of lambs and grade crossbred, wether, medium wool type, reserve champion wether, William Brodie, Stoufville, Ontario.

Loser Travels 4,000 Miles.

Trelle came 4,000 miles to the show, expecting to win the wheat title, while Gibson, the grand champion winner, remained at home.

More than 52,000 attended the show yesterday, bringing the total attendance figure for the three days up to 147,000.

Late in the afternoon live stock judges in the sheep department announced that they had awarded the grand championship wether honor to the University of Illinois on a pure bred Southdown, Illini Repeater. The winning wether weighed 92 pounds and is nine months old.

He was fatted under the supervision of Jack Hampton, the college farm live stock foreman.

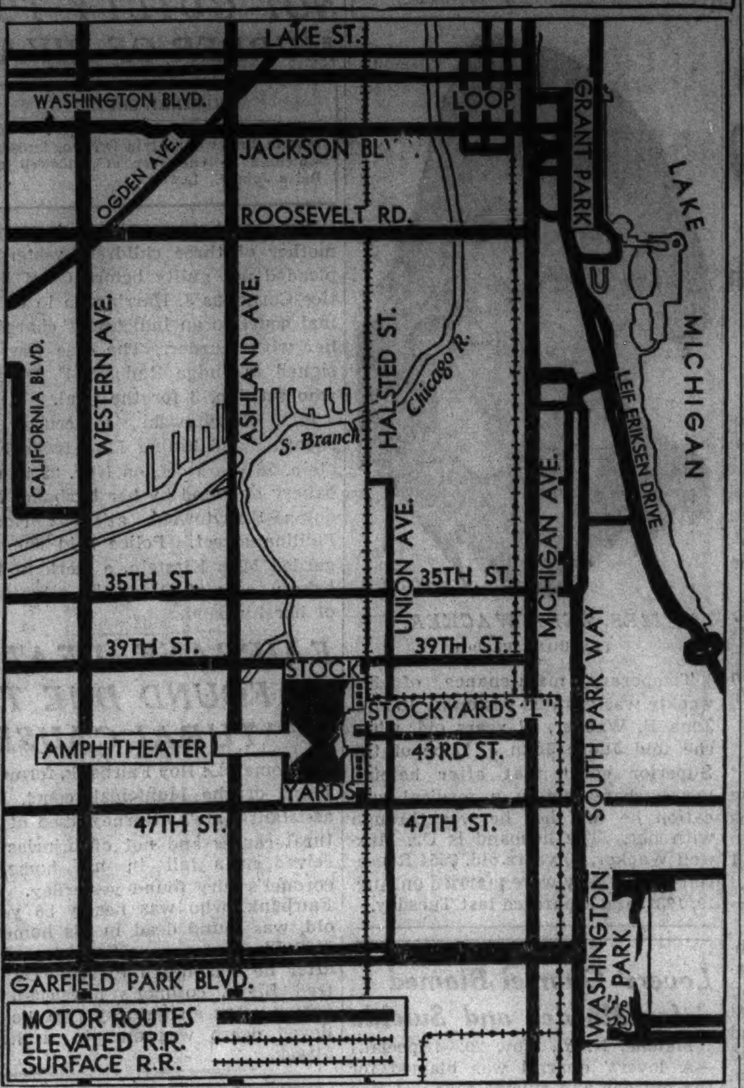
Field of Cattle Reduced.

Alexander Ritchie, British live stock judge, continued his work in the center ring, reducing the field of cattle that are candidates for the grand championship beef award, scheduled to be announced today. Judge Ritchie's work was carefully watched throughout the day by a large gallery of spectators, including governors, Washington live stock experts, and animal breeding authorities from abroad. A. J. Tanner, live stock authority of the Royal Agricultural society, Sydney, Australia; Duncan Marshall, former Canadian live stock commissioner, and John R. Mohler, chief of the federal bureau of animal industry, were among the spectators. Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri and Gov. Clifford M. Townsend of Indiana also were at the show.

Colleges came in for their share of the winnings in live stock yesterday, according to late announcements. The Oklahoma A. & M. college, Stillwater, Okla., showed the champion Aberdeen Angus steer, Master B, in the cattle department. The Oklahoma school also exhibited the champion Hampshire wether in the sheep judging. Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., won the champion Shropshire wether award.

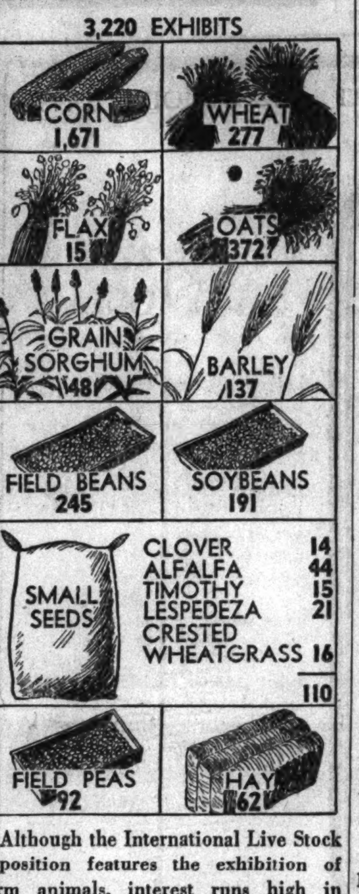
In the cattle breeding division the first championship went to the Mather Brothers, Mason City, Ill., winning on Gainsford Marshall, an Aberdeen Angus bull. This animal also captured the junior championship. The senior bull award went to Browndale Cumberland, owned by Maxwalton Farms, Manfield, O.

How to Get to the Live Stock Show



Unprecedented crowds attending the International Live Stock show have found adequate transportation facilities to the amphitheater in the stockyards. The map traces the main automobile, street car, and elevated line routes to the exposition.

At the Grain Show



Although the International Live Stock exposition features the exhibition of farm animals, interest runs high in awards to championship exhibits of corn, wheat and other grains. This year's exposition attracted a total of 3,220 grain exhibits.

CHILDREN TAKEN FROM PARENTS BY NAZI COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—The court at Waldenburg today deprived a father and mother of the care of their children because they were members of the prohibited International Earnest Bible Students association.

It was charged that their influence over their children was in opposition to the ideal of "the community of the people" and the courts ruled that they had thus failed in their duty to the state.

Among their worst offenses were that they had refused to give a Hitler salute and they also kept the children at home from Nazi school festivities.

2 HIGH SCHOOL BOYS SEIZED AS NURSES' ROBBERS

Two high school boys, one considered brilliant in his studies, were in custody of Lawndale police last night as alleged bandits. The pair, Sergt. Edward Hartnett said, specialized in holding up nurses of St. Anthony's hospital and the Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind by threatening them with either a toy pistol or a butcher knife.

The breakup of their crime career came when one of the boys, Henry Beil, 16 years old, 2233 South Trumbull avenue, on Sunday night menaced Mrs. Helen Hadesman, 3005 19th street, with a knife, took her fur coat and purse.

Sergt. Hartnett and Policemen Dennis Mahoney and Richard Powers arrested him. He confessed the robbery and seven others and said that Edward Jares, 16 years old, 2214 South Trumbull avenue, helped him in three. Jares was arrested last night. He, too, confessed, police said. The boys attend the Marshall High school, where Beil has a brilliant scholastic record.

Ninth Floor Fire Leaves Walls of Hall a Bit Grimy

An employé of the Monroe Electric company left a small truck loaded with a blow torch, some pitch and some gasoline in the hall outside the company offices on the ninth floor of the Builders building at 228 North La Salle street yesterday afternoon. A little later some one tossed a match or a cigaret near the truck, and started a fire. Firemen had little difficulty in extinguishing the flames. The walls of the hall were grimy, but otherwise the damage was confined to the contents of the truck.

Dress Shop Robber Gets Fur Coat and $105 Cash

A robber fled with $105 and a $300 fur coat after terrorizing a clerk and two customers with a pistol in the Sherman Dress shop at 2709 North Clark street last night. The man forced Mrs. Evelyn Rabbitt, the clerk, to surrender $60 and took $45 from a man who said he was Robert Jautrs of the Hamilton club. The fur coat was the property of Mrs. V. Lewis, 641 Elaine place, who was looking at dresses when the bandit entered.

Theater Patron Seized on Complaint of Woman

Six ushers were required last night to subdue an alleged moron in the lobby of the Chicago theater after a woman patron accused him of indecency. The man, turned over to police, identified himself as William Kalas, 24 years old, 847 Grand avenue, a laborer. Mrs. Mary Foster, 24 years old, 4837 Kenmore avenue, who pointed Kalas out to the ushers, signed a complaint against him.

Guests of Packer Wilson.

As has been his custom for 20 years, Thomas E. Wilson, the packer, was host to the 4-H boys and girls who are in Chicago for the live stock show and for the national 4-H congress. At his first dinner 20 years ago, Mr. Wilson entertained 11 youngsters. Last night the great hall of Medinah temple, at Ohio and Wabash, was necessary to accommodate the visitors.

Besides the dinner last night, Mr. Wilson treated his guests to a show of the city's best vaudeville and radio talent. There was but one interruption—when Mr. Wilson, as chairman of the national committee on boys' and girls' club work, personally awarded six university scholarships to the prize winners. The scholarships are good at any university the recipient chooses.

Franklin Spore, a sun tanned boy from Kildare, Okla., received first prize in the meat animal project. Although young Spore bowed his head and murmured his gratitude, it was an old story to him. Yesterday's scholarship was the sixty-first time in his seven years in club work that he has had first honors. There were forty-nine times when he had hard luck and only won second. He is 19 years old and has earned $9,549 with his cows and hogs. He will go to college, he says, to learn how to do even better.

Girl Champion Acclaimed.

The first girl champion ever chosen in the meat animal project was acclaimed last night. She was Miss Isabel Karn, a pink cheeked girl from Cuba, N. Y., who won fourth place in competition with the country's boys. She has earned $2,316 raising bald-faced cheviot sheep, which have won twenty first prizes, sixteen second prizes, and innumerable compliments. She is a typist. Last summer when she was looking around for work she drove her father's milk truck.

Arthur Young, Clearwater, Kas., won second prize in the animal project division, and third went to Rudolph Hruska, Lewistown, Mont.

The remaining three scholarships were given to winners of the junior live stock feeding contest: Russell Holz, 20 years old, Rippey, Ia.; Don Mosher, 20, De Kalb, Ill., and Donald Marek, 17, Washington, Ia.

Today there will be chosen the 4-H boy and girl who are the healthiest in the nation. Contests in the forty-eight states and in Canada have eliminated all but the most physically fit so that the two picked today will be the king and queen of youthful health. They will appear at the show tonight.

SHEEP STEAL SHOW

BY FRENCH LANE.

The sheep stole the show from the horses last night in the Live Stock exposition at the International amphitheater.

In the flag bedecked arena where America's finest horses have been striving for ribbons the cheers from 15,000 throats grew louder as two sheep emerged from a large pile of their own wool at the conclusion of a masterful exhibition by two of the best sheep shearers in the land—Grant Watkins of Groveport, O., and Raymond Henderson of Hickory, Pa.

The way in which these sheep barbers work is a pleasure to the eye. Every move is a graceful one without a lost motion during the entire process.

The startled sheep suddenly finds himself on his back with his head between the barber's knees. The under part of the body is sheared first and it is explained that the wool from this section is not as valuable as that from other parts.

Then Mr. Startled Sheep suddenly is flipped over on his stomach. In long sweeping strokes the electric clipper lays bare the entire back of the animal from tail to ear. Then the legs are sheared.

Nearly eight pounds of wool, enough to make a husky man an all-wool overcoat or suit of clothes has been sheared from the uncomfortable sheep.

By this time the sheep lying there beneath the pile of wool has the sympathy of the audience. The shearer who has been so deft with the clippers is just a villain in the eyes of the public.

The naked sheep wiggles out from beneath the pile of wool. Any night now it is expected that a mink coat or an ermine wrap will go sailing down out of the crowd to relieve the animal from its chill.

KILLS HERSELF IN HOME WHILE GUESTS LINGER

After ending a friendly card game with four woman neighbors in her home and asking them to sign the score card, Mrs. Lillian Smith, 44 years old, 5607 North Mason avenue, ended her life with a strong drug last night. The women were in another room at the time.

Mrs. Smith left two notes, one to her young husband, Alfred Smith, 22 years old, a printer, and the other to her children by a previous marriage, Leon Eckman, 23 years old, and Lucille Eckman, 18.

The note to Smith read: "What was once a beautiful flower has turned to acid. I have loved you and been faithful to you at all times. Maybe in the future you will get over your stubbornness."

'NAIL' THAT COLD!
Check It Fast With This Four-Way Treatment!
Treat a cold to end it, not to coddle it!
Many a cold lightly treated turns into something worse.
Hit a cold "where it lives"—in the system! That means to take an internal treatment.
Hit it with a cold medicine, not with a preparation good for all kinds of ailments.
Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets) are the treatment you want.
Made for Colds and Colds Alone!
First of all, they are cold tablets, made expressly for colds.
Second, they are internal medication and of fourfold effect.
First, they open the bowels.
Second, they check the infection in the system.
Third, they relieve the headache and fever.
Bromo Quinine tablets are nothing new or untried. They have been on the market for over 40 years and have proven their worth.
Be Prudent!
Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. Both kinds are sold by all druggists, a few cents a box.
When you feel a cold coming on, don't "monkey around" with half-way measures.
Go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets).
Start taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. Used in time, Bromo Quinine will usually break up a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed you want.

STOCK JUDGES' EIGHT DAY TASK: 10,000 VERDICTS

68 Men at International Make Rural History.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Judges at the current International Live Stock exposition look—and are—so important that everybody wants to know who they are and how they work.

This means that half a million people want to know, for that will be the grand total of attendance at the greatest show on earth this week.

So here goes.

There are sixty-eight judges.

During the eight days beginning last Saturday morning and ending next Saturday night they will have given 10,000 verdicts.

Those verdicts will make momentous economic history and will be studied by agriculturists and agronomists all over the world — from Denmark to the Argentine.

Five thousand of their verdicts are on live stock and 5,000 on hay and grain.

Twelve Are College Professors.

The sixty-eight judges come from fifteen states of the Union, from the District of Columbia, from Canada, and from England. Twelve of them are college professors. The others are [1] Eminent breeders of live stock; [2] Expert buyers of live stock for the packing houses; [3] Butchers who give the verdicts on an animal after it has been slaughtered and dressed; [4] Experts on hay and grain.

All of the judges are paid for their services.

As a whole, they are men in the prime of life men of vast experience but of minds still open to new ideas.

One of them is by universal agreement the world's greatest live stock judge of our time. He is Dr. H. H. Kildee, dean of Iowa State college at Ames. It is the scope of his knowledge that gives him his world wide preëminence. This year he is judging only the show's red-polled cattle but with equal accuracy, speed, and authority he can judge and has judged other breeds of beef cattle and all breeds of dairy cattle, sheep, swine, and horses.

Dr. Kildee Stands Alone.

Not one of his colleagues on this week's scene would gainsay those spacious statements about Dean Kildee. He stands alone.

In addition to their expert knowledge, the essential qualities of the sixty-eight judges are scrupulous fairness and complete detachment from prejudices and friendships because they are passing upon the exhibits of men who never take injustice lying down. But they are not querulous men. With them any honest verdict ends all argument.

For twelve years Walter Biggar came to Chicago every November from the little town of Dalbeattie in Scotland to judge cattle at our show and, above all, to select its grand champion steer. During his visit last November a cattle magnate said to him, "Mr. Biggar, your long record is a marvel. Never in more than a decade has one of your decisions been protested by any of these thousands of exhibitors."

A Tribute to Sportsmen.

Walter Biggar did not take that as a tribute to his superior acumen and fairness. With Scotch laconicism he replied:

"Well, that's because they're gude sportsmen."

Such are the quality and the background of the men who hand down the verdicts in what has been called "the supreme court of the kingdom of domestic animals."

The cattle judges among the sixty-eight judge by eye, by feel, and by the instinct long experience has given them. They can judge a steer in two minutes. Often they do that at a glance. But when a judge comes to the selection of the grand champion steer he takes his time and works meticulously.

Sensitive Fingers Needed.

A sheep judge must have very sensitive fingers. Sheep, as to their meat qualities, are difficult to judge because a clever shepherd can block out and trim a sheep's wool so that the animal looks like a grand beast when he comes scampering into the ring. Hence the judge must carefully feel at the sheep's legs for the potential leg of mutton that is there. Then he goes to the animal's loins because there are the highest priced chops.

Pigs do not have to be felt at all because on them is neither hair nor wool to cover up defects.

The first and last rule with the groom who brings an animal before the judge in the arena, down upon which 12,000 people are looking from the galleries, is:

"Keep one eye on your animal and the other on the judge."

The groom is to watch the animal sharply to make sure that never for an instant during the ordeal of judging shall that animal sag. If it does the groom is permitted to whisper a word of command, which the beast understands, or to give its halter a warning tug, or to touch it lightly with a cane. The animal, if it is to please the judge, must stand squarely on its four feet. On the farm at home it has been taught not to sag and slouch. It must maintain correct posture. Often the animal under judgment in Chicago's "supreme court of the kingdom of domestic animals" has been before judges in lesser shows. Hence it knows what the tug of the halter and the touch flesh prize winning quantities, in "brace up!" The alacrity with which the creature does brace up is a lesson to American humans, who are given to sagging and slouching.

Posture Is Important.

Often the judge directs the groom to have the animal do "a walk around." The movement is brief, but sometimes it is decisive because it uncovers defects that would not otherwise be disclosed.

The first point a judge looks for in a steer is the animal's trueness to type and function. Some judges declare that a glance at the head will settle that. Others say that the statement is far-fetched, but all agree that the head is highly indicative of trueness to type. Trueness to function means trueness to the purpose for which the steer was bred—namely, edible meat.

Big belly on a steer is a bad thing because it means that there will be too much offal when the animal is dressed.

Very high percentages of edible flesh prize winning quantities in fact are, for steers, from 60 to 65 per cent, or even nearly 70 per cent; for sheep, 55 per cent, and for swine, 80 to 85 per cent.

"Full Pants" a Compliment.

A good beef animal must have "full pants." That is a Scotch term which has been adopted the world over. It means that the hind quarters, rounding up from the hocks to the tail, must be full and wide. As you pass from cattle stall to cattle stall at the show you will often hear the words, "That beast has full pants"—words spoken in a thoroughly satisfied tone by stockmen. The antithesis to "full pants" is "cat hams," meaning lean, scrawny quarters that are mostly muscle.

The reason why the sixty-eight judges are able to judge 5,000 animals in a week is that some of the creatures are judged by carload lots—fifteen fat steers to a carload, fifty sheep, and twenty-five swine.

And, on whatsoever basis the verdicts are made, they become historic because this show is the climax of all the agricultural shows, fairs, and expositions held on the North American continent during a given year.

FRANCE GRANTS SELF-RULE TO PART OF SYRIA

Plans Election in Region of Alexandretta.

ANTIOCH, Syria, Nov. 29.—(AP)—French High Commissioner Roger Garreau today read a proclamation before local dignitaries of the sanjak [state] of Alexandretta announcing inauguration of an autonomous government for that region.

Garreau informed the officials that the action was being taken under the decision of the league of nations in May to make the territory self-governing.

The sanjak is composed of the districts of Antioch, Alexandretta, and Kirikhan in northwestern Syria, bordering Turkey.

One of Five Syrian States.

The sanjak is one of the five "states" that compose Syria, which France governs under mandate of the league.

The high commissioner said a committee named by the league already had begun work and would organize and control elections for the parliament of the sanjak of Alexandretta.

Lebanon and the other three states of Syria are to become fully independent in 1939. The Syrian legislature had opposed autonomy for Alexandretta.

Turks Assert Interest.

The sanjak had been the scene of rioting between Arabs and Turks, the latter insisting that the Alexandretta-Antioch region was "technically purely Turkish." Turkey had sought the separation of the sanjak from Syria."

POLICE OF CAIRO SUPPRESS RIOTS OF NATIONALISTS

CAIRO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Steel helmeted police, reënforced by troops, tonight brought a measure of peace to Cairo, which had been torn by riots since last night's attempt on the life of Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha.

Izzedine Abdel Khader, a member of the green shirted extreme Nationalist party, who was imprisoned and charged with the attempt, prayed in his cell while the premier declared "God has saved Egypt."

Police raided the green shirt headquarters, seized documents, questioned leaders and arrested all 300 members of the organization. The raid was believed a prelude to an official ban on the party, which has been hostile to the Anglo-Egyptian treaty and the premier who signed it.

REPORT SEVERAL SOVIET LEADERS HAVE VANISHED

MOSCOW, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Diplomatic sources today said that several high soviet officials had disappeared from public life recently.

Among those reported missing were Jean Joseph Arens, former chief of the foreign press department and until recently consul general at New York; Solomon Bron, former director of Amtorg, the official soviet trading organization; Erich Asmus, former minister to Finland; M. Bondarenko, premier of Ukraine, and Vladimir Zatonsky, commissar of education in Ukraine.

The number of executions on charges of treason, spying and sabotage declined slightly in November. Provincial newspapers showed 154 sentenced to death, as compared with a total of 550 for the previous three months.

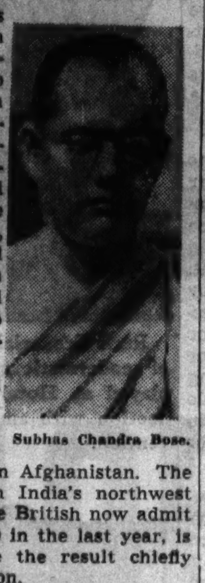
LEADER OF INDIA SEEKS DUCE AND HITLER AS ALLIES

Wants Them to Support Nationalists.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Subhas Chandra Bose, a leader of the Indian National congress in Bengal, is in Rome and is having "heart to heart" talks with Premier Mussolini on the possibility of establishing a formal link with the Rome-Berlin axis, it was revealed here today. It is believed he will go to Berlin to visit Reichsfuehrer Hitler.



Subhas Chandra Bose.

Italy has had the British worried for some time by propaganda activities in Afghanistan. The current revolt on India's northwest frontier which the British now admit has cost $6,000,000 in the last year, is understood to be the result chiefly of Italian agitation.

Seeks to End Terrorism.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, who has given up his title of mahatma, is supposed to have promised Subhas Bose the office of president of the Indian National congress—the National party—in return for help in breaking up terrorism in Bengal.

Indian political observers believe that as a result of Subhas Bose's growing influence, the congress has adopted his plan to attempt to link the nationalist forces with the European dictator powers.

Subhas Bose has been agitating for years to get Fascist support in India, but has been blocked by the socialist views of the other nationalist leader, Pandit Jawaharalal Nehru. Since the congress has gained power in various Indian provinces and as a result found itself forced to combat strikes and peasant riots, Nehru has become less enthusiastic about socialism.

Want Fascist Support.

Subhas Bose has convinced Gandhi and other congress leaders that the surest guaranty against Japanese or other aggression is to get the bellicose Fascist powers in Europe behind them.

The present visit to Rome is exploratory and Subhas Bose is regarded as the logical spokesman, since he has long been friendly with Italy and openly approved Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

So easy to get them this modern way
3 Adex tablets instead of 5 spoonfuls of cod liver oil*

IN PAST winters you may have felt the need for cod liver oil vitamins to build good general resistance, and wished you could get them in a pleasant form.

This winter, they're available. With Adex! These tablets give you precisely the same vitamins as cod liver oil. But conveniently . . . pleasantly . . . in a form you'll like to take!

Only three Adex tablets a day are equal to five teaspoonfuls of cod liver oil* in Vitamin A, the factor which contributes specifically to good general resistance. You'll also obtain extra "sunshine" Vitamin D—as much in three Adex tablets as in five teaspoonfuls of the oil.

No wonder so many people are taking this modern form of the vitamins!

And with Adex, you have the satisfaction of knowing the full vitamin content is there—no danger of the tablets losing their strength before they are used. Exclusive Squibb methods make it possible to guarantee the vitamin content.

You can depend as much on results with Adex as with cod liver oil or halibut liver oil.

Get Adex today, and take it regularly all winter. Have it on the breakfast table every morning as a reminder. Adex is now available at any drug store.

*3 Adex tablets equal 5 teaspoonfuls of U. S. P. XI minimum standard cod liver oil in Vitamins A and D, or 3 teaspoonfuls of Squibb's.

PRESIDENT ASKS U. S. TO BACK 4 MILLION HOMES

Proposes Loan Guaranty of 16 Billions.

detailed last week in my ten point program."

The project proposed by Mr. Roosevelt is to stimulate private capital to build in the next few years up to four million housing units costing $4,000 a unit, which "would mean spending from twelve to sixteen billion dollars, without creating a surplus of housing accommodations, and consequently without impairing the value of existing housing that is fit for decent human occupancy."

Legislation Requested.

To accomplish this purpose the President asked congress for legislation to do these things:

1. Increase the limit of government insurance of loans on houses appraised at not more than $6,000 from the present limit of 80 per cent provided by the national housing act of 1934 to 90 per cent, thus enabling home construction on a down payment of 10 instead of 20 per cent.

2. Reduce the present over-all financing cost of 6¼ per cent on an insured loan to 5¼ per cent on houses costing not more than $6,000, and to 5½ on larger projects, with $16,000 the maximum insurable loan on individual homes.

3. Provide for government insurance of mortgages up to $200,000 on groups of homes for sale or rent in cases in which the mortgage does not exceed $1,000 a room.

Create Mortgage Corporation.

4. Liberalize the chartering of national mortgage associations to enable them to finance construction by "sale of housing bonds or debentures amply secured by the insured mortgages on the properties."

5. Create a national mortgage corporation with 50 millions capital, provided by the RFC, to handle large construction loans, the corporation being authorized to sell debentures to the extent of 20 times its capital, thus giving it a fund of 1 billion dollars.

6. Make the present limit of 2 billions on the amount of insurable mortgages applicable to the amount outstanding at any time and remove the July 1, 1939, limit on "ultimate guaranty of the federal government."

7. Permit loans up to $10,000 for repairs and modernization, available not only to home owners but commercial and industrial concerns.

Bills Are Introduced.

Immediately after the reading of the special message Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.] and Representative Henry B. Steagall [D., Ala.], chairman of the banking committees of the senate and house, respectively, introduced the administration bill implementing the President's recommendations.

The President took cognizance of the contention that the activity of the building industry has been checked by rising costs of materials and the continued high cost of building labor. The blame for these conditions he imputed, not to his own economic policies, but to the shortsightedness of capital and labor.

The remedy must be provided, Mr. Roosevelt said, by capital and labor and he announced his intention of initiating conferences of industry, labor, and finance to bring about an agreement on lowered costs that will revive building.

Part of Program.

The President introduced his message by stating that the housing proposals he was submitting were an important part of his program for business recovery.

"From the point of view of widespread and sustained economic recovery, housing constitutes the largest and most promising single field for private enterprise," he continued.

"Housing construction has not kept pace with either the needs or growth of our population. From 1930 to 1937, inclusive, the average annual number of new dwelling units constructed in the United States was 180,000 as contrasted with an annual average of 800,000 in the seven years prior to 1930. In addition, much of our existing housing has seriously deteriorated, or has been demolished.

"It is estimated that an average of 600,000 to 800,000 dwelling units ought to be built annually over the next five years to overcome the accumulated shortage and to meet the normal growth in number of families. In other words, we could build over the next five years 3 or 4 million housing units, which at a moderate estimate of $4,000 per unit would mean spending from 12 to 16 billion dollars, without creating a surplus of housing accommodations, and consequently without impairing the value of existing housing that is fit for decent human occupancy.

Drag on All Industry.

"The long continued lag in building is a drag on all industry and trade. This presents an urgent problem which is the common concern of industry, labor, and government. All business needs the infusion of orders and the diffusion of purchasing power that come when building is thriving. Great numbers of people look directly or indirectly to the construction industry for employment. This industry, to a greater extent than any other, can put idle funds to work and thus speed up the circulation of the nation's money supply. This, in turn, would increase national income, reduce unemployment, and as a result contribute toward a balancing of the budget.

"Since 1933 we have had a great recovery movement in which housing construction has played only a minor part. That it should play a major part has been clearly recognized by this administration from the outset. But, though much has been done to encourage construction activity, the results have not yet been satisfactory. Instead of a seasonal rise in housing construction through the past spring and summer, there was an early downturn. This was one of the principal reasons why general business failed to forge ahead during the latter part of the year.

High Costs Curb Building.

"We must recognize clearly that housing will not be built if costs are too high in relation to the consumer's income. The fact that housing costs arose sharply—far too sharply—between September of 1936 and March of 1937 was primarily responsible for the downturn in housing and thus in recovery generally this year.

"Revival of housing construction must be based on reduction of the costs of building and the payment for buildings rather than on a resumption of the rising costs that stopped progress in this essential field last spring and summer. Housing must be produced at prices, rates and rents that the mass of our people can afford to pay.

"The government has made provision, through assistance to municipal housing, for many of the most needy. But private enterprise and private capital must bear the burden of providing the great bulk of new housing. The measures I now suggest are to encourage private building to meet the needs of families of moderate means. These proposals can not be effective, however, unless all elements concerned in the construction industry—builders, contractors, manufacturers of materials and equipment, labor, and finance—coöperate in producing housing that is within reach of the incomes of the vast majority of our citizens.

Large Scale Production.

"If the building industry is to play the vital part that it ought to have in our economic system it must do it in the characteristic American way. It must develop, as other great industries have developed, the American genius for efficient and economical large scale production. The lower unit costs resulting from large scale production will make for greater annual returns for the entire building industry, including all workers engaged in that industry, and for a higher standard of living for the country as a whole.

"The problem of reducing costs to a point where larger volume, longer employment, and higher annual earnings are possible is one that must be solved in major part by the building industry itself. The government, however, can take the initiative by bringing about a reduction of financing costs, by making it easier for families of moderate means to buy or rent new houses, and by providing mechanisms to make it practicable for private enterprise to engage in large scale housing operations for the mass market.

Asks for Legislation.

"In order, therefore, that government may give the fullest encouragement to a broad revival of building, I recommend that the congress adopt at this time measures to facilitate the financing of every type of housing construction, whether for sale or for rent, and ranging from the small house to entire residential communities and large low-rent apartment buildings. In addition to measures to stimulate new construction, I recommend that provision be made for an extensive program of repairs and modernization.

"As a practicable means of encouraging and facilitating a more effective operation of private enterprise and private capital in the housing field, I am suggesting enlargement of the framework of the national housing act in the light of actual experience."

Plea to Labor and Industry.

The President continued with the technical details of his plan and then said:

"The success of such a program as this, however, cannot be assured by governmental action alone. It will depend mainly on the willingness of industry and labor to coöperate in producing housing at costs that are within the reach of the mass of our people. The goal at which both industry and labor should aim is sustained large scale production at lower costs to the consumer.

"This will mean a larger annual wage for labor because of the larger amount of employment than is possible at high hourly rates with long periods of unemployment. It will mean a larger annual income for industry because of the larger volume of production than is possible at high unit prices with greatly restricted output.

"Because this was not the goal of industry and labor during the past construction year, the result soon proved injurious not only to the building industry and its workers, but to business and employment generally. The sharp rise of wage rates and prices in this industry, just before the last building season, reduced by 100,000 to 150,000 the number of new dwelling units that competent authorities had estimated were in prospect for 1937.

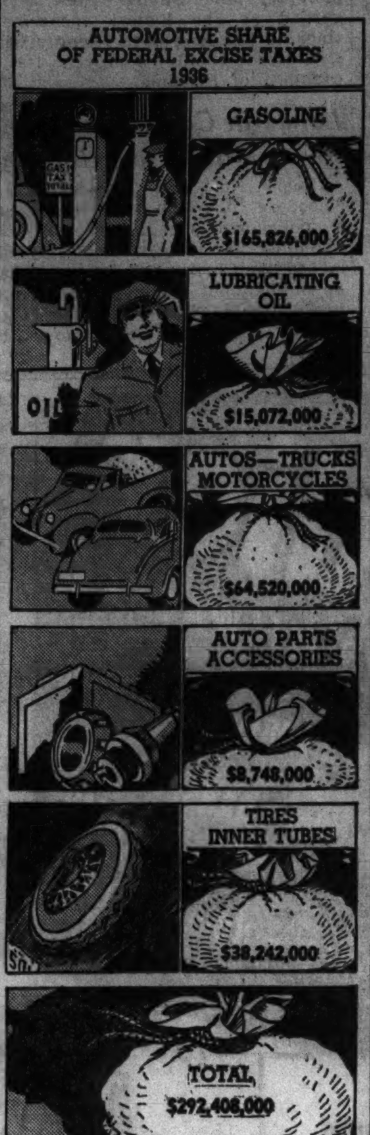
Present Methods Fail.

"It is now clear that we cannot have a strong revival of housing construction on the terms that were exacted by industry and labor last spring. The rise in hourly wage rates and in material prices was too rapid and too great for the consumer to bear. A similar rise in costs likewise checked production and buying in other industries as well.

"In emphasizing these facts I am not seeking to apportion blame, for manifestly no industrial or labor groups would deliberately adopt a policy that would react to their own disadvantage. I am simply pointing out what did occur and what the consequences were.

"In the budget of the great mass of our families the point is quickly reached where increased costs mean reduced consumption. Reduced consumption, in turn, means a decline in some one's business and some one's employment. The essential problem of the construction industry and its workers, then, is to find a reasonable way, through continuity of production and employment, to adjust the costs of housing to the consumer's means."

The Motorist Pays



President Roosevelt's plans to reduce federal highway appropriations without a cut in federal taxes on gasoline, oil, tires, accessories, and parts, has brought a protest from motorists. They call attention to the above division of their tax burden.

W. M. Kinney, general manager of the Portland Cement association, yesterday credited American newspapers with having aroused a strong public demand for safety in the construction of the nation's highway system. He spoke at the association's thirty-sixth annual convention, which continues today in the Blackstone hotel.

"Thousands of miles of our rural and urban routes are homicide highways, inadequate and of obsolete design for fast automobile trafic," he said. "All our large cities are being smothered by a clogging of roads and streets, as evidenced by the withdrawal of many large industrial plants from cities.

"If plans for safer, more economic roadways become realities it will be due to the editors of America."

A statement received yesterday from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the American Road Builders' association, attacked President Roosevelt's plans to cut federal highway appropriations $100,000,000 without cutting the federal taxes on gasoline, oil, tires, accessories, and parts as defeating much of the road safety program.

"This step toward a balanced national budget," said Charles M. Upham, director of the road builders, "means a complete unbalancing of the national highway program. The deficiencies of our highway system were responsible for a large portion of the 37,800 deaths in automobile accidents in 1936.

"Automobile owners pay the government annually millions of dollars in special taxes. In return they expect the highways to be made up-to-date and safe. When this money is misappropriated to other purposes these citizens—stockholders in the American highway system—are being cheated and robbed of the dividends—good roads."

Those folk who get thrills out of the amusement devices in the roller coaster parks may look forward to some new streamlined shaking machinery next year.

One is a merry-go-round that has on it little cars that bounce up and down after the rotary motion is well started. A sample of it is on display at the Hotel Sherman, where four large organizations of showmen—The Showmen's League of America, The National Association of Amusement Parks, Pools, and Beaches, the American Recreational Equipment association, and the International Fairs and Exhibits association—are holding their annual joint meeting.

Paul H. Huedepohl, a director of the amusements parks organization, said that business for the members was 14 to 18 per cent better in 1937 than in 1936, and that prospects for 1938 were good.

Study Personal Records for Recluse Killing Clew

In the personal records of William King, former grain speculator who was shot to death Friday night near his home at 7342 Dante avenue, investigators yesterday sought for clews that might solve the mystery of the slaying of the recluse. They found that his last grain brokerage account, a small one, was closed in 1930. King, whose real name was Mortimer Hamburger, was carrying $745 when he was attacked, but this was left behind, leading the police to believe that revenge rather than robbery was the motive.

HOUSING EXPERTS COLD TO LATEST ROOSEVELT PLAN

Scheme Called New Jolt to Private Enterprise.

BY AL CHASE.

The administration's so-called "housing plan" is merely a modernization and revamping of the national housing act of 1934 under which the Federal Housing administration operates, according to local building men. Chicago mortgage bankers yesterday expressed the belief that many of the provisions outlined by the President are unsound and are steps leading the federal government farther into private enterprise.

According to an official of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, reduction of the down payment on a home from the present 20 per cent to a proposed 10 per cent means a "straight charge account for home financing, with the federal government the creditor. Nothing proposed in recent years is so basically unsound."

Shot in Arm of FHA.

It was pointed out that the much touted attempt to stimulate the sagging home building market is merely to be shot in the arm of the FHA.

"Title One," which provided for repairs and modernization, and which is no longer operative, is to be revived, according to the Roosevelt program.

The present 80 per cent mortgage is to be boosted to 90 per cent, which, according to mortgage men, means with careless or prejudiced appraisals loans of 100 per cent or more of the value of properties. Mortgage men say that if a prospective home buyer cannot raise 20 per cent for a down payment, he probably cannot pay off the mortgage.

Reducing the interest rate, it was pointed out by mortgage men, also is basically unsound and might result in making the loans so unattractive to buyers that purchases throughout the country would be reduced instead of increased.

"Unsound Mortgage Practice."

"Lowering the down-payment from 20 per cent to 10 per cent on FHA insured mortgages is unsound mortgage practice, and is in line with the objectional features in instalment selling about which much official concern is expressed today," said George H. Patterson, secretary-treasurer of the Mortgage Bankers' association.

Arthur Kruggel, president elect of the Chicago Real Estate board, said he has not yet read the President's message but he considered anything that would help home ownership a good idea. He asserted that something is needed to stimulate building.

"The average American family can make only a 10 per cent down payment for a home," said Paul E. Stark, president of the National Association of Real Estate boards, with headquarters in Chicago. "Four-fifths of all homes are bought with 10 per cent down payments and therefore carry 90 per cent mortgages of one kind or another."

MAYOR OPPOSES SUNDAY BAKERY BAN FOR CHICAGO

At about the hour that the city council committee on health was approving an ordinance preventing retail bakeries from baking for sale on Sundays, Mayor Kelly expressed himself as opposed to the suggested legislation.

"It looks like a blue law to me," the mayor said. "A lot of these little fellows live on their Sunday business. The big bakeries, who want to keep closed, are in many cases owned by people who live outside the city so they won't have to pay taxes. Pretty soon we won't have any independent business men, and all the incentives for being an American citizen will be gone."

Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th], chairman of the health committee, presided at the two turbulent hearings which preceded approval of the proposed ordinance. The committee decided that since no city bakery inspectors are available for Sunday work, the bakeries should remain closed.

TAXPAYING HABIT SLOWLY REGAINED BY CHICAGOANS

69 Per Cent of Levy to Be Paid Before Penalty Date

Citizens of Chicago and Cook county are slowly regaining the taxpaying habit which they lost almost completely during the depression tax muddle, it was indicated yesterday by estimates of probable receipts before the penalty date Wednesday night on 1936 real estate bills.

George E. Hagenauer, auditor for County Treasurer Lindheimer, estimated that 69 per cent of the 1936 real estate taxes will have been paid before penalties start to accrue on the bills. Payments on the last levy, that for 1935, were 63 per cent a few days after the penalty date, and that was the best previous record since the tax muddle started with the 1928 reassessments.

73 Million Already Collected.

The treasurer's weekly statement at the close of business Friday showed that $73,492,597 had been collected on a levy on real estate of $152,653,163. An additional $3,000,000 was collected Saturday and yesterday, and an equal sum will be paid by taxpayers calling in person at the treasurer's office today and tomorrow.

The larger payments, however, will be made tomorrow. The treasurer is already holding $15,000,000 in post-dated checks turned in by large taxpayers, which he will deposit at the penalty date under agreements which save these taxpayers interest on their bank deposits until the last day. Another $10,000,000 will come in by mail, Mr. Hagenauer said.

Total to Rise to 105 Millions.

The payments received or expected will raise the total paid on real estate to about $105,000,000, just short of 70 per cent of the amount levied. Payments of about $4,500,000 more are expected from railroads, which will raise the percentage paid in this classification to 89. The 1936 personal property taxes are now 62 per cent paid, and the current collection will not affect them materially.

As a result of the last minute rush to pay, the treasurer's office will have in excess of $40,000,000 in 1936 taxes to distribute to local governments within the next two weeks. Treasurer Lindheimer pledged himself yesterday to have this money out of his office by Dec. 10. He is making daily distributions at present, and yesterday sent $1,025,000 in 1936 collections to major Chicago governments, as well as $372,575 in 1934 taxes distributed to various suburban governments.

13,000 Pay in One Day.

More than 13,000 persons made tax payments in person yesterday at the treasurer's office. The office will remain open until 8 p. m. tonight to receive such payments, and until 10 p. m. tomorrow. Treasurer Lindheimer urged taxpayers, however, to save themselves waiting in line by making payments by mail. No penalties will be assessed on payments received in envelopes postmarked earlier than midnight tomorrow.

President Clayton Smith of the county board sought to arrange a conference today between representatives of the office of the assessor and the board of tax appeals, to iron out difficulties which will make it impossible for some 20,000 taxpayers to pay their current bills before the penalty date.

No Changes Certified Yet.

Due to a controversy between the appeals board and Assessor John S. Clark over the board's power to alter his real estate assessments in nonquadrennial years, none of the changes ordered by the board has been certified to other county officials for entry on the tax books. As a result, taxpayers who filed the 20,000 complaints before the board do not know how much their bills will run.

SHIFT IN WIND SAVES CHICAGO FROM ZERO COLD

A shift in the direction of the wind from west to southwest early yesterday saved Chicagoans from a temperature of 5 degrees above zero, forecast late Sunday. At 8 p. m. Sunday the temperature had dropped to 18 above, but the wind shift raised it to 21 above by 2 a. m. yesterday.

For today Forecaster J. R. Lloyd predicted continued cold weather, with temperatures ranging from 12 to 16 degrees. The wind will be from gentle to moderate. This forecast is general for the north central states, Mr. Lloyd said.

Plastic Surgeon Freed on Bond in Rape Case

Dr. Jean Paul Fernel, plastic surgeon at 677 North Michigan avenue, was released on $10,000 bond yesterday pending arraignment in Felony court tomorrow on charges of rape and operation of a confidence game. He was arrested on complaint of Miss May Morrill, 53 years old, of Worcester, Mass., who with her sister, Catherine, 47 years old, went to him for plastic surgery early this month. The alleged attack, according to the warant, occurred on Nov. 16. Dr. Fernel is represented by Attorney Samuel Hoffman.

City Controler Robert B. Upham completed a tentative estimate of the city's need for 1938 late yesterday, calling for a budget totaling $58,000,000. With the inclusion of $3,325,000 for salary restorations for city employés, this figure exceeds by $4,318,507 the 1937 corporate budget of $53,681,494. Revenue estimates for the coming year have not been finished.

Besides the pay restorations, items in the tentative budget which were not necessary in 1937 include $800,000 for track removal at the airport and an increase of $753,000 to the board of election commissioners for holding the 1938 primary and election.

$300,000 for Safety Lanes.

Excluding the salary item, Mr. Upham pointed out, the proposed budget is only about $994,000 higher than that for the current year.

A third new item is $300,000 which the city will have to spend to maintain auto safety lanes because of the removal of WPA workers. Federal aid will cease on Jan. 1.

A similar problem will face the board of education tomorrow when 3,000 WPA crossing guards on duty at intersections will be withdrawn. This is in line with President Roosevelt's stand that the guarding of streets is a city function.

United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, told of this situation yesterday by Richard S. Folsom, board of education attorney, said that when President Roosevelt returns from his fishing expedition off the Florida coast, he will try to revive the board's application to keep the guards.

Lots of Ifs, Says Mayor.

Discussing the tentative budget, Mayor Kelly said he understood there would be enough savings from items not being repeated from 1937 to hold the budget down to last year's, save for the pay restoration item.

"Of course, there are a lot of ifs and ands in the budget," he added.

The election commission is asking $1,246,640 from the city for 1938, which compares with $1,362,298 appropriated and a deficit of $20,358 for 1936, when a national primary and election were held.

ILLINOISIANS ASK IMPROVEMENT OF LINCOLN HIGHWAY

Morrison, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Residents along the Lincoln highway in the cities of Sterling, Rock Falls, Morrison, Fulton, Dixon, De Kalb, Rochelle and Geneva are working to get 50,000 signatures on a petition to Gov. Henry Horner, urging the modernization of the highway from the Mississippi river to Geneva.

The most recently organized Lincoln Highway Improvement association is the one at Dixon, the other coöperating cities having organized units previously.

"We believe that many lives could be saved and trafic would be rendered a distinct service by the widening, straightening of curves and general modernization of U. S. route 30, the Lincoln highway," says the petition. "We are in thorough accord with the aims of the committee formed by the Chicago Motor club along the Lincoln highway to secure, at as early a date as possible, the completion of this work."

MRS. ANNA HAHN FILES APPEAL OF DEATH SENTENCE

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Counsel for Anna Marie Hahn today renewed their fight to save her from the electric chair. They filed a formal appeal in the District Court of Appeals from the verdict of a Hamilton county jury which doomed her to die for the arsenic murder of Jacob Wagner. A bill of particulars will be filed later, the attorneys said.

Mrs. Hahn, who was on the point of collapse Saturday, had regained her poise today, jail attachés said.

Sherif George A. Lutz said he would hasten plans to remove Mrs. Hahn to the penitentiary to await electrocution, but refused to discuss his plans. Under Ohio law a condemned prisoner must be taken to the penitentiary within thirty days after sentence unless higher courts intervene. It is thought unlikely that the Appeals court will take any action on the Hahn case in that time.

PERMANENT HOSPITAL REFORM.

In view of the conditions at the County hospital, surveyed by the committee of experts headed by Dr. Cutter and summarized in the newspapers, Warden Zimmer's request for a reduction of his responsibilities will be understood by the public. It should also emphasize the importance of a thoroughgoing reorganization of the whole hospital setup. Warden Zimmer, we believe, has been doing the best he could with an impossible situation. He cannot be fairly blamed for not doing the impossible. He has given many years of conscientious public service beginning with his first term of office as alderman in 1901. For this the community is grateful. His request for relief from duties neither he nor any other incumbent could successfully perform is characteristic of his good will and will help to clear the way for the fundamental changes in organization which must be made if the problem of permanent and comprehensive reform of the hospital administration is to be solved.

The board of county commissioners is to be congratulated on laying a foundation for this reform. As a body changing from time to time with the vicissitudes of politics and made up of men whose experience does not prepare them to deal with the special problems of such an institution as the County hospital, the first essential to permanent betterment is a permanent, nonpolitical agency of supervision. Such an agency has been appointed, at the suggestion of the Cutter committee, by the county board which last summer created an advisory council for the hospital, consisting of the following citizens: Britton I. Budd, Walter J. Cummings, D. F. Kelly, Albert D. Lasker, Eugene McDonald Jr., Victor A. Olander, Charles H. Schweppe, and Col. A. A. Sprague. Another member will be added. The advisory council is to be self-perpetuating. It has asked the Cutter committee of experts on hospital administration to serve as its adviser on technical questions, and this invitation has been accepted.

Whether the present movement of reform is to produce permanent results depends upon whether these two new agencies, the council and its technical advisers, actually control the policy of the legal body invested by law with authority, namely, the county board. As long as the council is advisory merely the situation will remain at the mercy of the county board. At present that body is showing a commendable disposition to correct the intolerable conditions disclosed. But it may be replaced in the future by a membership less amenable to the demands of the public service. The history of the hospital is sufficient warning that nonpolitical control is essential to the establishment of the hospital's administration and development upon a permanent basis of efficiency. Legislation should insure this.

Meanwhile the sense of responsibility of the present county board and public demand for reform make it possible to accomplish some important betterments. The committee on survey has suggested the functions of the advisory council—namely, to advise the county commissioners on appropriations, effectiveness of the management, policies, practices, and plans for future development; to receive reports and make investigations; to appoint such technical or specialized subcommittees as may be required from time to time; to encourage public support for the hospital; to promote the development of the hospital as a center of medical education and research comparable to other great hospitals, and to study and evolve a long term program for the development of adequate facilities to meet future needs of the indigent sick of the county.

The advisory council is now perfecting its organization and should be ready before long to present recommendations to the county board. It will then be up to the latter body to effectuate the advice. The commissioners can have no doubt that the community will give its support to the measures proposed by the advisory council and its technical advisers. Both groups are disinterested and highly competent.

The care of the indigent sick and injured is a charge upon the conscience of the community, though it has been sorely neglected for many years. The disclosures of the Cutter committee have roused public opinion to the need not merely of piecemeal corrections but of a comprehensive and permanent reform. We have now efficient agencies to accomplish and sustain an adequate system of care for the indigent sick of the county and for the development of a great hospital and service for their relief. The present county board will write its name high in the records of public service by inaugurating this reform.

HIGHWAY NUISANCE NO. 2.

While it must be admitted that the impatient automobile driver who considers it necessary to keep a thumb on the horn button is the most conspicuous nuisance on our streets, the inconsiderate individual who insists on taking his half out of the middle of the driveway runs a close [illegible] practice because he forces any one who would pass him to break the law by crossing the center line.

It frequently has been said that the party fundamentally responsible for auto accidents is seldom a sufferer, although it seems doubtful if statistics would support such a claim. At any rate, the center of the road driver should realize that, unwittingly or not, he is causing a lot of irregular maneuvering that in the aggregate is an outstanding item in the list of causes contributing to crashes.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND ITS MARXIST HELPERS.

The political combination between the communists and the left, controling wing of the Democratic party, was disclosed in 1936 by the alignments made in support of the Democratic national ticket. THE TRIBUNE thought the alliance was plainly revealed and said so. The candidate denied it. The right wing Democrats supporting him said it wasn't so. They had to hope it wasn't or get out of the party and they intended to remain regular in spite of things they didn't like. Voters couldn't believe it. They never had had any experience with such a combination and they thought communists were whiskered men and wild women who couldn't get anywhere in the United States and were tolerated merely because America doesn't put the clamps on political activity, even when it is of an annoying sort.

Denials, disbelief, and incredulity didn't change the facts. The combination between the communists and the social planners in charge of the affairs of the Democratic party was made because the communists recognized the community of interests, and the radical Democrats, far from rejecting the support of the American collectivists, welcomed it because it was congenial and of a near kinship.

It has not been well enough understood in the United States that communism within the last few years has completely changed its major tactics. It is no longer the uncompromising theory of intransigeant zealots. It has now a pliant, conciliatory, expedient process of revolution which will not insist on doctrin, ideas or methods.

It is necessary for communism temporarily to take a modest and yielding part in these combinations, but the tendency must be to the extreme left and the results immediately sought will be the dislocation and disturbance of economic, social, and political forms. In France the communists do not object to the more moderate policies of the Popular Front government. They have made a number of sacrifices to preserve that government rather than wreck it by disagreement and withdrawal. They have given the Popular Front government of Spain in its civil war a great deal of military assistance without insisting on leadership at the present time.

The Trotzky communists are entirely opposed to this stratagem of joining whatever force seems to be most helpful to the communist cause politically, but the Stalin method approves it and the American communists in supporting the controling wing of the Democratic party are obeying explicit orders.

A great many more Americans are aware of this new amalgam in our politics now than a year ago. The denials of 1936 have been confronted by realities which could not be ignored. The organization which has operated most violently within the last year is John L. Lewis' C. I. O., in which the communist element has been strong, well defined, and easily recognized. Gov. Murphy, who supported Homer Martin and Lewis to the extent of using the state troops, had to admit that the communist agitators had gained so much power that they were producing a condition of anarchy, and he not only was moved to some indignant statements but he saw that he must to some degree change his attitude or be made an agent of the communist party.

In Minnesota, where the national Democrats withdrew the state Democratic ticket, the Farmer-Labor party which was the beneficiary of that political retreat has a core of communism influencing political thought and action. In New York the popular front party supporting La Guardia and the left wing Democrats polled so many communists that the communist party lost its legal standing and its place on the ballots.

Communism in the United States is no longer merely a subterranean group of revolutionaries hoping to bring about an armed uprising of proletarians. Its operators now appear as familiars of the American political scene, using the opportunities which normal processes afford and working with radicals in office who do not openly profess communist aims but who seek and obtain collectivist laws which the communists recognize as preparatory to the accomplishment of their own purposes.

Although there are more Democrats now in Washington than a year ago who oppose these tendencies on various fronts, they have not been able as yet to change the general direction of the revolutionaries. In the farm bill, the labor legislation, the TVA's, the housing plans, and in the general approach to collectivism the communists recognize their own. They could not by themselves conduct a revolution now. They step in on the experts when it has gone too far to be controled and checked.

Editorial of the Day

A CASE OF DISILLUSIONMENT.

[From the New York Times.]

The American Federation of Labor, hitherto a champion of the administration's wage and hour bill, has now come out against it, and the reason given for this change of front is interesting. The federation says that, having watched the national labor relations board in action, it has reached the conclusion that "it is no longer safe to permit a governmental board of that kind to make the many determinations necessary in the administration of the wage and hour bill as now written." Such a board cannot be trusted to decide, for example, whether collective bargaining is effective in a particular industry, or to determine the proper units for the classification of labor in determining matters of wages and hours.

This seems to be a clear case of disillusionment. And regardless of the merits of the federation's complaint against the national labor relations board—a complaint which the national labor relations board itself describes as unjust and unfounded—this switch in the attitude of one branch of the trade union movement is significant. For the first important time during the Roosevelt administration the American Federation of Labor has found that governmental intervention, which it greatly desired, has not worked out as it intended, and on the basis of this experience—to quote its words, "with trial and error as teacher"—it has decided that it wants no more of this particular type of governmental intervention.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

WHEN ACTORS in a horse costume entertain you they're giving you a modern version of the lion dance, known in Tibet as early as the Seventh century A. D., as you may see on an expedition among the masks and costumes of the Tibetan exhibit at the Field museum. There you'll find the stuffed costume of an engaging blue lion, seven feet long, with a red and black face, a blue mane, and bells on his harness. His partner is orange, with a blond mane, a red and gold face, and bells of his own. With a man in his front half and another in his back, either could roll his eyes, stick out his tongue, snap, wiggle his ears, and wag his tail.

The early Tibetans liked lion acts. But since lions had a distressing fondness for ending the tour by gobbling the troupe, strolling players tried selling their lions and performing in lion skins. The response was so gratifying that it was no time at all until the players were going the lions one better in fancy costumes instead of authentic skins. Soon the lion dance became a ceremonial performance that was believed, as were many of the Tibetan mystery plays, to be helpful in driving out demons. It endured as such for centuries, although it eventually became light entertainment again, the lions frolicking merrily with a big ball, the wags.

The museum's lions are but a part of the Tibetan exhibit, which is quite as much fun as a costume ball, and instructive in the bargain. There's a laughing tiger, too, into whose costume actors clambered on New Year's, to dance the old year out and the new one in. The laughing tiger after which he was modeled was a religious figure believed to live underground, where he guarded a huge treasure. The Tibetans had a failing for masks and costumes. Some of the masks are smiling ones, but most of them are serious, if not actually grim. Gayer ones have bright, fanlike hair ribbons. Some are modeled after the heads of animals you know, like the cow, while others were designed as imaginary creatures that it would upset you somewhat to meet. One figure, which represents a female sprite, is a dolphin with the head of an elephant, trunk, tusks, and all, a blue face, and a set of horns thrown in as an afterthought. She, or more correctly it, wears enormous earrings and affects the mirrored headdress so common to the Tibetan masks.

GOLD OF OPHIR.

The gold of Ophir came from fabled days
When history was warm in singing praise
Of sultans who went forth upon parade
With elephants by hundreds to give aid.
A lofty peak—the Golden Chersonese,
Looked on those scenes of splendor and of ease,
For Achin was a land of old romance,
And gold was found in lands of great expanse.
All gold since then has gone its fabled way—
It may be here tomorrow; gone, today.

THERE'S A MAN who sometimes strolls through Lincoln park with two birds strapped to his wrist. They're falcons, real hunting falcons, he explained when asked the other day. He takes them south on hunting trips, occasionally. The one he keeps hooded is the female; she has the more unpleasant disposition and would cause no end of trouble if she saw a small bird or animal she thought she'd like to hunt. The smaller and meeker one is the male. If the owner meant what he said, he hires small boys to catch live sparrows for their dinner. Falcon's often mispronounced. Gustave I.

WHY DEVELOP THE ENEMA HABIT?

THERE was a time when the enema was thought to be a cure-all—a panacea for all ills. Even Hippocrates, the old Greek physician, considered enemas preferable to purgatives, and Pliny relates that the Egyptians acquired the practice through observing the habits of the ibis. They misinterpreted the maneuver on the part of that sacred bird. He merely was covering his beak with oil from the preen gland and transferring the material to his feathers.

The procedure reached the height of its popularity in the 17th century and it is recorded that Louis XIV. experienced several thousand intestinal douches.

Physicians learned also that the rectum could absorb fluids and Celsus claimed that he could keep patients alive by introducing simple foods in solution into the lower bowel. Today this plan is followed daily in every modern hospital. The method involves the slow administration of glucose, salt solution, and soothing drugs.

The routine use of the enema for the relief of constipation is widespread and is of great value with invalids or those weakened by disease. A sluggish bowel is the rule whenever an individual fails to train the intestinal tube to respond to the impulse of contraction. Whether we wish it or not, movements along the digestive tract [peristalsis] occur rhythmically and periodically. They are not under the control of the will. Ordinarily we are unaware of this propelling force and sense a feeling of discomfort only when the rectum becomes distended. This means that every one should yield to the natural desire to empty the bowel.

The one who is contending with a tendency to chronic constipation can make a substantial advance by reorganizing his habits and attempting to allay any irritation that may be present by nightly injections of three or four ounces of warm olive oil or cottonseed oil. This usually can be retained with comfort. The following morning the normal impulse, if heeded, will result satisfactorily.

I know persons who are accustomed to take—three or four times a week—an enema consisting of strong soapsuds to which a small amount of turpentine, ox-gall, or glycerin is added. The irritating effects of such mixtures may not be observed for some time, but sooner or later annoying symptoms will appear because the mucous membrane has lost its patience and has finally rebeled.

Let us assume that a rectal injection is needed. The ideal position is to place the patient on his side and introduce a soft rubber catheter not more than two inches. Little force should be exerted, hence the reservoir should not be more than two feet above the patient. The best possible medicament—unless some emergency exists—is warm, normal salt solution [one teaspoonful to a pint of boiled water].

The so-called colonic irrigation is required only occasionally. The past dozen years or so, however, have witnessed a revival in the employment of this measure. All too frequently it has been resorted to in conditions for which it is not at all suitable. It may be of assistance in severe forms of colitis, as astringent and antiseptic drugs thus can be brought into contact with the diseased mucous membrane without undergoing the changes that would inevitably take place if they passed through the digestive tract. With the invalid in the knee-chest position, some of the fluid will journey into the colon.

Contrary to general belief there is little advantage in cleansing the lower end of the digestive tract. Nature fills this space slowly and the accumulating pressure from above brings on evacuation. With nonirritating solutions the enema may do no more harm than to slow up the natural contractions of the intestinal tube. The victim of the enema habit should be weaned gradually, aided by proper diet. We should remind ourselves that the less we interfere with nature's machinery the better.

TREATING LUMBAGO.

P. L. writes: Is there a cure for lumbago?

REPLY.

Treatment is the same as for any form of muscular rheumatism. Have teeth, tonsils, sinuses, etc., examined, and, if focal infection is found, remove it. Keep the general health up to par by nutritious, nonirritating food, fresh air, and rest. For immediate relief of pain, rest and heat are essential. Irritation of the skin [mustard plaster] over the seat of pain may afford instant relief. Other measures of value are hot air baths, diathermy, and gentle massage. In some cases potassium iodide is recommended.

NO CAUSE FOR WORRY.

Mrs. M. L. writes: I have heard that lefthanded people are more likely to have heart trouble than righthanded persons. Since my husband and my little boy are lefthanded, I am worried.

REPLY.

Lefthandedness is not a factor in heart disease. This is one of those absurd "sayings" which has no basis in fact.

CUT STRAIGHT ACROSS.

A. R. writes: Is it correct to cut the toe nails straight off or should they be cut like the finger nails?

REPLY.

Cut toe nails straight across. This avoids the danger of tissue heaping up over the curved edges—the condition known as "ingrowing" toe nails.

SENATORIAL TIMBER.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Next year Senator Dieterich's term expires, but he seems undecided about becoming a candidate for reëlection. Some think he is angling to get an appointment to the federal bench. The senator has not shown himself to be a man of any particular attainments and perhaps it would be just as well for him to retire to private life. Surely the federal courts should not be made the dumping ground for unsuccessful statesmen—save the mark.

The Democrats of the rank and file want a progressive in the United States senate, a real true progressive, not merely a conformist to administration policies as Senator Dieterich has been. A real progressive will be a real liberal who can be counted on to vote his convictions and who will not be progressive only when it is expedient.

A state like Illinois is entitled to something more than a politician to represent it in the United States senate.

JOHN L. O'BRIEN.

THE COMPANY IS BROKE.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—West siders awake! There is a concerted move to rob you of the only rapid transit you have and force you to depend on buses. Just imagine the number of buses it would take to replace even one eight car L train [about sixteen] and then figure out the number of buses it would take to replace all the L trains they are trying to eliminate.

Do you want to stand around and wait to crowd on a bus on a cold winter's night to reach your home? Or do you wish to take a comfortable L train?

What we west siders want is rehabilitated L roads. The three-fourths of the people should get a break. Why just plan for the automobile driver all the time? Buses cannot give rapid transit.

WEST SIDER.

STILL FOR ROOSEVELT.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 24.—May I, as a federal employé and a disabled veteran of the world war, be permitted a few observations? President Roosevelt probably has been the worst enemy of the two classes I represent that has ever been in the White House, but he has had the courage to do a multitude of highly beneficial things, which unquestionably benefited scores of millions of people. Contrast this with the do-nothing attitude of his immediate predecessors in office.

The objective of WPA projects is twofold: To create much needed work for man power, not machinery; and to leave or build improvements whose full value will be felt in the years to come, probably more than now.

If the hill at Mount Vernon, Ia., complained of by one of your correspondents, had been removed by two steam shovels and twenty dump trucks, instead of hundreds of men, as it probably was, who would have received the money? Private contractors who were eating regularly before, no doubt.

I wonder if it ever occurred to you that if President Roosevelt had not immediately closed the banks, aided the badgered farmer and the unemployed city youth [potential criminals] via the CCC, and fostered CWA and PWA work projects, that we would, no doubt, be now in the throes of a long and bloody civil war or revolution that would have made the Russian revolution look like a piker.

To be sure, he has made mistakes; to be sure, he was ill advised on many things. He can't do it all; he must have help. Who, pray, can you name who could have done better under the circumstances?

LEONARD RAY.

DANGEROUS ROOSEVELT ROAD

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Permit me to call your attention to the trafic situation along Roosevelt road, from Clinton street to Halsted street. There isn't a trafic light of any sort in this stretch, and, because of this fact, drivers in all sorts of vehicles go at breakneck speed in a continuous line. It is very hazardous to cross the street and, unless something is done, you will find this section contributing heavily to the toll of total deaths by automobiles in Chicago.

Our building is situated on Clinton street, just south of Roosevelt road. To reach us, men, women, and children have to imperil their necks. If you want to know what the situation is I invite you to send out a reporter to see for himself. If he got back alive to tell the story I am sure he'd favor stop lights or a shotgun. People in the "better neighborhoods" wouldn't stand for a condition like that complained of for a minute. Is human life out here not worth some decent measure of protection?

BIRTHDAY tribute: A Chicago woman lifted the receiver of her bedside telephone when it rang fairly early yesterday morning to hear a warm, glowing, lovely voice singing the birthday song, "Happy Birthday to You, Happy Birthday to You." Thus it was recalled to her that it was her birthday. The singer was Claire Dux, whose voice has thrilled thousands in opera and concert. The birthday lady was Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed.

It was when he was on his way back to Honolulu, after his escape, that he and Mrs. Anderson were married in Chicago. She was on her way from Honolulu to London to resume voice study with Melba. He persuaded her to marry him and return to Honolulu with him.

FORD offers two new cars for 1938—the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance—but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence—on the same 112-inch wheelbase chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same fundamental Ford advantages. For them, we have designed a new De Luxe line.

The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer with more room, larger luggage space, and finer appointments. De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85-horsepower engine. They provide an added measure of motoring satisfaction at low Ford prices.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors. It gives you again a choice of V-8 engine sizes—85 horsepower or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eight-cylinder car with all-around economy. The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost.

With two distinct designs, two engine sizes and two price ranges, you'll find a 1938 Ford V-8 car to fit your personal needs exactly. Whichever one you choose, you get the same proved Ford features. Whatever price you pay, you get a car built soundly to serve you well. . . . That's the Ford way.

Both Standard and De Luxe cars come equipped with front and rear bumpers and bumper guards, spare wheel, tire and tube, tire lock and band, cigar lighter, twin horns, and headlight beam indicator on instrument panel, at no extra charge.

HIGHLIGHTS OF MARKET FINDINGS

Refrigerators:

Families in homes valued at $10,000 or over are the most active new refrigerator market. Growth of the replacement market definitely dispels the idea that the above-average market is "saturated."

Laundry Soap:

Camera Film:

Cold Cream:

Unit sales of two leading brands are 100 per cent greater in drug stores in above-average areas—and more of the purchases are large-size units.

Cocktail Crackers:

Who are your best customers in New York? Where do they live and buy? How can your advertising build a volume market in New York?

The market research department of The New York Times has found some of the answers—it may be to your problem. New selling facts have been gathered from thousands of retailers and consumers in New York. Laundry soap, refrigerators, cold cream, camera film are some of the products covered in market suveys. The investigations all point to a single, vital conclusion for every advertiser in New York!

The most active volume markets for advertised products, regardless of price, are neighborhoods where purchasing power is above-average.

Whatever you sell or plan to sell in New York, these studies show how to concentrate your advertising in areas where merchants and outlets produce your biggest turnover. It's easy and economical to do this in New York—because The New York Times provides you with a bigger market of above-average families than any other newspaper. This fact, more than any other, is the foundation of The Times 19 years of New York advertising leadership.

INVITATION to EXECUTIVES

Full information on all studies completed will be gladly furnished on request to The Times Advertising Department. Many major fields have already been covered and other investigations are planned to round out this valuable market picture.

"ALL THE NEWS THAT'S FIT TO PRINT"

A lanky individual of 27 years who since 1934 has been nonchalantly carrying 12 sticks of dynamite around the country in a suitcase was arrested yesterday afternoon and confessed the bombing early Sunday of the home of Mrs. Patricia Davis, 2536 South Troy street. The blast shattered 17 windows and slightly injured Mrs. Davis.

The dynamiter, who has been a suitor of Mrs. Davis, is Charles Karovich, an employe of a plumbing concern. His wife Catherine is an expectant mother. The Sunday episode began with what seemed to be a minor spat between Karovich and Mrs. Davis while they were out dancing Saturday night.

Why Charley Got Annoyed.

Mrs. Davis went home. After Karovich had telephoned her home three times and finally was told by the operator that the phone receiver apparently was off the hook he went home, got two sticks of his explosive hoard and set them off on a window sill of the Davis home. At that time Mrs. Davis knew Karovich only as Charley, but she knew where he worked and police traced him.

Yesterday afternoon Lawndale police smashed in the door of the Karovich flat at 1733 West 18th place and subdued Charley after a struggle in which both Charley and the police were bruised.

Questioned at the Lawndale police station by Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, Karovich said last night that he had stolen 12 sticks of dynamite from a CCC camp in Idaho when he was discharged in 1934. Since then, he added, he has been carrying them around with the feeling that some time they would prove useful.

Five Sticks Still Missing.

A search of the flat, however, revealed only five sticks, and since the prisoner said he used but two in the Davis bombing, Mr. Coghlan began trying to persuade Karovich to tell what became of the other five. After much head shaking and muttering, the prisoner said he just couldn't remember.

A further search of the well furnished apartment revealed two pioneer model six shooters and a bank book showing deposits of $800—but no dynamite. Late last evening police still were poking gingerly about in the flat.

60 DAYS FOR 6 CENT ROBBERY.

Lacy Walker, 17 years old, 6020 South Racine avenue, was fined $10 and sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Boys' court when he was identified as one of five colored youths who robbed a boy, 14 years old, of 6 cents.

SHIP QUEEN MARY PLOWS INTO PIER; 20 RUN FOR LIVES

New York, Nov. 29. — [Special.] — Nudging into port more than an hour late because of storms at sea, the liner Queen Mary today crashed into its pier at West 50th street, smashed the dock structure, and caused a score of persons to run for safety.

The impact shattered two steel girders on the upper level of the pier, stove in a steel and glass door, and demolished a baggage escalator.

No shock was felt aboard the liner, but those on the pier said the shore structure shuddered and swayed as one of the floats used to keep the ship from approaching too close to the pier was cut loose. There were 983 passengers on the Queen Mary.

Two Pound 13 Ounce Baby Born; Placed in Incubator

New York, Nov. 29. [Special.]—A boy weighing two pounds 13 ounces was born in Bushwick hospital, Brooklyn, today and was placed in an incubator. Mrs. Grace Seifert, 20 years old is the mother. Hospital officials said the baby has a chance to survive.

GONE FROM BRIDE 20 YEARS; A JOB BRINGS HIM HOME

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Absent twenty years from the bride he left to go to war, Hallie Daigh came home today and found a few changes. His wife had divorced him after he was listed as missing in action, had remarried, and now is the mother of a son, 17 years old, by her second husband.

Daigh, 39 years old, said he had just been wandering around since the war ended and he believed he would just keep on. He visited his former wife, met her husband, Otis Jennings, and their son, and then announced he would be "moving along tomorrow."

The war veteran explained an impaired memory caused by a gas attack kept him from his bride immediately following the war. Then he had a dread of interfering in her life after so many years had passed. A structural iron worker, his wanderings finally brought him here.

WIDE AREA USES NEW LINK BRIDGE, SURVEY REVEALS

Loop Supplies Only 15% of Trafic.

BY HAL FOUST.

Only 15 per cent of the 80,000 automobiles daily crossing the outer bridge are en route to or from the loop. Approximately 47 per cent is cross town trafic, the trips neither starting nor ending within two miles of Madison street. About 37 per cent of the trafic originates or terminates outside of the loop but within two miles of Madison street.

These figures and others were obtained in a survey just completed by Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer of the Chicago park district, in the first official study of Chicago's motor travel system since it was remapped by the opening of the new bridge on Oct. 5.

Michigan Avenue Load Cut.

The Michigan avenue bridge, which formerly carried 70,000 cars a day across its upper level, was found to be carrying only 40,000 vehicles today, and 20 per cent of these are buses and taxicabs. Before the completion of the outer bridge, Michigan avenue was used by the heavy trafic flow between the north and the south sides that is now accommodated on the lake front boulevard.

Today, said Mr. Jelinek, 48 per cent of the Michigan bridge users are en route to or from points in an area bounded by the lake, Dearborn street, Chicago avenue, and Randolph street.

Aside from this survey, observers noted that a large number of automobiles bearing plates from states other than Illinois are using Michigan avenue. Presumably, tourists are being misguided by the U. S. 12 and 41 markers, which have not been moved as yet to the express travel route over the outer bridge.

Wide Area Supplies Trafic.

The study found that the outer bridge is drawing its trafic from a wide area. Northwest side motorists are driving east to the lake front before turning south, going out of their way to avoid more direct routes via Western or Ashland avenues. On the south side the Hyde Park district is the most concentrated source of trafic, although there, too, a large number are coming or going to westerly points.

Surprising to Mr. Jelinek was the volume of trafic over the outer bridge originating or terminating on the outskirts of the business district. He said motorists seem to be using the new span as a bypass around the loop even for short trips.

An appreciable volume, although not a major portion of the outer bridge trafic, is going to or coming from Austin or suburbs almost directly west of the loop. North avenue and Augusta boulevard are being used as approaches to the lake front span.

La Salle Bridge Not Affected.

The La Salle street bridge, the survey disclosed, has lost little of its trafic to the new outer drive development. This is due, Mr. Jelinek said, to the nature of the La Salle street trafic, approximately 70 per cent of it originating or terminating in the west half of the central business district.

The survey consisted of interviewing 1,876 motorists whose license numbers were noted as they crossed the bridges. It was a small sample, but enough, according to the park district engineer, to be representative. The purpose of this and similar periodic studies is to guide future development of trafic facilities. For example, the La Salle street users by next July will have a new pavement across the southern end of Lincoln park for a better connection with the outer drive. No immediate betterment is in sight for those using the obviously poor North avenue and Augusta boulevard routes.

MARKET LOSSES CUT DREYFUS ESTATE; TAX BILLS MAY TAKE HALF

Stock market losses have depleted the $1,305,000 estate of Moise Dreyfus, retired steel company executive, so that inheritance taxes and administration expenses may take half of it. This was disclosed yesterday in a state inheritance tax return filed in the County court by Attorney Samuel R. Rosenthal. An inventory placed the state tax at $41,916, the federal inheritance tax at $239,253, and administration expenses at $63,000.

When Mr. Dreyfus died last March in Phoenix, Ariz., he was the owner of 11,600 shares of Inland Steel company stock, then valued for tax purposes at $104 a share, or a total of $1,206,400. Inland Steel was quoted yesterday at $62 a share, or a total of $719,200 on the Dreyfus holdings. Inheritance taxes must be paid on the old valuation, and must be paid within a year unless extensions are granted. A recovery in Inland Steel would, of course, benefit the estate.

Mr. Dreyfus' will left the bulk of his estate in trust to his widow, a son, Philip, and a daughter, Mrs. Marie Rosenthal, wife of Attorney Rosenthal.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Record Grain Harvest.

November 29, 1937.

BULGING bins and cribs are now groaning under the weight of one of the biggest grain crops harvested on the Tribune's Yorkville experimental farm in years. More than 27,000 bushels of corn, wheat, oats, and rye have been harvested this year and stored to be fed on the farm. This was produced on a little more than 600 acres.

With the four different kinds of grains, feeders will have a variety for use in making up winter rations for beef cattle, milk cows, hogs, sheep, and work horses. Most of the grain will be used in fattening steers. There are 350 cattle now in the feed lots and stalk fields.

1,000 Tons of Silage.

In addition to the big crop of grain, the farm has harvested this year more than 1,000 tons of silage, green corn, clover, alfalfa, and soy bean hay. All of this will be fed to live stock on the farm. This feed, all high grade, was harvested from a little more than 200 acres of land.

Hogs were turned in on approximately 30 acres of corn.

Crops were harvested from a total of 860 acres. There are about 412 acres being used for pasture.

These yield figures were taken from the farm manager's note book the other day when he was checking over his feed supply and trying to outline his feeding program for this winter.

Estimates made by the manager after the crops were under shelter show that there were produced on the Yorkville place this year 16,102 bushels of corn, all of improved hybrid strains, on a total of 302 acres picked and cribbed. The corn put in the cribs averaged approximately 53 bushels to the acre, ranging from 35 bushels an acre produced on a 35 acre field seriously injured by grubs, to 64 bushels an acre on a 100 acre field.

More Acreage Data.

His figures also show that 8,650 bushels of oats were raised on 165 acres. They averaged 52 bushels to an acre.

Eighty-five acres of rye yielded 1,932 bushels, averaging 22.7 bushels per acre.

The poorest grain crop showing was made in spring wheat. The crop had an excellent start and a short time before harvest, field estimates placed the harvest at 25 to 30 bushels an acre. A few days before the binders were put into the field the wheat was hit by black stem rust, reducing the total yield on 66 acres to 608 bushels, or an average of only 9.4 bushels an acre. The wheat is of poor quality and will be fed to live stock.

Fifty-three acres of corn cut and fed green or chopped up and blown into the silo yielded a total of 550 tons, or an average of 10.4 tons an acre.

Ninety-six acres of timothy and alfalfa produced 139 tons, an average of slightly less than 1½ tons an acre.

Soy beans made a satisfactory yield, producing 320 tons of hay on 63 acres, an average of nearly 5 tons an acre. Thirty-three acres of the beans were of the Manchu variety, averaging 5.7 tons an acre, and 30 acres of black sable, 4.3 tons per acre.

RETIRED TEACHER DIES OF INJURIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Former Boys' School Instructor Is Victim.

Alfred Owen, 62 years old, a retired teacher, died yesterday in the Billings Memorial hospital of injuries incurred Saturday when he was struck near his home at 5714 Blackstone avenue by an automobile driven by Rex Blake, 5620 Drexel avenue. Blake said Owen stepped in front of his car.

Owen, a graduate of the United State Naval academy, formerly taught in the Harvard School for Boys at 4731 Ellis avenue and later was an instructor in a private school in Milwaukee.

Injured in Sheridan Road.

Clarence Johnson, 35 years old, 1108 Cleveland street, Evanston, was seriously injured yesterday by an automobile in Sheridan road at Bryn Mawr avenue. The car was driven by Joseph Adelman, 6450 Newgard avenue, who was held on charges of reckless driving. Johnson was taken to the Edgewater Beach hospital.

Double funeral services were held yesterday at Morris, Ill., for Mrs. Hilda Burde, 55 years old, and her son, Joseph Burde Jr., of 1261 North Dearborn street. Mrs. Burde was killed and her son fatally injured in an automobile accident near Morris early Friday.

Miss Florence Almond, 26 years old, colored, a maid in the home of Dr. George H. Gardner, 7321 South Shore drive, saw an automobile containing two women and a girl about 4 years old skid partly across the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad near 72d street and Exchange avenue yesterday as the crossing gates were lowered at the approach of a northbound suburban train.

Maid Flags Train.

The women alighted, leaving the girl inside, and tried vainly to push the car out of danger. Taking off her coat Miss Almond ran along the tracks waving the garment and stopped the train. The women drove away without identifying themselves.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 985 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 741 were killed in Chicago, where 20,931 were injured in the same period.

[See editorial page for massacre clock.]

DISOBEYS ORDER TO STOP DRIVING; GETS JAIL TERM

For disobeying an order suspending his driving privileges, Al Nelson, 46 years old, 3822 North Racine avenue, was sentenced to thirty days in jail yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in Safety court. On Nov. 9 Nelson was fined $100 and barred from operating a car for sixty days on a charge of drunken driving. He was arrested again last Friday.

Judge Braude suspended the driving rights of five reckless motorists. Jack Mackey, 2917 Wilcox street, was fined $10 and barred from driving for thirty days. Joseph Levandoski, 1527 Haddon avenue was placed on probation for six months and ordered not to drive in that period. Ralph Potter, 1623 Bryon street, was fined $10 and suspended from driving for ten days.

Elden Benge, 2511 North Major avenue, and Matthew Estanovich, 3216 Wallace street, were fined $10 each and barred from driving for sixty and fifteen days, respectively.

Death of Albert Philpot in Fire Called Accident

A coroner's jury found yesterday that the death of Albert Philpot, a retired real estate dealer who was burned in his room in the Woodmere hotel, 4641 Woodlawn avenue, Saturday, was accidental. Mr. Philpot was 81 year old. He was rescued from his burning bed by Policeman Henry Larson of the Hyde Park station, but died in the Chicago hospital a short time later.

OBITUARIES

FERDINAND A. BUESCHER.

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Ferdinand Augustus Buescher, 76 years old, founder of the Buescher Band Instrument company and identified with the industry since he came to Elkhart as a lad of 14, died today following a heart attack. When Art Musical Instruments, Inc., was formed here in 1932 Mr. Buescher was engaged as its general manager. Before that he had been active head of the Buescher company for thirty-five years. When Mr. Buescher, who was born in Ohio, came to Elkhart from Goshen, Ind., with his parents in 1875, he was given a job in the pioneer horn factory of the late C. G. Conn.

C. W. CLAY.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Funeral services for C. W. Clay, 94 years old, will be held in Clinton tomorrow. He came to Illinois from Ohio in 1850, the trip being made with his parents in a covered wagon drawn by oxen. During his life he established the record of plowing corn for 70 consecutive years. He had received the diamond jewel for 50 years' membership in the Odd Fellows.

G. R. EMPSON.

Escanaba, Mich., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—G. R. Empson, 62 years old, a Gladstone attorney and insurance man, died this morning. He was state representative from Delta county in 1915, district governor of Rotary International in 1929 and active in crippled children's work.

HANS GEORGE KREISSL.

Hans George Kreissl, western division manager for the American Radiator company, died yesterday in the Evanston hospital after an illness of four months. He was 53 years old and lived at 408 Lee street, Evanston. Mr. Kreissl had been with the radiator company for thirty-one years. He was born in Vienna, Austria, educated in Switzerland, and brought here in 1891 by his late father, Dr. Filipp Kreissl, famous surgeon. Mr. Kreissl is survived by his widow and a son, Filipp. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the First Presbyterian church, Evanston.

MRS. ELIZABETH J. MORSE.

Gifford, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth J. Morse, who would have been 100 years old next Jan. 9, is dead at her home here. She was the granddaughter of a revolutionary war soldier.

MRS. NELLIE B. McDERMOTT.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Bradley McDermott, mother of Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. from Visitation church, Garfield boulevard and Peoria street, with burial in Mt. Olivet cemetery. Mrs. McDermott, who was 68 years old, died Sunday night in Holy Cross hospital of pneumonia. She is survived by her husband, Michael J. McDermott, and seven other children, besides the alderman. They are Father Ignatius McDermott, Sister Mary Jeanette, Mrs. Kathleen Stack, Albert, Michael J. Jr., John P. and Frank McDermott.

JOHN C. ROTH.

John C. Roth, general superintendent of transportation for the Burlington railroad since 1931, died yesterday in Augustana hospital after an illness of four months. Mr. Roth, who was 63 years old, lived at 322 Belden avenue. He entered railroad work in 1894 with the Northern Pacific. In 1918 he directed the bureau of service of the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington. Mr. Roth is survived by his widow, Crianna Abbot Ross, and four children by a former wife. Funeral services will be held at 6 p. m. today in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue.

FRED M. SHEARER.

Fred M. Shearer, attorney and former Republican member of the state legislature from the 14th district, Kane and Kendall counties, died yesterday of heart disease in the Copley hospital, Aurora. He was 53 years old. Mr. Shearer was stricken last Wednesday at his home, 168 South Highland avenue. He was the senior member of the law firm of Shearer & Sears. He is survived by his widow, Ivy, and four children, Ruth, Richard, Jean, and Mark.

PROF. ROYAL B. WAY.

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Prof. Royal B. Way, head of the political science department of Beloit college for thirty years, died unexpectedly tonight at the age of 64 after a brief illness. He had been very active in international law associations and wrote "Diplomacy of the Spanish-American War." He is survived by his widow.

MRS. MEDORA THAYER WEBB.

Funeral services will be held at the Strang funeral home in Antioch at 2 p. m. tomorrow for Mrs. Medora Thayer Webb, 1064 South Main street, Antioch, a lifelong resident of Lake county. She died in her home yesterday of heart disease at the age of 77. Surviving are two children, Raymond and Elizabeth. Mrs. Webb was the widow of George E. Webb, Antioch storekeeper for fifty years, who died in 1918.

BOY WITH RARE MALADY HERE ON LONG PLANE TRIP

A smiling Mexican boy who is suffering from a rare bone malady passed through Chicago last night en route by plane to his home in Mexico City from the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., where he had been under observation for two weeks. He is Enrique H. Gonzales Jr., 7 years old, son of a candy importer.

The malady from which the blond youngster is suffering is causing his bones to curve the wrong way. So far his arms and legs are principally affected, although other bones of the body may suffer similarly.

Chicago medical experts said his case suggested any one of several bone maladies, but most probably osteomalacia. This is essentially a lack of sufficient calcium in the bones, making them soft and bendable when under body weight.

Enrique, accompanied by his father, left for home at 9 p. m. on a Braniff Airways plane. With them was Hostess Irene Martinez, who speaks Spanish. The boy has been ordered to go on a calcium phosphate diet and must make the 5,000 mile return trip to the Mayo clinic next March.

$35,000 IS ADDED IN CAMPAIGN FOR COMMUNITY FUND

Additional contributions of more than $35,000 to the Community fund were announced yesterday by the campaign chairman, Gen. Robert E. Wood. It had been previously announced that 90 per cent of the quota set for the drive, $3,550,000, has been subscribed.

Among the later donors are the Chicago Tribune Carities, $5,000, and TRIBUNE employés, $5,279. The following companies donated $1,000 each: National Broadcasting; Time, Inc.; Standard Brands, Inc.; Victor Chemical Works; Caspers Tin Plate; Electro-motive corporation; Great Lakes Dredge and Dock; Parisian Novelty; J. E. Bennett & Co.; Edward Hinos Lumber; Independent Casing; United Drill and Tool; Ditto, Inc.; Warner Brothers; Circuit Management; Ames, Thiess, Olson & Mecklenburger; Cooke, Sullivan & Ricks; Superior Felt and Bedding; Borden; Straus & Schram; Norris Grain; L. Fish Furniture; Crowe Name Plate; Monarch Brewing; Central Manufacturing District, and employés of Republic Steel.

Flush Poisons From Kidneys and Stop Getting Up Nights

Be Healthier, Happier—Live Longer

When you can get for 35 cents a supremely efficient and harmless stimulant and diuretic that will flush from your kidneys the waste matter, poisons and acid that are now doing you harm, why continue to break your restful sleep by getting up thru the night.

Just ask your druggist for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—but be sure and get GOLD MEDAL—right from Haarlem in Holland. Other symptoms of weak kidneys and irritated bladder are backache, puffy eyes, leg cramps, moist palms, burning or scanty passage.

REVEAL MACKAY TOMB GUARDED FOR FIVE YEARS

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The mausoleum that contains the bodies of John W. Mackay, "the silver king," and his wife in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, has been under a twenty-four hour guard since marks of a chisel were found five years ago on an outer door, it became known today.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackay were the parents of Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the board of the Postal Telegraph company.

The apparent attempt to break into the mausoleum, the most impressive in the cemetery, was reported for the first time today as a result of a strike of cemetery employés. Four special guards keep the constant watch.

Declaring a health problem was involved, Mayor F. H. La Guardia warned 350 strikers and cemetery officials to settle their differences at once or he would delegate city employés to dig needed graves.

Ski Fans Form a Modest Club at La Crosse

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN a few days the young people who skied so enthusiastically over the "Mississippi Alps" at La Crosse, Wis., last winter will be receiving invitations from the newly formed Snow Chase club to become members and to spend New Year's eve in the club's headquarters in La Crosse.

The party to welcome 1938 will be the first big social event of the club, and at the same time it will provide a different kind of a New Year's eve celebration. Although it will be a gay one, it is doubtful if the party will be a late one, for burning the candle at both ends is impracticable when one spends two long days skiing on thrilling slopes.

Miss Frances Jeffery, Stewart Boal, Everett Lee Millard Jr., Edgerton Throckmorton, Dr. Arthur Holbrook of Milwaukee, and Henry Meers are governors of the club. Modest dues are being asked of those invited to join, and this money will go towards paying the rent of the land the club has leased for its exclusive skiing privileges, and for clearing some of the land to improve ski runs. Instead of returning to town for the noonday meal on skiing week-ends, luncheons will be served in a house on the club's rented property, and there will be bus service from La Cross to the ski hills two miles away. The club will have a private lounge in a hotel at La Crosse for members' use.

Carrington Lloyd Weds in East.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth of Winchester, Mass., announce the marriage of their daughter, Virginia Alice, to Carrington Mason Lloyd, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry D. Lloyd of Little Compton, R. I., formerly of Chicago.

The wedding took place at 6 o'clock last Saturday afternoon in the Meyer chapel of the Unitarian church in Winchester, the Rev. George Hale Reed officiating.

Ann Mather-Smith Is Bride in Florida.

At 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning in the Oakland, Fla., home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Mather-Smith, their youngest daughter, Miss Ann Mather-Smith, was married to John Chester Fischbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Fischbeck of San Francisco. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the two families.

It is expected that Mr. Fischbeck and his bride, who took back her maiden name following her divorce last spring from Richard F. Baldwin III., will come to Chicago the week-end of Dec. 18 to see her sister, Mrs. James Allen Turner, and Mr. Turner, who will entertain for them at that time.

The bride's other sister, Mrs. Richard S. Bull, and Mr. Bull are in Tucson, Ariz., where the latter is recuperating from an illness. They will not return to Winnetka until Christmas time.

Mr. Fischbeck and his bride will spend Christmas on board ship midway between California and Honolulu, where they will live. It was in Honolulu last summer that the former Miss Mather-Smith and Mr. Fischbeck met. They will be at home in a charming little house after Feb. 1, but until then they will be at the Royal Hawaiian hotel. Mr. Fischbeck is a graduate of the University of Southern California, and is connected with a steamship line.

Helen Jepson Opens Morning Musicals.

Looking like a Puritan maiden in a long sleeved, high necked, white collared, long gray gown and a little gray cap, Helen Jepson yesterday morning added to the splendid impression she already had made on Chicago music lovers in her operatic appearance. She sang at the first of Mrs. Gilbert Smith's eleven o'clock matinés. The Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house, where la Jepson sang, is a

Tyrone Power, Loretta Young Lead Film Poll

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—First returns of the vote submitted to 20,000,000 newspaper readers from coast to coast for the movie king and queen of 1937 give:

First: Tyrone Power and Loretta Young!

Second: Robert Taylor and Myrna Loy!

Third: Clark Gable and Jeanette MacDonald!

But the race has just started. Taylor is only twenty-one points behind Power for first place. Miss Young and Miss Loy are fewer than sixty points apart.

Six strong contestants are fighting doggedly in the second division. They were, in the order of their standing tonight:

Paul Muni and Barbara Stanwyck.
Nelson Eddy and Luise Rainer.
Errol Flynn and Janet Gaynor.

There's a surprise! Janet Gaynor, the petite titian haired girl who won the movie queen's crown in 1932—five years ago—is a threat to repeat.

The 1937 king and queen of the movies contest is a one day election held by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and fifty-four other newspapers in key cities. Sunday editions carried a ballot for readers to list their first, second, and third screen favorites.

The contest is to be decided on points. Film stars listed as first favorites receive three points. Those in second place on the ballots get two, and those in the third get one. The total number of points accredited to each favorite is the sum of all the points on all the ballots cast for him or her.

Helps Plan Big Apple Party

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. John R. Harder of Evanston is assisting with plans for the big apple party the Kenilworth center of Infant Welfare is giving Saturday night at the Knickerbocker hotel.

Novel Decorations

With a good swing band to play, and a group of dancers to demonstrate the Big Apple, every one who goes to the Big Apple party the Kenilworth Center of Infant Welfare is giving Saturday at the Knickerbocker hotel should learn a few new dance steps before the evening is over.

Mrs. George Browning, who is in charge of decorations, has promised that an apple motif will be used, but she has not revealed details.

To eliminate parking problems, Mrs. Allan Pearson has been appointed chairman of a committee that will insure speedy parking and delivery of automobiles. Mrs. Knowles Hollowell of Evanston [telephone Greenleaf 6922] is in charge of tickets, at $7.50 per couple, including supper, and she is taking reservations.

The ups and downs in meat prices usually affect pot roasts considerably less than many other cuts of beef. Almost always pot roasts are moderate in price, sufficient reason for their popularity with housewives.

A well browned, tender, and juicy pot roast is delicious. When vegetables are cooked with it a whole dinner may be prepared in one container. But nobody wants to eat pot roast with vegetables Sunday after Sunday, or Wednesday after Wednesday, so a few more unusual methods of preparing this less tender type of meat might be in order.

Spiced Pot Roast.

4 pounds chuck or rump roast
Flour
3 tablespoons fat
½ pound prunes, soaked
2 sliced onions
4 whole cloves
1 cup cider
1 cup water
Salt, pepper

Dredge the roast in flour, and brown on all sides in hot fat. Add onions and allow them to brown. Add prunes, cloves, about a half cup of the mixed cider and water, and seasonings. Cover, reduce heat, and let cook slowly, adding more of the cider and water from time to time as the liquid is lost in cooking. Usually about three hours of cooking will be required. Gravy may be made from the liquid left in the pan. It will have a spicy flavor.

Cranberry Pot Roast.

3 or 4 pound rolled chuck roast
Flour
3 tablespoons fat
Salt, pepper
2 cups unsweetened cranberry sauce
1 cup hot water

Dredge the boned and rolled roast in flour, and brown in the fat. Season and pour the cranberry sauce and water over the roast. Cover and cook slowly, adding water from time to time if necessary. After about three hours, or when the roast is tender, remove to a hot platter and thicken the liquid in the pan for gravy.

Italian Pot Roast.

[Serves Six.]

2 pounds boned and rolled chuck
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ clove garlic
1 bay leaf
1 whole clove

Brown the meat well in the olive oil, add tomatoes and seasonings, cover closely, and simmer for several hours, until tender. Garlic may be removed after about an hour if there is objection to too much of the flavor. Thicken tomato sauce for gravy.

Pot Roast with Tomato-Mustard Sauce

3 pounds rump roast
Flour
3 tablespoons fat
Salt, pepper
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 cup strained tomatoes
4 medium onions, sliced

Dredge roast with flour and brown in fat. Add seasonings and remaining ingredients. Cover closely and let cook slowly for three hours or so, turning the meat several times so that all of it comes in contact with the sauce.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine S. Smith, formerly of Chicago and Highland Park, announce the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Jane, to Anson Wooding Krickl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Krickl of Scarsdale, N. Y., last Saturday at Christ church in Pelham Manor, N. Y. Miss Betty Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Henry Temple Dodge Jr., cousin of Mr. Krickl, was best man. Mr. Krickl was graduated from Yale last June and Miss Smith from Dana hall and the Finch school.

Splendid Cast Well Liked in Opera 'Otello'

"OTELLO."

[Opera by Giuseppe Verdi. Presented by the Chicago City Opera company in the Civic Opera house, Monday evening, Nov. 29, 1937.]

THE CAST.

Otello	Giovanni Martinelli
Desdemona	Edith Mason
Iago	Lawrence Tibbett
Emilia	Ruth Ford
Cassio	Giuseppe Cavadore
Roderigo	Lodovico Oliviero
Lodovic	Nino Ruisi
Montano	Sandro Giglio
Conductor	Roberto Moranzoni

BY CECIL SMITH.

"Otello," the impassioned product of Verdi's old age, was added to the season's répertoire of the Chicago City Opera company last night. Roberto Moranzoni conducted with what seemed like ultimate authority. Edith Mason and Lawrence Tibbett, as Desdemona and Iago, appeared for the first time this fall. Giovanni Martinelli was Otello, and Guiseppe Cavadore was Cassio, the innocent pawn of the crafty Iago.

Mr. Martinelli's conception of the Moor is a masterly realization of the implications of one of opera's most difficult rôles. He unfolds Otello's primitive jealousy gradually from the beginning of the second act up to the final tragedy. No false note, no letdown in intensity ever occurs to mar the cumulative power of his acting.

Yet he sees the story as the librettist, Arrigo Boito, intended it—as a translation of the Shakespearean plot into the stylized language of opera. His very gestures, his carriage, his vocal style, always indicate that a part of "Otello's" greatness as an opera lies in its relationship to all the Italian opera that went before it.

Although Mr. Tibbett had the edge on Mr. Martinelli in vocal luster last night, and although his acting has great flair, he is actually inferior to Mr. Martinelli. He sees in the rôle of Iago a magnificent opportunity to show what he can do in the way of realistic acting, but it is all out of focus. His forthright, direct, modern style of acting serves principally as a personal tour de force and seems strangely out of key in a drama that observes such operatic conventions as soliloquies, drinking songs, and set pieces for the chorus.

Both Mr. Martinelli and Mr. Tibbett sang beautifully, although as I have hinted, Mr. Martinelli was in bad vaice. Edith Mason, a more winning Desdemona then ever, likewise set up a serious claim to the evening's highest vocal honors.

It is almost incredible that a singer could improve as much as she has in the three weeks since her last recital. Singing more lightly and lyrically than has been her wont, Miss Mason showed clearly that she can climb right up into the top ranks again if she decides definitly that she is not intended to be a dramatic soprano.

JEPSON IN RECITAL

At the Palmer house yesterday Helen Jepson, a svelte figure in gray, sang to the accompaniments of Robert Wallenborn in the first of Mrs. Gilbert Smith's new morning musicals.

Although she has climbed to a position of considerable fame over at the opera house, this was Miss Jepson's first recital in Chicago.

In her rôles at the opera house I have constantly felt that she does not yet fully understand the projectile force with which dramatic singing must be sent over the footlights—though her recent Fiora in "The Love of Three Kings" did begin to show a new propulsiveness of delivery. In recital this shortcoming vanishes and she establishes a completely effective communication with her audience.

'A Doll's House' Is Welcome in Modern Dress

"A DOLL'S HOUSE."

A drama by Henrik Ibsen in a new acting version by Thornton Wilder; given in the Grand Opera house Nov. 29, 1937, with Ruth Gordon, Dennis King, Paul Lukas, Sam Jaffe as stars, under the management of Jed Harris.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A revival of "A Doll's House," one of Ibsen's most famous dramas, came to the Grand Opera house last night with a cast that is worthy of the great Norse author's majestic reputation in the theater. The four principal rôles are in the hands of players who possess and deserve the rank of stars. Ruth Gordon's Nora, Dennis King's Thorwald, Paul Lukas' Dr. Rank, and Sam Jaffe's Krogstad are admirable realizations of Ibsen characters.

The production itself is a happy illustration of the value of modern stage design in the treatment of Ibsen. The earlier treatments of this and all the other domestic dramas in the Ibsen repertory were bleak affairs without visual appeal; directors, apparently, thought that the background should be as stark as the theme and that middle class Norwegians had no taste for household ornament. Here, however, we have a well dressed stage, copious in Victorian detail, and as comfortable as the home of a rising young bank president in a typical Norwegian city should be. The costuming also carries out this idea of Victorian ease. Nora is a winsome little creature in the best styles of 1800; Thorwald and Dr. Rank are sleek in well cut broadcloth and civilized haberdashery.

Thus the old play, which was born in 1879, appears in a new and becoming dress, without loss of a single tradition except the American one that all Ibsen productions should be more depressing than their grim author's intention. Those playgoers of the new generation who will get their first impression of "A Doll's House" from this production are lucky, I believe. They will not feel that they are undergoing an ordeal of theatrical melancholy for the cultural salvation of their souls.

This revival also has a new English version of the text, prepared by Thornton Wilder, well known as a novelist and now branching out into the field of play writing. He put the translation by William Archer, standard on the Anglo-American stage for forty years, out of his mind entirely and rephrased practically every speech, seeking for fluency of dialog in the contemporary idiom. He has ironed the stiffness out of the Archer version and given the play an atmosphere of verbal reality. Archer carried over the Norwegian accent into his lines; Wilder gets rid of it completely. He has sacrificed an exotic flavor for grace of dialog and plausibility for the modern ear. This is a gain, I feel, for every one except a few standpatters of the first Ibsen period who liked their European drama with an enigmatic flavor.

Miss Gordon, making her first appearance on the Chicago stage since 1927, plays the child-minded and fluttering Nora with notable skill. She gives the rôle back its youthfulness and its birdlike charm—qualities that it has seldom had on the American stage except when the young Nazimova was acting in an almost unintelligible Russian accent.

Dennis King is excellent as the husband, touching the note of uxorious fatuity with modern lightness. The Dr. Rank of Paul Lukas, a motion picture star who is now making nis debut on the American stage, is a mellow and appealing character study. Sam Jaffe's Krogstad is a modification of the traditional; it does not give heavy emphasis to the man's sinister qualities.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Take the Stand, Miss Lombard

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 29.—Q.—You swear to tell this court the truth, the whole truth—— A.—Yeah, yeah, yeah. Get on with the story.

Q.—Quiet-t, please, Miss Lombard. Now your name—— A.—You just said it, Lombard. Are you giving me the double talk?

Q.—Where were you born? A.—Fort Wayne, Ind. I left when I was seven years old and——

Q.—You were chased out of town? A.—Yeah, the reform bodies claimed I was an adventuress.

Q.—Did you know that crack was going to lay an egg? A.—It got a laugh at the Elks.

Q.—All right, all right. Now no clowning, is it true, Carole, that you diet so much that your doctor has warned you to stop it, or else? A.—No, that's the silliest thing I've ever read. I'm always eating, honestly. I drink at least three chocolate malted milks every day on the set. I've always got a box of candy in my dressing room. The trouble is that no matter how much I eat, I can't put on weight. When I'm not working I weigh about 116 pounds. Right now, after working in three pictures in a row, I'm down to 111.

Q.—What's the matter with you then? A.—Who said anything was the matter with me?

Q.—I mean, dear Miss Lombard, if you eat a lot and drink malted milks, why can't you put on weight? A.—The doctor says I use it up in nervous energy. I bounce all over the place. I'm enthusiastic and I get a great rap out of making pictures. Once they're finished, I sometimes don't even see them, but I love the excitement of working on them. So weight never stays on me.

Q.—Funny that you and Clark never played in a picture together, isn't it? A.—But we did. It was called "No Man of Her Own."

Q.—That's curious—you and Clark Gable did play together then? A.—That was back in 1932 or 1933, at Paramount. He was a card sharp in the picture, of course, and married me on the toss of a coin. How do you like that? Wesley Ruggles directed it, and Dorothy Mackaill, Grant Mitchell, J. Farrell MacDonald and George Barbier were in the cast.

Q.—Wait a moment, Carole—is that the phone? A.—Yes; I'll take it here. Hello, darling. You did? That's marvelous. Ten? And he didn't get any? I'll kid the life out of him. All right, we'll have them tonight for dinner. Good-bye, dear.

Q.—If I may be so rude, ten of what and who didn't get any, and what are you going to have for dinner? A.—That was Clark calling. He, Sam Wood, and Johnny Considine went out duck hunting this morning, and Clark shot ten of them, and Johnny, who said he was a good shot, didn't get any. Wait 'til I get hold of him. I'll razz the life out of him.

Q.—You said you came out here when you were seven years old? From Fort Wayne? A.—That's right. Mother had a terrible time with us three kids, me and two brothers. I remember the two boys slept together in the upper berth, and mother and myself slept in the lower. We went to the San Francisco exposition. That was 1915. Want to know something funny about that, Ed? Mervyn Le Roy, who's directing us in "Food for Scandal," worked at that 1915 exposition. He did a Charlie Chaplin imitation in front of the concessions there.

Q.—How long have you been in flickers, Carole? A.—Let's see. I made my first picture—boy, oh boy, it was a stinker, too—when I was eleven years old. I'm 29 now, so figure it out—eighteen years.

Q.—Eighteen years? A.—Sure, I go back a long way in this business. Did you know I was the last of the Mack Sennett beauties, what was very funny. The old man made this picture with me and lot of others. It was pretty bad, and the preview audience said so. So he cut it into two pictures and released it that way. Talk about sawing a woman in half: Sennett did it to me years ago.

Q.—I read somewhere that you added the "e" to your name because of your belief in numerology? A.—That's hooey, like that stuff about my dieting. I always spelled my name with an "e," but in one picture, Pathe left off the "e" and I called them up and told them about it. I was just talking for my constitutional rights, wasn't I, Edward? But that numerology gag is a laugh.

Q.—Of your recent pictures, "True Confessions" and "Nothing Sacred," which did you prefer? A.—I saw a bad "cut" of one, and didn't see the other. Which did you prefer?

Q.—I liked "Nothing Sacred" better for performance—you did too much "mugging" in "True Confessions," I thought, and the story was too absurd. A.—It's funny. Some people liked one, and some liked the other. Doug Churchill liked "True Confessions," which you didn't like. Well, difference of opinion makes the world go 'round.

Q.—A very sage remark. A.—You're damn right.

Miss Helen Jeffries to Become Bride of Englishman Dec. 18

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore Jeffries have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Helen, and Allan Crawfurd-Price, on Saturday, Dec. 18, at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at Trinity Episcopal church, Highland Park, with a reception following at the Exmoor Country club.

Mr. Crawfurd-Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrington Crawfurd-Price of London, England, is arriving in Chicago Dec. 13, coming from England in the Queen Mary, and from New York by airplane. His parents are landing in New York in the Europa Dec. 15, and are coming directly west.

The parties for Miss Jeffries and her bridegroom will continue after the wedding until they leave for England on New Year's day, for they are spending the first part of their honeymoon in Chicago.

Entertaining for the bride was not postponed until Mr. Crawfurd-Price's arrival, however, for there have been parties galore ever since Miss Yvonne Rigby arrived from Norfolk, England, two weeks ago, to be a bridesmaid for her friend.

Mr. Crawfurd-Price and his bride will sail for England Jan. 4. They will make their home in London.

Yule Shopper Finds Stunning Gift Handbags

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Bagging the best gift bag is a matter of speedy action. As usual the best bets vanish while you take time out to consider color or shape. Under the $10 limit are some of the most beautiful finds of any pre-Christmas season. For sums around and under $5 are plenty of tempting trifles to please the most exacting person.

Little round bags have returned to favor, some made of rows of seed pearls combined with glittering designs of small rhinestones. Topaz colored beads make some copper tinted bags worthy of any one's good money and a brilliant buy for a copper top. Black and blue backgrounds twinkle wickedly with rhinestones, and some come in pouches or small easy to carry envelops.

Envelop bags for evening and party wear are going strong. Tiny pearl beads put on your lists some all-white party bags that are particularly good for the young partygoers. Mesh bags have staged the big revival—gold ones with jeweled tops, tiny pearled models with draw strings like granny's old fashioned reticule, together with silver metal mesh, with or without draw strings.

Flat, square bags of silver or gold kidskin are tied with contrasting velvet bows and boast fittings; stunning black sequined bags are accented with rows of rhinestones, while absurdly feminine muff bags do double duty as finger toasters and a bag for mad money and compacts. These muff fancies are also achieved with velvet or dull crêpe trimmed with pink or white gardenias, as well as some crêpes spattered with millions of rhinestones.

Luxury bags are the kind that are made to match frivolous flowered brocade dancing sandals. This year you'll find beautiful black background brocades together with vermilion, emerald green, bright blue, and all the paste contrasted with fine small floral patterns. Every bag is matched to sandals of the same material.

Lucy Nielsen, Girl of 13, Shows Promise in Debut as Violinist

Lucy C. Nielsen, 13 year old Chicago violinist, played her debut recital in Kimball hall last evening. In the beauty and naturalness of her phrasing the girl gave evidence of an innate musicianship which assures her something solid on which to build. Her occasional miscalculations as to pitch and at times disturbing indifference to tonal beauty are comparatively unimportant matters and will remedy themselves as years, experience, and the habit of listening intently to her own playing do their work. The program gave the impression of being too difficult for anybody's debut recital, but Miss Nielsen achieved some enchanting effects in those episodes where the sheer technical obstacles of the music allowed her a little peace. RUN!

By Patricia Wentworth

[Copyright: 1937: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.]

SYNOPSIS.

Delivering a new car to a customer, James Elliot, lost in the fog, finds himself on some one's estate. Groping his way to the dark house he stumbles over a bicycle. The front door is ajar. Entering his flashlight reveals a girl, who commands him to "Run!" A shot whistles after them as they flee to hide in the hayloft. The girl tells James she was searching for a necklace her dying Aunt Clementa had told her was hidden in the house. James cannot believe the tale. The girl vanishes before James can learn more. At a party at his cousin Daphne's James meets the girl. She is Sally West, the sister of his college chum, Jocko West.

INSTALMENT VIII.

DANGER.

James had put in some intensive study on a map without being able to arrive at any idea of where he had got off the road, and where he rejoined it. Further, he didn't know whether he had gone off to the right or to the left. He had certainly reached Staling, but three roads ran in a couple of miles short of it, two on the left and one on the right, and a very meandering lane joined the road, also on the right just before you came to the village. The dark house from which he and Sally had run was somewhere within a radius of five miles of Staling, probably much less, because distances lengthen out in a fog, but further than this he could be sure of nothing. Sally had him beat, and he knew it. The bother was that she knew it too. He said, with a firmness which he was far from feeling, "I couldn't do that, but I could describe it—to some extent."

Sally said "M——" she said it very softly, but she managed to make it ask a question.

"I saw the hall," said James.

Sally said "M——" again. This time there was no question. It said, "All right, take your hall."

James became aware that his hall wasn't any earthly good. What was the use of offering the police a hall which they had never seen, and of which he himself had only caught dusty glimpses? He gave it up. If he felt sufficiently interested, he could, of course, track the house down easily enough. He could do it when he delivered Col. Pomeroy's car next week. But why should he? It didn't concern him, so why should he bother? He said:

I should like to know is why you don't want me to find it."

"I could find the house all right if I wanted to, only I don't. What

Sally leaned back. There wasn't a great deal of light on this half-landing, and what there was was shaded. When she leaned back she slipped into a shadow. Presently she said, out of the shadow, "It might be safer for you."

"And what do you mean by that?" said James directly.

She said slowly, "Well—you did—leave your car—in the drive. I bumped into it. If any one else did—cars have numbers, don't they?"

"Mine had a trade number."

"Well—any one who wanted to could find out who was driving that car, couldn't they?"

"I suppose they could if they chose to take the trouble. I don't know why they should."

Sally said very softly, "They mightn't know how much you had seen."

"Yes."

It was a very grave little word. James thought about it. Then he said, "That's all about me. What about you? You were there, too, you know."

Sally laughed again.

"I'd gathered that."

"Well, what about it? They could hardly have missed your bicycle."

"Bicycles don't have numbers," said Sally.

"And you'd left your shoes in the hall and a torch upstairs."

"Yes, that's much worse than the bicycle—much, much worse, because——" She stopped short, and said quickly, "I retrieved the torch, but let's do some good strong hoping that no one tumbled to the crocodiles. They were round the corner, so perhaps . . ."

James said on a deep growl, "I can't help you when you don't tell me anything."

"I know," said Sally a little breathlessly. "I'm trying to make up my mind. I haven't made it up. You see, if I tell you things, I'm bringing you into it, and that doesn't seem fair to you. But then, on the other hand, I don't know that you're not in already, and if you are, it might be safer if you knew where you were. And then——" She stopped. It was as if the word had been cut off. A long, slow minute went by.

James said, "And then?"

Sally looked at him. She was leaning forward again. He could see her face.

"There's Jocko——"

"Yes—and what about Jocko? He's in India, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"Well?"

"He's coming home."

"When?"

"At once. I expect he's started. He's coming by air. Aunt Clementa's affairs, you know. She left him quite a lot of money."

She gave him a strange look. He thought it was a frightened look. She didn't answer.

James persisted, frowning.

"I do wish you'd tell me what it's all about. What's the matter with J. J. coming home? Are you afraid he's going to make an ass of himself in some way—blow the money—run amuck—something like that?"

She shook her head.

"Then you're afraid he'll butt in on this mystery business. Is that it?"

"Well, he might."

"And you think it wouldn't be healthy for him."

She dropped her voice and said, in an almost indistinguishable murmur, "it might be very dangerous."

"For him?"

"For every one." She made a quick movement with her hands. "I tried to stop him, but it's no good. I couldn't tell him why."

"I think you had better tell me—I do really, Sally."

Sally jumped up.

"Not now—not here—I can't—I haven't made up my mind—I've got to think about it. I'm going home now."

And when you've thought about it?"

"I'll ring you up."

She began to go down the few steps to the drawing room floor. James followed. Of an observant habit of mind, he could hardly avoid seeing how white the nape of her neck was under the double row of little black curls.

She checked in front of him so suddenly that he could not stop himself from taking the next step and bumping into her. He had to put his arm about her to steady himself and her, but even as he touched her she twisted free and passed him, and was up the stairs and around the bend before he had time to draw an astonished breath. He went after her, and found her halfway up the next flight, leaning against the wall with her hand at her throat and her eyes afraid.

He said, "What's the matter?"

She took her hand from her throat and caught at his arm, leaning close and saying under her breath, "There's some one I don't want to see. I didn't know they were coming—I thought they were somewhere else—Daphne didn't tell me. Why didn't she tell me?"

He could feel that she was shaking all over. He put his arm round her for the second time. It seemed quite a natural thing to do.

"It's all right. Sit down here for a minute. Where were these people—coming up the stairs? Because if they were, you've only to let them get into the drawing room, and then you can slip past and get away. Tell me what they're like, and I'll let you know when the coast is clear."

Mrs. Pinchot Warns of Fascism; Cites Trend in Washington

The United States will have to choose between democracy and dictatorship Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the former governor of Pennsylvania, said yesterday at a Chanukah breakfast of the Chicago women's division of the American Jewish congress at the Congress hotel. "America's Defense Against Fascism" was the title of her talk.

Mrs. Pinchot called the present situation "terrifying," referring to "some pretty shocking examples of dictatorial technique in Washington, D. C.," as evidence of the menace of Fascism.

An inclination of Americans to violence, to a denial of minority rights, and to suppression by force of unpopular opinions tends to weaken the nation's defenses against Fascism, Mrs. Pinchot said.

Girl Trained in Furnishing Home Is Lucky

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

There is a nice movement afoot to train girls from their childhood to plan and execute their own rooms, putting them on a budget, and making them stick to it.

We recently spent a pleasant Sunday with a very young bride, whose youth, we might say, was discussed by parents of the group in which the girl circled. She married a boy, not many years older, whose income is moderate. But they are in love and have been since her first year in high school. However, it was of the fruits of the early training this young woman enjoyed at the hands of her fine and wise mother that we'd speak.

When the girl was a youngster of 8 she began planning her own room. She had access to such magazines as cater to fine home interest. At her mother's instigation the youngster began building rooms from ads and illustrations, but not until she could show her mother a perfect plan within the limited amount mother set for her, was the youngster permitted to turn shopper.

And then another long period occurred during which the child got training in furniture prices, in fabric quality and prices, wall paper, etc. Then, before the actual purchasing, the little girl made cutouts so that she could fit her intended purchases into the room space. All of which proved to this particular child to be infinitely more entertaining as a game and recreation than playing with toys. Perhaps this youngster had a special flair for the decorating work.

From the very young bride, then, it was not surprising to find so perfectly planned, designed and arranged a small apartment such as hers, and done on the most limited sum imaginable. Such good taste and practicality were noted in the charming love nest. And such delight in the home!

lovely setting for such an affair and every one congratulated Mrs. Smith upon having given such a successful morning musical.

Golden haired Miss Jepson was not the only operatic star upon whom the large audience gazed, for dark haired Gladys Swarthout, smart in a mustard color velvet hat with a broad brim and a high peaked crown, was in a box with her husband, Frank Chapman, and Miss Jepson's husband, George Possell. Lawrence Tibbett was rehersing for "Otello," in which he sang last night at the Civic Opera house, so he did not arrive in time to hear the program, but he was a guest at a luncheon Mrs. Smith gave later for Miss Jepson.

A few of the many who attended the musical were Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. John C. Murphy, Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde, Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, Mrs. Kenneth Templeton, Mrs. Arthur B. Slade, Miss Jean Armstrong, Mrs. Jason Whitney, Mrs. Corson Ellis, Mrs. Archibald Freer, Mrs. Frederic Woodward, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, Mrs. Herbert Kennedy, and Mrs. Americus Callahan.

Many of those at the Palmer house yesterday morning will be at the Fortnightly club this morning at 11:30 o'clock for the second concert of the Russian Trio, arranged by the Lake Shore Chamber Music society. Mrs. Upham, Mrs. Callahan, Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Leo Nicolson, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Walter Cummings, and Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson are some of those who serve on the society's board, of which Mrs. Raymond Redheffer is chairman.

Luncheons to Precede Eli Bates Sale Today.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Mrs. Arthur G. Cable, and Mrs. de Koven Phelps are among those who are giving luncheons today, later taking their guests to Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen's home, 1430 Astor street, where the annual Eli Bates Christmas sale will be held from 10 until 6 o'clock.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Winter club in Lake Forest a badminton team from the Woman's Athletic club and one from the Winter club will meet for several exciting matches.

Playing for the Woman's Athletic club will be Mrs. William B. Freer, Miss Margaret Goehst, Miss Bertha Erminger, Miss Elisabeth Dewes, and Mrs. R. Winfield Ellis. On the Winter club team are Mrs. L. T. Kelley, Miss Lucy Harrison, Miss Peggy Hixon, Mrs. William A. P. Watkins, Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter and Mrs. Wilson Jaicks.

Dr. T. Z. Koo will speak on "The Undeclared War and World Peace" at 11:30 o'clock Thursday at the Woman's Athletic club.

Bishop Freeman to Speak Tonight.

The Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, D. D., Episcopal bishop of Washington, and the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, D. D., canon of Washington cathedral, will give informal lectures at 8 o'clock tonight in the ballroom of the Fortnightly. They will show colored slides of the cathedral and its gardens while telling about the significance in American national life of the great cathedral that slowly is rising on Mount St. Alban.

Mrs. Frank P. Hixon is giving a dinner for Bishop Freeman and Canon Stokes before the lecture.

The bachelor dinner for Henry Beneke Jr., who is being married Saturday to Miss Margaret Ditmars of Cincinnati, will be given tonight at the Chicago Athletic association. Mr. Beneke and his sister, Miss Claire Beneke, who is to be the maid of honor, are leaving for Cincinnati and a round of parties tomorrow.

Edward U. Beneke, who will be best man, and his wife are going down on Thursday, and Philip B. Hosmer Jr., who, with Frank Ditmars, brother of the bride, will usher, is leaving Thursday or Friday. The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beneke of Highland Park, and other relatives will go to Cincinnati on Saturday for the wedding, which is to take place in the evening at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Frank Rothier, in Covington, Ky., across the river from Cincinnati. After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. Beneke and his bride will be at home in Highland Park.

A blow to the Princeton Triangle Chicago committee has come from Arizona, from where Mrs. William D. Bangs writes that plans for a debut tea-dance for her nieces, Miss Lee and Miss Peggy Zimmermann and Miss Jane Rockwood, on Dec. 30, have to be canceled because of illness in the family. The Trianglers were to have been invited to spend the afternoon at the party.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

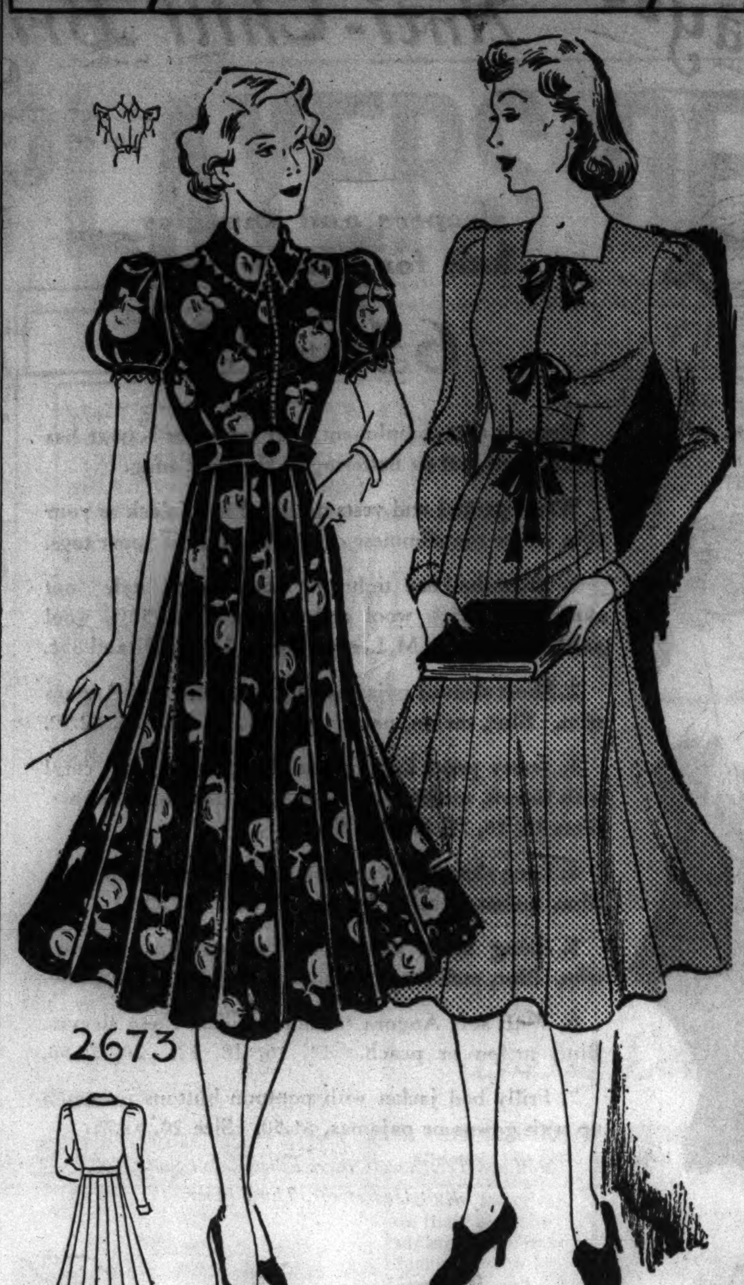
There's little excuse for a sloppy looking clothes closet these days. There are too many devices for keeping it neat and orderly.

Take the business of shoes, for instance. Line them up in pairs on a two or three tier polished nickel rack and they'll look as trim as a regiment. These racks aren't a bit expensive and they're so light in weight they are easy to carry around. But their best feature is a toe guard that keeps the shoes from spilling on the floor.

Or, if you prefer to keep your shoes out of sight, invest in one of the smart little shoe chests, made of composition and covered in several different colors of chintz in a leaf design. There are six shoe drawers, each holding a pair, and for good measure there is a shallow drawer for stockings. This chest takes up little closet space and is even attractive enough to be used in the bedroom.

[For information about these items telephone Edith Weigle, Tribune Public Service office, Superior 0100.]

Gay Model for Holidays



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a gay little dress for your holiday parties. It's simple and sweet, and easy on your budget, which undoubtedly is feeling the strain of Christmas shopping! A good idea is to make it of a gay print, brightening under your dark winter coat, and a grand starter for your spring wardrobe. Rickrack braid or narrow lace would make a nice trimming.

The neckline may be high, with a trim collar, or it may be plain and square. The sleeves may be short and puffed or long and semi-fitted. The waistline is plain, serving to unite a well fitted bodice and a full, gored skirt.

If you don't fancy the idea of a print just now you might make the frock of silk or woolen in a bright or neutral shade and trim it with bows of lustrous ribbon with a belt to match.

An illustrated sewing chart accompanies the pattern so it will be extremely easy to sew as well as inexpensive.

Style No. 2673 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches, bust measurement. Size 16 requires 5½ yards of 39 inch material with 1½ yards of braid trim for the short sleeved dress.

Yesterday's question was:

Question 53: You are South. Both sides are vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	?

You hold:

♠98653 ♥None ♦Q10742 ♣A85

What call do you make now?

Answer: You should pass and be delighted to "get from under" in a situation that strongly implies a misfit. Your partner's two club bid is in no sense a force. It would be absurd for you to show your anemic diamonds and much too optimistic to raise the clubs. [Two points demerit for any call other than a pass.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 54: You are South, and vulnerable. Opponents are not vulnerable and have 40 part-score. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 heart	Pass	2 clubs
2 diamonds	2 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

You hold:

Question 55: You are South. Both sides vulnerable. The bidding has gone:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump [final bid]

North, it will be noted, preferred a heart raise as being slightly more encouraging than his alternative bid of one no trump.

West opened the club three. East won with the ace and, realizing that sufficient club tricks could not be taken to defeat the contract, correctly shifted to the spade jack. Declarer covered. West won and returned a spade upon which East played the nine.

Now the declarer was between the devil and the sea. The heart finesse had not yet been tried. If it lost to West, and the latter had started with three spades, it would be fatal to take this present spade trick. Hence, in an attempt to cut spade communication between the defenders, declarer was forced to hold up his king. But now East did not make the too common error of persisting with his own suit after his entries were gone. Having collected two spade tricks he shifted back to clubs and South's king was removed. Later, when West won the lead with the heart king, he was able to cash the club queen for the setting trick.

ENGAGEMENTS

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Albert Anderson of Brooklyn, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Gould Anderson, to George Theodore Mascott of Wilmette. Miss Anderson was graduated from the Berkeley institute, and from Bryn Mawr college, class of 1936, and is doing post-graduate work at Columbia university. Mr. Mascott was graduated from Boston university in 1930, and is in business in Chicago.

Mrs. Samuel Katz of 4300 Lake Shore drive announces the engagement of her daughter, Ruth, to Sydney L. Blankstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Blankstein of 7513 North Parkhurst.

Listener Tells What's Wrong on Air Lanes

Speaking for the 86,000,000 listeners American radio claims to have, Merrill Denison, critic and author, told several hundred educators and broadcasters, assembled for the second national conference on educational broadcasting at the Drake hotel yesterday, that radio is the victim of cultural anarchy—a sort of blight permeating the whole industry.

Mr. Denison implored the industry to save itself from incompetency and inefficiency and to begin providing leadership within itself instead of blaming the public for radio's inadequacies.

The listening public, this spokesman said, wants the broadcasters to quit blaming it for the low average quality of programs and begin a little introspective analysis of itself.

"In the backwoods and from the penthouse one hears an almost universal complaint," Mr. Denison said. "Why do they allow so much awful tripe on the air?"

Of the 17,000 broadcasts daily on American stations, Mr. Denison estimated, there are not more than two dozen that are as well done as they might be, or could be, or should be.

Surest way to increase public acceptance of radio is to abandon the policy of using what he called a dime a dozen writers and producers, and beginning a search for creative writers, directors and performers and paying them what they deserve, the conference was told.

As spokesman for the educational interests, Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, chancellor of New York university, defended the American system of broadcasting and opposed movements designed to put the government into the broadcasting industry.

William S. Paley, president of the Columbia system, as spokesman for the broadcasting industry, warned that the American radio system, founded on freedom and fairness on the air, must be preserved and strengthened.

George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education, presided at the morning general meeting and Prof. Lyman Bryson of Columbia university led an open forum discussion. The afternoon was given over to group discussions of radio talks, children's programs, the listener and the federal radio program.

Chief speakers in the evening session included Philip R. Barbour, consultant to the Pan-American Union, and State Senator T. V. Smith, professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Barbour proposed a plan to have countries in the western hemisphere collaborate in a series of cultural shortwave programs to benefit listeners in countries where the prime radio fare is propaganda. Senator Smith praised the radio for operating in the convenience, interest, and necessity of the public.

Statuettes for the best Chicago radio performances of the year were awarded at the Radio ball Saturday at Medinah Athletic club. Ten awards were made and there were citations for runners-up. Paul Whiteman announced the awards:

Actor [bit part]: Bill Thompson. Runners-up: Harold Peary, Pat Buttram, Willard Waterman.

Actress [bit]: Templeton Fox. Runners-up: Judith Lowry, Sylvia Clark, Virginia Payne.

Best written program: Vic and Sade by Paul Rhymer, with Fibber McGee by Don Quinn, and Manhattan Mother by Oran Tovrov following.

Girl singer: Vivian della Chiesa with Gale Page and Annette King next.

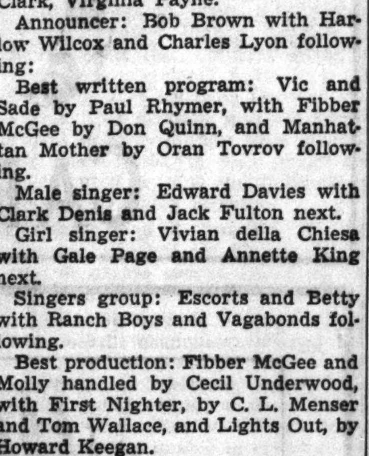
Best production: Fibber McGee and Molly handled by Cecil Underwood, with First Nighter, by C. L. Menser and Tom Wallace, and Lights Out, by Howard Keegan.

Cuddly Lamb Is Theme Chosen in Nursery Quilt



Baby Lamb.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The soft woolly lamb always is a favorite in any nursery, and on a coverlet the "baby lamb" is a sensation. Since green and white have become such a popular combination in the nursery, the background for the crib quilt done in the "Baby Lamb" design is pale green. The lamb is as white as snow, with a dash of dark green in each corner. The ten inch appliqué squares are set together with alternate squares of plain pale green. Only six appliques and six plain blocks, surrounded by a four inch border and a half inch bias binding, create a coverlet measuring 38 by 48 inches.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

To our ears, weary unto death of perfumes with sexy names, introduced with blurbs about seductive tropical breezes and not-so-subtle tips on how to knock 'em dead in ten alluring whiffs, there's great charm in the very name of a new perfume. It's simply: English bluebells. And there's even greater charm in the perfume itself. It has dignity, sweetness, and the gracious beauty of garden flowers.

Put it on your gift list. This is a perfume for really lovely women—not the self-conscious glamor girls who affect dead-white makeup, too much mascara, and the perfumes of murky mystery. Glamor girls are pretty wearing to have around the house—and so are their heavy perfumes. This is the delicate, always charming kind of a fragrance that one grows more and more fond of. You find that beneath its light, sweet note there is quiet character.

This newcomer is English, product of the house that many experts say makes the best true floral scents. Their violet is beloved by women all over the world. This is not frighteningly expensive and it's bottled, in the English fashion, with simplicity and good taste. We consider it a perfume especially suitable for gift-giving. The sweet young thing will like it—its lilt makes it especially suitable for them—and so will the well-bred, mature woman. It's for the woman who thinks of her perfume as an accent to her dress which gives her pleasure. Its charm is that it is fresh and sweet; she'll like it for the same reasons that she likes to have fresh flowers in her rooms and fine, unspectacular furnishings in her home.

English bluebells is like a breath of a country garden. We recommend it for the ladies—and we mean ladies—on your list.

Italian Film Star Creating Coiffure Fad

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A question came up the other day about what women of the screen have had the most public influence on hairdress styles.

Studio experts are predicting that a new screen light, and fairly recent importation from Italy, Isa Miranda, will strike a new coiffure pace for women at large. Simplicity itself is the name for the Mirande coiffure. To me, it looks as if she simply ran her comb through it on a simple backward flare of the comb. Both sides and off the forehead hair are treated to the plain backward combing. Nothing could be simpler. The ends of the hair are shoulder length and that's all there is to it. Its very simplicity makes this type of coiffure news in an era in which attempts are made to popularize the ornate and fancy dressing of hair.

But to get back to the screen influences on nonprofessional styles of coiffures. Dietrich was named as one who established a coiffure that many followed, but my impression is that it was Dietrich's fabulous eyebrows that had imitators rather than her coiffure. Garbo, before Dietrich, is credited with being a strong influence in this connection. My memory fails me on earlier Garbo hair influence, but the page boy coiffure, with its followers who still today refuse to abandon the style, may be attributed to the great artist.

To go back farther than Garbo's initial screen conquests, there was Clara Bow's wild and woolly headdress that marked her era.

Teach Child How to Make Simple Things

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Perhaps you wish your children wouldn't listen to the radio so much. Perhaps you wish they didn't go to the movies so often—or want to. Perhaps you wish, even, that they didn't spend so much time reading. And you may complain to yourself that your sons and daughters don't seem to show any interest in doing things with their hands.

They're all good complaints. Our children—most of them—should do more and have less done for them.

It's partly the age they live in—and partly our fault, I suppose. In any case, here's a chance to bring about a change. There's nothing like an incentive and Christmas is one of the best there is. Let your children spend the time between now and then making things for gifts.

Plan an article for your child to make which doesn't require more manual skill than he or she has.

Don't be too critical of results. It isn't the perfection of the article but the joy in the doing that is important.

Remember that the finished gift may look crude to you but to its young maker it may seem like a wonderful product.

Don't let your younger child start work when he is too tired or continue until he gets overly tired or "stale."

ASK SHOWDOWN FROM HORNER ON SPECIAL SESSION

But Leaders Bet He Won't Call One.

BY PARKE BROWN.

As a result of a meeting of the Illinois legislative council in the Palmer house yesterday Gov. Horner may be persuaded to tell whether he intends to call the general assembly into special session this winter.

The first step taken at the council's first real business meeting was the creation of a special committee to confer with the governor concerning the council's plans and aspirations and, incidentally, whether there may be a call for its services in connection with a special session prior to the regular session a year from next January.

Await Decision Five Months.

For five months legislators, state officials, political leaders, lobbyists, and all others interested in this subject, have sought to obtain a categorical reply from the governor about his intentions. All such efforts have failed. But the makeup of the new committee is one considered likely to get a definite response if one is obtainable.

The members selected for this mission include most of the leaders of the two houses. They are Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, president of the senate; Representative Louie E. Lewis, speaker of the house; Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, majority floor leader of the house; Senator Earl B. Searcy, minority leader of the upper chamber, and Senator T. V. Smith, chairman of the council.

After the adjournment of the council, the members relapsed into gossip and generally were of the opinion that there is no cause whatever for anybody to feel any anxiety concerning a special session this winter. Several expressed a feeling of certainty that Gov. Horner already has decided not to call one until after the primary next April.

Nash-Kelly Men Dropped.

This conclusion was based on the state executive's recent political maneuvers. Early this month he began discharging Chicago state employés sponsored by the Nash-Kelly regular county organization and replacing them with men who supported him in his primary fight against that organization last year. With one cut approximately 150 county organization regulars were lopped off the state pay roll.

"The moment he did that," it was said in the post-meeting talk, "it was obvious that the governor had given up all thought of obtaining the two-thirds vote required for immediate effectiveness for legislation enacted at a special session. It meant that he had given up hopes of making a deal on the driver's license bill. It meant that he won't issue a call until after next April."

"I'll bet my overcoat on a cold day that he won't," exclaimed a member suspected of having close-up information.

List Problems for Action.

The same committee was authorized to prepare a tentative list of subjects for later consideration. Among those likely to be on the list will be the driver's license problem, the question of divorce reform, and the parole question.

Chairman Smith also was authorized to invite Dr. F. H. Guild director of the Kansas legislative council, the model for the local organization, to undertake or assist in the early stages of the operation in Illinois. Specifically it is hoped he will aid in the formation of a first class research division here. A committee headed by Senator Richard J. Barr will look into whether it would be possible for the council to obtain from the Spelman fund, a Rockefeller Foundation subsidiary, some financial aid such as was provided in Kansas. The Illinois council's appropriation is only $10,000 for the biennium.

PREDICTS WORST CHICAGO RELIEF CRISIS SINCE 1930

Immediate Action by State Legislature Urged.

A prediction that Chicago is facing its most acute relief crisis since the winter of 1930 was made yesterday to the City club by Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities. Hunter was joined by public relief officials in urging Gov. Horner to call a special session of the legislature to provide more state funds for relief.

Hunter asserted that immediate action by the legislature is necessary to prevent suffering. In addition to alloting more state funds, he said the legislature should empower the city to provide additional local funds through new forms of taxation or increases in present taxes.

Lyons in Agreement.

Commissioner Leo M. Lyons of the Chicago Relief administration, who attended the City club luncheon, agreed with Hunter that something must be done at once to provide subsistence living conditions for those on relief.

Earlier in the day Lyons, who is also executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, the body which disburses state relief funds, listened to pleas for help from twenty-four downstate township supervisors. These men, headed by N. D. Kelsey of Barrington, told Lyons that relief conditions are desperate in most of the downstate areas.

Lyons explained that requests from Mayor Kelly and state officials to the federal government for money had brought no results. The commissioner promised to lay the problem before the IERC.

Relief Meeting Today.

Members of the legislative committee on relief and Walter S. Gregory, chairman of Gov. Horner's citizens' committee on the problem, are to be present at the regular monthly meeting of the IERC today. Gregory has previously indicated that his committee may recommend to the governor that a special session of the legislature be called.

Fifty expert investigators lent to the citizens' committee by business houses began an investigation yesterday on the efficiency and administration of relief methods of administration in Chicago. Alvin Rose, executive secretary of the committee said it will probably be at least six weeks before any results of the survey can be announced.

DRIVER BLAMED FOR SCHOOL BUS CRASH KILLING 10

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The collision of a school bus and a streamlined train in which ten persons were killed and nineteen injured at Mason City, Ia., last Oct. 22 was blamed today by the interstate commerce commission on the failure of the bus driver to stop before proceeding across a private crossing.

Evidence indicated, the commission said, that despite warnings and requirements the driver did not stop, but proceeded at low speed upon the "exceedingly dangerous crossing." The driver was killed.

Occupants of the bus, mostly school children, were being taken on a tour of industrial plants at Mason City. The bus was struck by a northbound passenger train of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway.

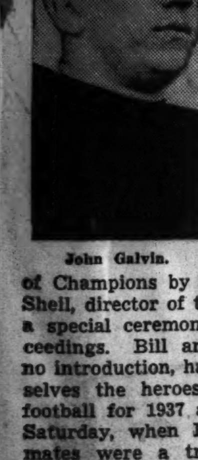
PITT PLAYERS DEMAND CASH FOR BOWL GAME

C. Y. O. TO HONOR PREP STARS AT STADIUM BOUTS

Takes De Correvont, Galvin Into Club.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.



John Galvin.

The directors of the Catholic Youth Organization's seventh annual boxing tournament yesterday hauled off with a couple of big surprises in their backstage preparations for the big show at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

First of the surprise packages was the announcement that Bill De Correvont and Johnny Galvin of Austin and Leo High schools, respectively, will be inducted into the C. Y. O. Club of Champions by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, director of the organization, in a special ceremony during the proceedings. Bill and Johnny require no introduction, having proved themselves the heroes of Chicago prep football for 1937 as recently as last Saturday, when Bill and his teammates were a trifle too good for Johnny and his colleagues in the annual battle for the civic title at Soldiers' field.

Expect Crowd of 20,000.

The crowd which saw De Correvont and Galvin fight their battle at Soldiers' field has been variously estimated at figures ranging from 90,000 to 120,000. No such immense gathering can be accommodated within the confines of the Chicago Stadium, of course, but indications yesterday were that 20,000 fans will witness the show tomorrow night. Last year a record throng of 20,300 saw he C. Y. O. finals.

Bill and Johnny will not be the only notables in the ring. The thirty-two young men who will battle for the eight open and eight novice championships will find at some time during the show that the third man in the ring is probably quite a fellow himself. This was assured yesterday when Chicago's most famed amateur graduates, Joe Louis and Barney Ross, agreed to do a turn or two at refereeing the final bouts. Louis, world's heavyweight champion, and Ross, holder of the world's welterweight crown, are the most distinguished alumni of all of the Golden Gloves tournaments.

An Exclusive Guild.

The C. Y. O. Club of Champions, into which De Correvont and Galvin, will be inducted in the presence of their teammates and Coaches Bill Heiland of Austin and Whitey Cronin of Leo, who have been invited to the finals by Bishop Sheil, is quite an exclusive guild. It is composed of a number of laymen and athletes who have distinguished themselves in a number of fields. The current roster of the club lists such names as Gene Tunney, Jack Elder, Carl Stockholm, Paul Host, Jimmy Archer, Max Marek, Stuyvesant Peabody, Britton I. Budd, and Leo Freisinger, the latter the C. Y. O.'s ice skating pride.

While all of these doings were transpiring yesterday, the boxers themselves were going through their final drills, which will be completed this afternoon with a lecture by Tom O'Connell and Paddy Kane in the gymnasium at the C. Y. O. center.

Note Faces Cavalieri.

Two of the open division battles tomorrow promise to be among the best ever fought in the seven year history of the tournament. One brings to-

HAWTHORNE IS READY TO BOOST PURSES IN 1938

BY FRENCH LANE.

Part of the veil of mystery that was thrown around the denial of racing dates Saturday to the Chicago Business Men's Racing association, operators of the Hawthorne track, was lifted yesterday at the offices of the Illinois racing commission.

There is no race track scandal involved in the case. Instead the commission took the drastic action in what was termed by Commissioner Walter Peacock who presided at the date allotting meeting "an honest effort to improve the class of racing in Chicago."

"We have been criticized often because the best horses deserted Chicago tracks after a short campaign at Arlington Park, Washington Park, and Lincoln Fields," the statement said. "The most severe critics were those who could not understand why even our Chicago owned stables were shipped away.

Large Purses Elsewhere.

"The cause, we discovered, was the fact that these horses could earn more money elsewhere. They could go to Maryland, New York, and New England and race for larger purses.

"Last March, Hawthorne agreed to give a graded 1937 program with a minimum purse offering of $1,000. The track didn't do this. During the first two weeks of the meeting there were from five to seven races a day for purses of $800.

"When the applications for dates were made this year Hawthorne did not specify what its minimum purse would be, nor did it reveal a stake race program.

"The Hawthorne track enjoyed the biggest business of all the tracks in Chicago last season. We are striving to give Chicago the best racing obtainable. We believe Hawthorne should do its part along these lines. Top rank horses will not remain here to race for $800 purses if they can race for $1,000 elsewhere."

Hawthorne Will Coöperate.

Late yesterday afternoon, following a meeting of the Hawthorne board of directors, Charles Krutckoff, the Hawthorne association president, supplemented the original Hawthorne application for dates with an agreement to the effect that the track will offer no purse of less than $1,000 if granted dates for 1938.

The dispatch reached the offices of the racing commission too late for any action yesterday. The commission may act on the new application today, Secretary George Foster said last night.

Baseball Trade Rumors Fly as Big League Leaders Meet

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Paul Derringer.

Chicago baseball notables, at least a dozen of them, will descend on Milwaukee today to do their bit about adding to the confusion of the annual convention of the minor leaguers, which opens tomorrow.

The local representatives will form only a portion of the big league crowd which will steal the spotlight. Some of the big leaguers checked in at the Hotel Schraeder headquarters yesterday. Others will continue to arrive until tomorrow until all of the sixteen clubs are accounted for. As most of the sixteen have already broadcast trading intentions, they'll have to do something to look good to the constituents back home.

You Know Them All.

Trade rumors continued to pile up yesterday as the big leaguers either started toward the brewery city or arrived there. However, the rumors covered only the same old names which have been knocked around the sports pages since the world series.

The two Chicago clubs are interested in most of the players mentioned as possible trading timber. The Cubs are shooting high or, at least, they'll try to. They are ready to entertain suggestions by which they might acquire any one, or more, of the following: Van Lingle Mungo, the Brooklyn right hander; Outfielder Paul Waner or Shortstop Arky Vaughan of the Pirates; Pitcher Paul Derringer of the Reds, and, of ccurse, Ducky Medwick, the hitting fly chaser of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The difficulty confronting the Cubs in connection with the above swaps is plain. The Cubs aren't going to get any of the wanted fellows unless they surrender something more than mill-run ball players.

Indians Ready to Deal.

The only outside big leaguer who reported himself present in the loop yesterday was C. C. Slapnicka, general manager of the Cleveland Indians. Slapnicka admitted that he and the new field manager, Oscar Vitt, would trade any of their athletes except Johnny Allen, Bob Feller, Mel Harder, Hal Trosky, Lyn Lary, and Julius Solters.

The absence of the name of Outfielder Earl Averill from the list is significant. The Tigers wouldn't object to landing this man and part of the payment for him would be Third Baseman Marvin Owen, whom Manager Jim Dykes of the White Sox covets. The Indians also will try to do business with St. Louis for Third Baseman Harlond Clift and Catcher Rollie Hemsley. Clift is another player Dykes will deal for if he can't get a

Minor Leaguers Meet; Ryan May Manage Buffalo

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Baseball's first party since the world series—the thirty-sixth meeting of the minor leagues—will open here Wednesday and continue through Friday. In so far as the minor league convention was concerned, no battles are in prospect. The main item of business will be the creation of class E leagues and the proposal to tighten the rules on recruiting of college players. Under the new college proposal no player could be signed without the written consent of the college president until he or his class was graduated. Thus, if a boy attended college for one semester and dropped out he could not be signed for three and a half years unless the college president consented.

It was reported today that John C. [Blondy] Ryan, substitute Giant shortstop, had been offered the managership at Buffalo and that Ryan will confer with club officials here. Another possibility for the job is Fresco Thompson, former Pittsburgh Pirate, last season with Minneapolis. The post was opened when Ray Schalk transferred to Indianapolis as manager.

Milwaukee was reported bidding for Tom Winsett, Brooklyn outfielder, and as being ready to sell Outfielder Frenchy Uhalt to Hollywood if a suitable replacement could be obtained during the convention.

BROWN EARNS SPLIT DECISION OVER BARBARA

Harold Brown, west side welterweight, handed Johnny Barbara of South Bend, Ind., his first defeat in eighteen professional fights in a ten round bout at Marigold Gardens last night. The decision was not unanimous, Referee Johnny Behr scoring for Barbara 52 to 48. Judge Ed Klein voted 51 to 49 and Judge Rube Metz 52 to 48 for Brown.

Tommy Howell, Danville, Ill., 138 pounder, knocked out Melvin Harper in 1:41 of the second round of the semi-windup.

Paul Berlenbach, former light heavyweight champion, refereed two of three supporting battles. He awarded Al Schiarato, south side junior welterweight, a three round victory over Charley Hudson when the latter was unable to continue because of a cut eye. Berlenbach also officiated in the four rounder won by Johnny Helstrom, Rogers Park lightweight, over Ted Tello, another Louisville product.

In the four round curtain raiser Bill McDowell, stablemate of Harper, beat Owen Woods, Chicago 140 pounder. McDowell had an advantage of ten pounds.

HAWKS, MAROONS BATTLE TONIGHT; END ROAD TRIP

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago's willing but bewildered Blackhawks are in Montreal and tonight will play the Maroons a hocky match. The Maroons are in the Canadian division cellar and the American division cellar is yawning for the Blackhawks.

Sunday night the Maroons kept the Hawks from falling into the basement of the American division by the practical device of spanking the faded World Champion Detroit Red Wings. This kept Detroit in the sink, a point behind the nonplussed Hawks.

The game tonight will be celebrated as the end of a three game road trip, the first two engagements of which were a bit discouraging to those who have been optimistic enough to believe that the Hawks are going places simply because they are trying hard under the direction of their new manager, Bill Stewart. The Red Wings soaked them 4 to 1 and the Americans soaked 'em some more, 4 to 0.

Defeat by Americans Hurts.

The Red Wing reversal wasn't so painful, for the Chicagoans boast an emphatic victory over the Detroiters. But the American spanking gave the New Yorkers a total of seven points in two games against a grand total of zero for the Hawks.

Twenty-seven points have been scored against the Hawks in nine games to date, an average of three a game, which gives the Hawks the unusual distinction of having the most leaky defense in the entire league. This state of affairs may or may not mean that Maj. Frederic McLaughlin will have to take those rubber bands off his hocky wallet after all. Even the moths flying about the rink would annoy the enemy forwards more than the Hawks' defensemen, some wag has opined.

Taking the brighter side of the problem, it may be said that the Hawks will go into second place if they beat the Canadian tailenders tonight. In that event they would pass the Rangers, but would remain six points behind the undefeated Boston Bruins.

Rommes, Barry Tied for Lead.

After they have played the Maroons the Hawks will return to Chicago where they will meet the Rangers Thursday night in the Rangers' first appearance of the year at Chicago Stadium.

Whatever may ail the Hawk defense the offense is well represented in the weekly scoring statistics announced yesterday in Montreal. Doc Rommes is tied with Marty Barry of Detroit for leadership in the American division, each with eight points. Doc, despite a bleak, scoreless week, is at the top with four goals and four assists. He and his line mate, Paul Thompson, have a total of 15 points, with five goals and ten assists.

VOTE AGAINST PARTICIPATION WHEN REFUSED

Veterans Lead in Insurrection.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York News.]

Jock Sutherland.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—University of Pittsburgh players today accomplished in ten seconds what ten leading college football teams failed to accomplish in a season—kept the Panthers out of Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

In an amazing procedure, this year's Panthers, unbeaten and tied only by Fordham, met today and laid down demands to university officials which they made plain must be met before there could be any acceptance of California's anticipated invitation to play the Golden Bears at Pasadena New Year's day.

Without veiling their demands for cash remuneration, the players, by unanimous vote, it was learned tonight, told university officials that they must be paid—and then stated their terms for playing. These were reported to be $150 to $200 per player for "spending money," two weeks' vacation from school and training, and that the full squad be taken on the trip.

It's Almost a Strike.

When these demands were not met the players, numbering almost forty, went on what might be termed the first sit-down strike in the history of big scale amateur athletics. By recorded vote they answered in the negative the officials' request that they accept the tentative offer to play California. [University of Pittsburgh officials, insisting no formal invitation has been received, admit they have been approached on the matter.]

And then—hours afterward—in another conference, the squad maintained its stand, so that tonight the Panthers remained obdurate to all entreaties to reconsider their action and enter the Rose Bowl for the fifth time in recent years.

The first meeting was a wild one, in which veteran players of two other trips west did most of the talking. When the first vote was taken, it included only the first and second string men—and they turned the invitation down.

Reserves Threaten Decision.

A motion was made to include the entire squad in the vote in the hope that this would change the final result, and those third, fourth and fifth string players, anxious for the trip to the Pacific coast, voted so strongly in favor they almost overrode the slim majority of the seniors and juniors, who had prefaced their vote with speeches to the effect that "if the university is going to get another $100,000 from our playing out there, we are entitled to some of that money."

Business Manager John Weber of the university entered the meeting and counseled the full squad to reconsider its action, but to no avail. Meanwhile Dr. John B. Sutherland, coach, whose teams have won one and lost three previous Rose bowl games, sat in the university's business office, supposedly unaware that collegiate football history was being made a few doors away.

BEARS RESUME TOIL TOMORROW; CARDINALS NEXT

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Two days of celebration and rest from the routine of training, their reward for winning the western division championship in the National league, comes to an end for the Bears tomorrow. Beginning with a workout at 9 o'clock in the morning the squad will be busy each day from now until Dec. 12 when it meets the eastern section title winner for the league championship at Wrigley field. In between it plays the Cardinals, closing the regular season on Sunday.

The Cardinals are hopelessly entrenched in fourth place in the western division and the outcome of the game will have no effect on the Bears' place at the head of the procession. Nevertheless the game will be for keeps, since there is no greater glory for a downtrodden club than victory over a champion, especially when the downtrodden club is the Cardinals and the Bears the champions. The Bears' incentive will be a desire to close the season with only a defeat by the Packers against their record.

Prove Their Occult Powers.

Retracing the Bears' route to the championship presents an interesting commentary on the occult powers of rival coaches. At the beginning of the season Coach Curley Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers, Dutch Clark, Detroit's player coach, and Milan Creighton, head man of the Cardinals, perused the Bears' roster, studded with newcomers and a few veterans in new positions, and announced that the Bears were the team to beat. Even before the Bears, although winning regularly, gave an impressive demonstration, this trio reiterated its belief that the division championship would return to Chicago for the first time in three years unless the rest of the teams ganged on Coach George Halas' outfit. In this they were correct.

Other prophecies included the statement that the team winning the title would lose at least two and in all probability three games. The Bears have won eight, lost one and tied one and with only the Cardinals to play, the worst they can do is finish the regular season with a record of eight, two, and one. In this case rival coaches again would be correct.

Giants Lose Five and Win.

A Bear victory Sunday, however, would mark the tenth time in the seventeen year history of the league that the champion has finished with one defeat or less. Twice a team has been able to win with three defeats, while four champions have been whipped twice. One, the New York Giants of 1934, lost five times in the regular season, defeating the Bears in the playoff for the title after the Chicagoans had gone through the regular schedule undefeated, the Giants supplying two of their thirteen consecutive victories.

This incident is recorded under the title of "The Gum-Shoe Case." The score was 30 to 13, and the Giants rallied to score their 30 points after stealing basketball shoes out of high school and college lockers in the neighborhood of the Polo Grounds and abandoning cleats in the second half of an ice bound contest.

It is this chapter of professional football which leads the Bears to lend moral support to the New Yorkers in the game with Washington Sunday. The Giants must win or tie to qualify for the playoff.

PRINCETON NAMES MOUNTAIN, HALF BACK, CAPTAIN

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Thomas R. Mountain of East Orange, N. J., 165 pound half back, today was elected captain of next year's Princeton football team.

Mountain, whose all around play was one of the bright spots in a drab season, becomes the third back field man in 22 years to lead Princeton. He played in all eight varsity games this fall.

Prep Stars to Be Honored at C. Y. O. Fights

gether Walter Cavalieri, runner-up in the open division for flyweights last year, and Al Noto, who won his spurs as novice flyweight titleholder in the same show. Cavalieri lost the 1936 title in a close fight with Johnny Noto, brother of Al. In ten fights with the latter since Walter has won nine decisions from Al, but the latter came back to earn a draw in their most recent meeting, and is out to score his first victory.

Another feud will reach the deciding stage in the 126 pound final between Joe du Pont and Tony Carlucci. Du Pont won the featherweight crown last year, while Carlucci, who had taken the lightweight championship in 1935, did not compete last year. They have met in two of the regular C. Y. O. show bouts recently, each winning a decision.

Du Pont Shows Power.

Du Pont is one of the most colorful members of the championship cast. Adopted son of Joe Lopez, a former Mexico City bullfighter, Joe has had 120 bouts, winning ninety, and taking twenty of those by knockouts. Nineteen years old, he was born in Indiana Harbor, and is now employed as a shipping clerk at the Wessell Printing company.

Joe began boxing in the 1934 C. Y. O. tournament, losing his first fight in the open class by a knockout, and then promptly shifting to the novice class, where he won the title. He has also been a star of the Golden Gloves tournaments, traveling far until losing decisions to such able boxers as Verne Patterson and William Joyce. His biggest thrill came last August, when he defeated the South American champion, Humberto Hernandez, in the international show at Soldiers' field.

AMATEUR BOUTS TONIGHT

Eight bouts will comprise the annual amateur boxing show sponsored by the Duncan Y. M. C. A. at 1515 Monroe street tonight. Sammy Sferas, bantamweight runnerup to Frank Kainrath in the 1935 and 1936 Catholic Youth organization tournaments, is paired with Frankie Noto. Martin O'Gradney, Portage park middleweight, will meet Charley Manna of the Madison Athletic club. . . . Ralph [Ruffy] Silverstein, state heavyweight champion, will meet Pat Kelly of Houston, Tex., in the main event of the wrestling show tonight at the Park Casino, 2825 Madison street. Supporting bouts will bring together Jack Conley and Alex Kaffner, Tony Martini and Joe Orawiec, Jack [Bully Boy] Kogut and Otto Shultz, and Bill Goelz and Al Wescott. . . . A reunion of oldtime fighters will be held tonight at the Paradise club, 5135 Milwaukee avenue. Joe Louis, who did loosening up exercises at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday, will start boxing drills at the same place tomorrow. . . . Davey Day worked out yesterday in preparation for a ten round topliner with Johnny Morro, conqueror of Leo Rodak two years ago, at Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . .

ST. AMBROSE IS NEGOTIATING FOR ANOTHER GAME

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Negotiations are under way for a post season game for the St. Ambrose college football team, Iowa conference co-champion, undefeated in 24 straight games. The probable opponent will be the unbeaten but tied Marshall college eleven of Huntington, W. Va., according to Wilfred J. Duford, head coach.

If the game is arranged, it will probably be played Saturday in Charleston, W. Va.

JANKOWSKI HAS BRAIN INJURY; AWAIT X-RAYS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A hospital attendant reported tonight that Eddie Jankowski, Green Bay Packer full back, was "getting along pretty well."

X-ray examinations will be taken tomorrow to determine whether his skull was fractured in yesterday's game with the Washington Redskins.

The attendant said there were indications of a brain injury, but he did not believe it would prove serious.

De Correvont Is Guest of Washington Assistant Coach

Bill De Correvont of Austin, the most widely publicized high school football player of recent years, was a dinner guest last night of Ralph [Pest] Welch, assistant coach at the University of Washington, and a Chicago surgeon, prominent in Washington alumni affairs. Included in the party was Benny Sohn, former star back at Austin who played one year at Washington.

NEW TRIER FIVE OPENS SUBURBAN SEASON FRIDAY

The Suburban league basketball schedule will open with one game Friday when New Trier plays in Waukegan. The following night Morton and Proviso meet in Maywood. Waukegan will open Morton's season Dec. 10, while Oak Park, defending heavyweight champion, begins defense of title against Highland Park Dec. 11. The complete schedule:

Dec. 3—New Trier at Waukegan.
Dec. 4—Morton at Proviso.
Dec. 10—Proviso at Evanston. Waukegan at Morton.
Dec. 11—Highland Park at Oak Park.

Feb. 18—Waukegan at Highland Park. Oak Park at Morton. New Trier at Proviso.
Feb. 21—Highland Park at Proviso. New Trier at Oak Park. Evanston at Waukegan.
Feb. 25—Highland Park at New Trier. Morton at Evanston. Proviso at Waukegan.
March 4—Evanston at Oak Park.

Fight Decisions

At Marigold Gardens—Harold Brown beat Johnny Barbara [10]; Tommy Howell knocked out Melvin Harper [2]; Johnny Helstrom beat Ted Tello [4]; Al Schiarato beat Charley Hudson [3]; Bill McDowell beat Owen Woods [4].

Dempsey's Condition Very Good Following Illness

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey's condition was reported very good today at his apartment. He has acute indigestion, not appendicitis as reported earlier.

157" CHASSIS (less cab)		619.00

PRICES DELIVERED IN DETROIT. TAXES EXTRA.

For delivered prices in your locality on these or the many Ford V-8 Truck and Commercial Car body types consult the nearest Ford dealer.

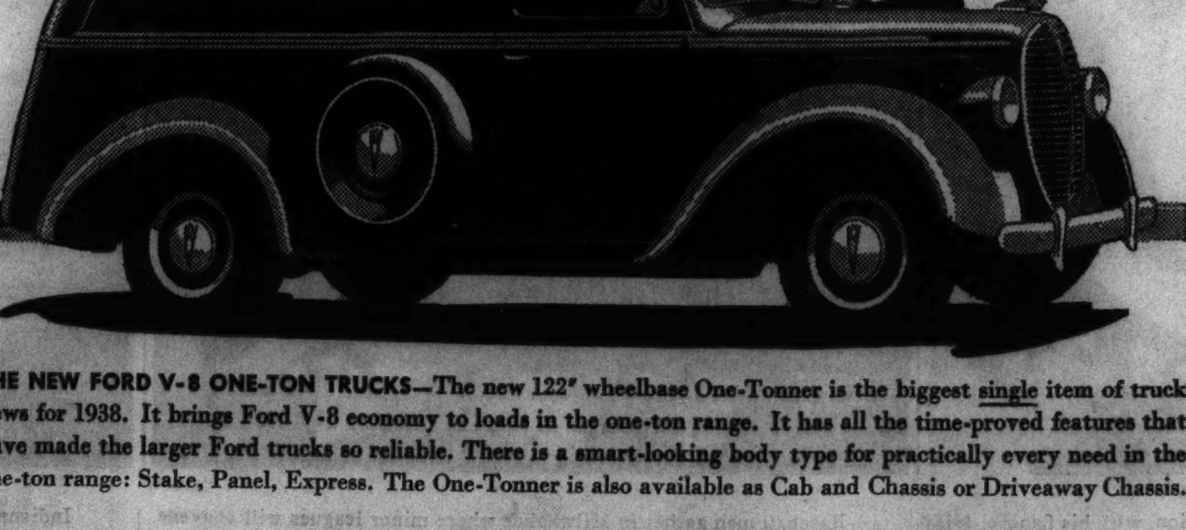
The Ford V-8 Trucks for 1938 have been completely redesigned. They have new appearance, improved braking, easier steering, stronger construction. In addition, there is an entirely new 122" wheelbase one-ton truck. This new One-Tonner bridges the gap between the larger Ford Trucks and the 112" Commercial Cars. For practically every hauling and delivery need there is now a unit that gives Ford standards of performance, dependability and economy.

The new styling of all these units is particularly impressive. They have a new front end, a sturdy new grille, new headlamps, massive full-skirted fenders. Their smart modern appearance is a definite asset to any business.

Other important advances for 1938 are more comfortable cabs . . . a new 134" wheelbase in the big truck line . . . a new frame width for both the 134" and 157" wheelbase units . . . 7.50-20 dual tire and wheel equipment available at extra cost.

The new one-tonners and the commercial cars offer a choice of the 85 or 60 hp. V-8 engine. The larger trucks are powered with the 85 hp. engine.

Your Ford dealer invites you to see the new line—and make an "on-the-job" test with your own loads and your own driver.



THE NEW FORD V-8 ONE-TON TRUCKS—The new 122" wheelbase One-Tonner is the biggest single item of truck news for 1938. It brings Ford V-8 economy to loads in the one-ton range. It has all the time-proved features that have made the larger Ford trucks so reliable. There is a smart-looking body type for practically every need in the one-ton range: Stake, Panel, Express. The One-Tonner is also available as Cab and Chassis or Driveaway Chassis.

NEW FORD V-8 FEATURES FOR 1938

NEW, QUICKER STOPPING BRAKES—You can stop these 1938 Ford Trucks in shorter distance—with less pedal pressure. New brakes are self-energizing, larger and more powerful. Cable and conduit control gives the safety of steel from pedal to wheel.

NEW, LARGER SPINDLES An increased factor of safety for 134" and 157" trucks is provided by larger spindles with larger spindle bolts. The greater surface on bolts and bushings reduces wear—the new spindle design improves steering action.

- ✱ New styling for all units
- ✱ More comfortable cabs—3" more headroom—Handsome new interior trim—Softer seat cushions
- ✱ New 134" wheelbase, with 60" cab to axle measurement—Improved load distribution
- ✱ For 134" and 157" trucks new standard frame width
- ✱ Easier steering—New roller type with 18" wheel
- ✱ 7.50-20 dual tire and wheel equipment available at extra cost

TIME-PROVED FORD TRUCK FEATURES

- ✱ The famous Ford V-8 engines, 85 and 60 horsepower
- ✱ Full-floating rear axle with tapered roller bearings
- ✱ Straddle-mounted pinion—Ring gear thrust plate
- ✱ Centri-force clutch—Low pedal pressure—High torque capacity
- ✱ Needle roller bearing universal joints on 134" and 157" trucks
- ✱ Full torque tube and radius rod drive—Free shackled springs
- ✱ Ford Engine and Parts Exchange Plan saves time and money

FITZGERALD OF MAROONS IS OUT OF BASKETBALL

Football Injury Leads to Withdrawal.

Games This Week

TOMORROW.
Columbia college at Notre Dame.
Valparaiso at De Paul.

FRIDAY.
Carleton at Northwestern.

SATURDAY.
De Paul at Chicago.
Marquette at Wisconsin.
Ball State at Notre Dame.

Bob Fitzgerald, University of Chicago football captain, will not be available for the Maroon basketball team, it became known yesterday.

Fitzgerald, who has been a regular guard on the Maroon team for the last two years, has been advised by the athletic department physician, Dr. Charles Shannon, to forego basketball competition. Danger of aggravating a side injury sustained during the football season was given as the reason for Fitzgerald's withdrawal.

Prospects Are Bright.

In spite of Fitzgerald's absence Maroon basketball prospects are the brightest in many years. There are plenty of candidates for guard positions, including Capt. Kendall Petersen and Morris Rossin, letter men, Howard Durbin, and Jerry Jeremy, reserves last year, and Howard Isaacson, Harry Topping, and Ralph Richardson, able sophomores.

The Maroon varsity seems well adapted to the new rule which eliminated the center-jump. John Eggemeyer, Bob Cassels and Jack Mullin, all veteran forwards, appear to have improved over last year, and Dick Lounsbury, 6 feet 4 inch sophomore center from St. Johns Military academy, is a standout.

The Chicago team opens its season against De Paul at the Midway field house Saturday night. Probable starters for the Maroons will be Eggemeyer and Cassels, forwards, Lounsbury, center, and Isaacson and Rossin, guards.

N. U. FACES CARLETON

With the opening of school yesterday following the Thanksgiving vacation Northwestern's basketball team speeded up preparations for the first game of the season with Carleton college in Patten gymnasium Friday night.

Although the Wildcats are fortified with a number of returning letter men it is probable that several sophomores will be in the starting lineup for the opener. Mike McMichael, veteran forward, will be out for several weeks with a leg injury, while Bob Voigts, regular guard last year, and Cleo Diehl, a forward, reported yesterday for the first time. Both were members of the football squad.

Forward Position Open.

Loss of McMichael for the early season games leaves one of the forward positions wide open. Capt. Fred Trenkle, a senior, is a certain starter, while the other position is being fought over by a group of candidates. Charles Melchoir, a sophomore from Jasper, Ind., may get the starting call against Carleton.

Les Harman, former Austin High school star, is another sophomore who will see action in the opener. Other candidates for front court positions who may break into the lineup Friday are Bernard Davis, Art Gerkin, and Lynn Wimmer, squad men, and Don Turner of La Grange, a sophomore.

Two Veteran Centers.

Two letter men, Jean Smith of Logansport, Ind., and Jake Nagode of Waukegan, are the leading candidates for center. They have shared the pivot assignment for two years.

Lack of practice will probably keep Voigts from taking over his job at the back guard assignment. In his place will be Ag Vance, rugged sophomore, brother of Duke Vance who captained the 1935 team. Other candidates are Bob Sampson, Jack Woy, and Perry Feaman, squadmen, and Bob Saley, sophomore of Chicago.

IOWA RETAINS TUBBS AS COACH FOR NEXT YEAR

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The board in control of athletics at the University of Iowa today announced Irl Tubbs, head football coach, had been retained for the 1938 season.

Tubbs assistant, Pat Boland, backfield and end coach Ernie Nevers, and Trainer Bill Frey also were retained. All are hired on a year-to-year basis.

Trades Near as Big League Leaders Meet

Dykes' pressing needs, besides a third baseman, are an outfielder and a catcher good enough to serve in case Luke Sewell should encounter an injury. Dykes will consider himself lucky if he can land even one of the men without weakening his present structure.

Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs will take anybody able to hit, preferably an outfielder. In fact, he could use two men in this class, but is not going to get them. Because of the hitting feature, he is willing to consider a price from the Pirates on Shortstop Vaughan. The Pirates might accept Bill Jurges, a brilliant fielder, in return, but would prefer a pitcher. The Pirates need may deal with Cincinnati, which has mound strength and for this reason baited a trading hook with Derringer.

There also have been quiet whispers that the Cubs will offer First Baseman Jim Collins, possibly to Brooklyn as part payment for Mungo. The Cubs would have to include a pitcher to put over this transaction.

Comiskey Leads Delegation.

Today's White Sox delegation to Milwaukee will include President-Owner J. Louis Comiskey, Manager Dykes, Secretary Joe Barry, and Coach Billy Webb. They will be joined tomorrow by Business Manager Harry Grabiner. The Cub assemblage will be made up of Manager Grimm, Vice President John Seys, Treasurer Charles Weber, and Secretary Bob Lewis. Clarence Rowland, the Cubs' ambassador at large, and Scout Jack Doyle departed yesterday.

Rowland went on ahead of time, mainly to bait his lines with the numerous green peas the Cubs have collected. Practically all of them are in need of more minor league experience and will be farmed out.

While the majors are busy with their trade business the minors will kill their time in business sessions, the most important of which will be the major-minor agreement under which the big and little fellows operate. The majors will take up this matter during their annual sessions here next week.

ICE CHAMPIONS START TODAY FOR OSLO MEET

Leo Freisinger of Chicago and Marvin Swanson of Minneapolis, national indoor and outdoor skating champions, respectively, worked out at the Chicago arena last night, preparatory to leaving for New York today en route to the world championship meet in Oslo, Norway. It will be held on Jan. 30-31, 1938.

McCLARENCE IS ELECTED CAPTAIN AT BRADLEY TECH

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Bill McClarence was elected honorary captain of Bradley Tech's undefeated, untied, and unscored on champions of the Little Nineteen conference at a football banquet held here this evening.

The principal speaker was Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Lon Warneke, Lee Handley, Andy Lotshaw, Phil Cavarretta, and Mordecai Brown also were present. Glenn Walley was toastmaster.

Bradley won its last three games in the 1936 football campaign, won thirteen consecutive basketball games, and then won seven Little Nineteen baseball games.

Armour Five Opens Season Tomorrow

Grant N. Stenger will start his second season as coach of the Armour Tech basketball squad when Armour meets the Milwaukee School of Engineering tomorrow afternoon in the 108th Engineers Armory, where all home games will be played. Gene Heike, last year's captain, is assisting Stenger and is coaching the freshman squad.

The 1937-'38 schedule:

Dec. 1, Milwaukee Engineers at Armour; Dec. 7; University of Illinois at Illinois; Dec. 9, Arkansas State college at Armour; Dec. 11, Lake Forest at Lake Forest; Dec. 15, Beloit at Armour; Dec. 18, Chicago at Chicago; Jan. 4, Lake Forest at Armour; Jan. 13, De Kalb Teachers at De Kalb; Jan. 18, Elmhurst at Armour; Jan. 21, Michigan State Normal at Armour; Feb. 3, Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti; Feb. 5, Detroit Tech at Detroit; Feb. 19, North Central at Armour; Feb. 17, Milwaukee Engineers at Milwaukee; Feb. 21, Detroit at Armour.

DE PAUL OPENS TOMORROW

Three sophomores and two reserves from last season will compose the starting lineup. The newcomers are Ted Skrodzki, of St. Patrick, and Carl Tollstom and Stanley Szukala, both ex-Schurz players.

AUSTIN REJECTS MIAMI BID; WILL GO TO MEMPHIS

Bill Heiland, Austin High school football coach, announced last night that his team would play only one post-season game and that that one would be at Memphis, Tenn., on Dec. 11. In coming to this decision Austin last night rejected an invitation to play at Miami, Fla., on Christmas day.

Heiland explained that school authorities had given permission for only one post-season game and that in choosing to go to Memphis he was carrying out an agreement made a year ago. Austin lost to Lee High school of Columbus, Miss., 7 to 6, last season at Memphis and at that time Heiland entered into an agreement to bring the team back this year, regardless of its record. He said that he had not yet been notified who would oppose Austin.

OAK PARK MAY GO.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Coach Jess Yarborough of Miami High school said tonight the offer of Oak Park, Ill., High school to come here for an intersectional football game Christmas day probably would be accepted, since Austin High of Chicago was not available. Oak Park is the suburban champion of Chicago. The Miami athletic council is expected to act tomorrow on a formal acceptance.

Red Wings Face Shakeup; Waivers Sought for Two

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings hocky team tonight asked waivers on two players as he started a shakeup of the National Hocky league champions. Adams threatened to take the team apart, among other moves splitting up the famous first line of Herbie Lewis, Marty Barry and Larry Aurie.

Waivers were asked on Johnny Sorrell, left wing playing his eighth season for the Wings, and Pete Kelly, right wing who has failed to live up to early promises.

Adams also said he plans to bring up young Howard Mackie, recruit wing with Detroits minor league farm club, the Pittsburgh Hornets. He would ship Kelly and Sorrell to the Hornets in exchange for Mackie.

The Wings, twice successive cup champions, have furnished little more than target practice opposition to National league foes this season, winning only two in nine games.

In an attempt to make the offensive click again, Adams would place Barry and Lewis, who with Aurie formed hocky's greatest attacking force during the last two years, on separate lines and hold Aurie in reserve.

That means nothing against Aurie, however. He will be on call from the bench when the Wings need him most.

SCHAEFER LEADS HOPPE IN NEW 71.2 BALKLINE

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Willie Hoppe and Jake Schaefer introduced the French game of 71.2 balkline billiards today. Schaefer captured the first two blocks, the first by 250 to 245, in nine innings, and the second, 250 to 173, in nineteen. Except for the difference in the dimensions of the balks, 71.2 is similar to 18.2 balkline, though considerably more difficult, as there are only six sections on the table, compared to nine in the latter style of play, and there is no free, or center alley.

Bruns Pins Malkov at White City in 31:42

Bobby Bruns, north side heavyweight wrestler, threw Zack Malkov in thirty-one minutes forty-two seconds last night in the White City arena. Mike Kilonis and Roy Rickenbacher drew in a thirty minute bout. Jack Kogut tossed Ken Fenlon and Tony Martini threw Al Wescott in other bouts.

Pitt Players Demand Cash for Bowl Trip

players demanded that they be reimbursed in spending money for the trip, it was said. Some seniors on the squad were said to have demanded $200 each; others were willing to compromise for amounts ranging from $75 to $150, informants disclosed.

Events of the last Rose bowl trip were brought up and incidents which led to the final break between Coach Sutherland and the then Director of Athletics W. Don Harrison recounted. Last year, following Pitt's defeat of the Huskies, Sutherland and his assistant, Bill Kern, now coach at Carnegie Tech, dug into their own pockets to give each member of the squad $7.50 to go to a dance New Year's night in Pasadena. Later Pitt players said they heard that each member of the Huskies, whom they had just beaten, had received $100 "pocket money."

Officials Plead in Vain.

After the second vote other officials of the university, to whom the athletic bond debt for the building of Pitt's stadium, now thirteen years old and still unpaid for, has become a nightmare, reportedly sought to influence individual players to change their minds and cited that the game would mean much to relieve the stadium bond situation, but the entreaties were futile.

Tonight Pitt's campus, alumni, and Panther football followers in general were in a turmoil. It is believed no further effort will be made to change the players' stand.

Not only did the players vote against the Pasadena trip but their resolution included "any or all other post-season offers which may be made."

COLORADO AT DALLAS

Boulder, Col., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—The University of Colorado today accepted by long distance telephone an invitation to send its football team, champion of the Rocky Mountain conference, to the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas, Tex., New Year's day.

Colorado's opponent in the contest, which last year matched Marquette university and Texas Christian, will be the Southwest conference titleholder, provided this title is undisputed. Rice must defeat Southern Methodist Saturday to gain a clear claim to the championship. Should Rice be tied by S. M. U., and thus end the Southwest race in a deadlock with Texas Christian, then the Cotton Bowl committee will select an opponent.

Watch 'Em; They May Be 1937s All-Americans

Players included in the following list were outstanding performers in last week's football games and are presented here as a guide for fans considering candidates for next year's TRIBUNE All-Star team. Several are not seniors, but will be eligible for future All-Star squads. The stars:

Frank Souchak [Pittsburgh], end.
Harry Smith [U. S. C.], guard.
Andy Puplis [Notre Dame], quarter back.

ILLINOIS DUCK SEASON CLOSES THIS AFTERNOON

Weather Vagaries Make Season Disappointing.

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois hunters today are saying goodbye to the 1937 waterfowl season. At four o'clock this afternoon it becomes illegal to hunt ducks and geese in the state. After that hour waterfowl hunters will have little to do except look ahead to the 1938 season, bless the weatherman for what he did to spoil the hunting this year, and wonder whether regulations on waterfowl hunting will be less stringent next season.

The hunting season that moves out of the picture today hardly will be recorded as one of the best as far as Illinois shooters are concerned. When the season opened everything pointed to a successful 30 days of hunting, except for the difficulty of low water in the sloughs. There were plenty of birds on hand. When we opened the season with Lou Barkhausen of Cuba Island there were thousands of mallards and pintails in the sloughs. We had excellent shooting. When the weatherman failed to send rain to fill up the Illinois river and the bottomlands, and then added a spell of unseasonably dry weather, the duck hunting setup was changed.

Exhaust Food Supplies.

The birds soon exhausted food supplies in the lowlands and began to feed in the corn fields far back from the Illinois river bottoms. The final blow was the wintry weather which arrived on Nov. 18. Sloughs and small lakes were frozen solid. Countless thousands of birds went south that week-end.

Those that did stay set up a routine that baffled most hunters. The birds retired to protected waters during the day and then flew to the cornfields to feed at night. With shallow ponds covered by several inches of ice and no natural food available they evaded the shotguns simply by staying out of the bottomlands. Around Thanksgiving day one of the largest and best tracts of duck hunting marsh in the Illinois river valley reported that it was hard work for five hunters to kill four ducks in a morning because the birds worked out to the cornfields and not to the frozen marshes.

Hunt Far Back from River.

This situation was a perfect illustration of what now may be expected every season under similar conditions. In other seasons when corn was fed them the birds fanned out over the frozen marshes to get food. Now they must hunt their corn far back from the river in the fields where few hunters bother them.

FIND TWO CASES OF TAMPERING AT BOWIE TRACK

Officials Investigate Use of Sponge Trick.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—On the eve of the closing of the Maryland racing season at Bowie tomorrow the stewards at the Bowie track announced that White Sand and Master Lad, owned by W. E. Johnson, had been tampered with and that small sponges had been found in the horses' nostrils.

Both were scheduled starters on today's program. White Sand finished fourth in the fifth race. Later on Master Lad was withdrawn from the sixth race.

It's An Old Story.

More than a half dozen horses were sponged during last fall's Bowie meeting, but these were the first cases reported this year. Bowie officials plan an intensive investigation of the latest cases.

The running of the $7,500 Bryan and O'Hara handicap at a mile and three-sixteenths will feature the final day of racing tomorrow afternoon. It will bring together Burning Star, owned by Richard and Patrick Nash of Chicago, and Calumet Dick, owned by Mrs. Ella K. Bryson of Baltimore. It will be their fourth clash of the season. Burning Star defeated Calumet Dick in the Havre de Grace and Washington handicaps. Calumet Dick turned the tables on the Chicago 3 year old last week in the running of the Thanksgiving Day handicap here.

Calumet Dick will carry top weight of 128 pounds, five more than that assigned to Burning Star. Others in the long race are W. M. Jefford's Regal Lady, Parker Corning's Unfailing; Mrs. P. Dae Watts' Busy K, W. J. Brann's Challephen, and the Jeffords owned Matey.

78 NOMINATED FOR WIDENER STAKE MARCH 5

Hialeah, Fla., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan of Hialeah Park today released a list of seventy-eight nominations, including the Kentucky Derby winner, War Admiral, for the $50,000 added Widener stake on March 5.

The Widener is for 3 year olds and up, at a mile and one-quarter. Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral, also winner of the Preakness and Belmont stakes and unbeaten as a 3 year old, likewise has been nominated for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap in California on the same date.

The Widener nominations included W. J. Hirsch's Columbiana, winner of the stake last season, and Townsend B. Mertin's Court Scandal, which won the last $20,000 Flamingo stakes for 3 year olds here.

Among the other nominations were the Foxcatcher farms' Rosemont, winner of the 1937 Santa Anita handicap, and Fairy Hill, Santa Anita Derby victor; Mrs. Emil Denemark's Finance; E. K. Bryson's White Cockade and Calumet Dick; E. R. Bradley's Bow and Arrow; Maxwell Howard's Sceneshifter; the Wheatley stable's Melodist and Teufel, and the Shandon farm's Burning Star.

Time, 1:50. Two dollar mutuels paid: Aladdin's Dream, $7.30 straight, $4.50 place, $3.00 show; Alexandrine, $6.10 place, $4.30 show; Buck Langhorne, $4.40 show. Winner, br. g., 7, by Crusader-Pen Rose. Owner, E. J. Regan. Trainer same. Start good.
ALADDIN'S DREAM trailed far back for six furlongs, then closed with a rush and was going away at end. ALEXANDRINE was rushed into lead, was allowed to go a bit wide, but held on well. BUCK LANGHORNE, well up all the way. THE RUNNER tired at end. STOCKS apparently did not like the going. JACK PATCHES never prominent.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $180; third, $90; fourth, $30.

MEMBER BANKS' BUSINESS LOANS SHRINK FURTHER

Fall 55 Million in Week; Bond Holdings Lower.

Continued shrinkage in business loans was shown yesterday in the federal reserve board's weekly report covering member banks in 101 principal cities. The decline in commercial, industrial, and agricultural loans amounted to 55 million dollars in the week ended Nov. 24, compared with 42 millions in the preceding week.

The decline apparently was general, New York banks accounting for 29 millions, Chicago for 7 millions, and banks of the other ninety-nine cities for 19 millions.

All Loan Total Falls.

The drop in business loans caused the 53 million dollar decline in all loans. Brokers loans rose 16 millions, the first increase in several weeks, and other lending classifications showed no more than minor recessions.

Holdings of government bonds decreased 13 millions, and other securities in the portfolios of the banks shrank 32 millions. As a result, total loans and investments fell 98 millions.

The banks reported an increase of 53 millions in demand deposits and a decrease of 23 millions in time deposits. Government deposits were down 2 millions. Domestic inter-bank deposits dropped 106 millions.

Composite Figures.

Following are comparisons of the principal assets and liabilities of the weekly reporting member banks of the federal reserve system at the close of business Wednesday [last six ciphers omitted]:

Rustless Iron and Steel.

Investors' Guide: Any information you can give about Rustless Iron and Steel corporation will be appreciated. —R. N.

Answer: This company is mainly a producer of chrome-iron and chrome-nickel-iron alloys, known as rustless or stainless steel, under patents which it owns. Part of production is in the form of bars, rods and wire, but most of output is in ingots, billets, slabs and other unfinished forms.

Principal users of the company's products are the automobile, food and chemical processing, oil refining, refrigeration, electrical, railway, dairy equipment and metal working industries. The American Rolling Mill company, which has acquired 48 per cent of common stock in the last two years, and two other unnamed customers took about half of dollar volume of production in the first half of 1937.

Sales amounted to $3,376,000 and net income was $575,000 or 62 cents per common share in the first nine months of this year, compared with sales of $1,796,000 and net of $228,000 or 28 cents a share in the first nine months of 1936.

The current slowing down in general business undoubtedly is affecting Rustless Iron, although the sharp drop in operations in the steel industry is not necessarily a criterion of the volume of business of this company.

Sales were $2,647,000 and net income was $351,000 or 43 cents a share in 1936, compared with sales of $1,685,000 and net of $166,000 or 23 cents a share in 1935. Sales amounted to only $819,000 in 1934, in which a loss of $23,000 was reported. Losses also occurred in the three preceding years.

The company sold 25,000 shares of $2.50 dividend convertible preferred stock last March. Because of weak security markets this fall, the company abandoned a similar offering to help finance a substantial plant addition opened Sept. 30. There now are 848,187 shares of $1 par common stock outstanding. There is no funded debt.

Current assets were $1,905,000 and current liabilities were $522,000 on June 30, 1937.

Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred, but nothing has been paid on the common since recapitalization in 1933.

The business in which the company is engaged appears to be promising and earnings have improved, but the common stock continues to be definitly speculative.

RAILS URGE RATE INCREASE AS BIG AID TO INDUSTRY

Start Plea to I. C. C. for 15 Pct. Boost.

J. J. Pelley.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission heard J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, contend today that with adequate revenues the railroads should be able to provide the "greatest single stimulus" to lagging industry.

Testifying at the outset of a commission investigation of the railroads proposal for a 15 per cent increase in their freight rates, Pelley said the carriers normally are a billion-dollar-a-year customer of all industries. With adequate revenues, he argued, "we may reasonably expect a revival of railroad buying."

Describes Financial Status.

"The financial condition of the railroads is probably worse today than at any time in their history," Pelley said. "Ninety-six railroads are in the hands of receivers or trustees, 36 of the class 1 railroads operating 70,[illegible] miles. Other systems are threatened with bankruptcy.

"The cause of the present financial distress is increased operating costs over which the railroads have little or no control, and decreased earnings per ton mile and per passenger mile. Since May 1, 1933, which may be regarded as about the bottom of depression, prices of things we use have increased 40 per cent. Our taxes have increased 25 per cent, our wages have increased 18 per cent.

"During the same period, revenues for carrying a ton of freight one mile have decreased 10 per cent, and revenues for transporting a passenger one mile have decreased 20 per cent."

Requests Early Action.

Pelley urged the commission to decide the rate case as early as possible. One rail spokesman expressed hope for a decision by Feb. 1. It may be much later than that, however. The last rate increase was granted after a year of study by the commission.

The general increase now requested, Pelley said, should yield an additional $517,000,000. The total new income, he added, still would be "$98,000,000 less than the amount of our increased annual expenses because of rising prices since May 1, 1933."

Dr. J. H. Parmelee, director of the carriers' bureau of railway economics, told the commission the railroads were caught between declining freight and passenger revenues and rising material prices, wages, and taxes. Their forced curtailment of purchases of equipment, materials, and supplies, he said, was resulting in "a serious economic effect on employment, on the manufacturers of railroad supplies, and on general business activity."

Shippers Unite Forces.

Shipping interests, asked by the I. C. C. to unify forces opposing the rate increase, elected R. C. Fulbright, a Washington attorney, as their leader.

J. K. Hiltner of Burlington, N. J., told reporters that not all shippers were opposed to the proposed increase. He said iron and steel interests, which he represented, were "for it in principle" but against the railroads' method of asking a flat increase.

Shippers' representatives decided to ask the commission to conduct regional hearings, begining about Jan. 20, in Memphis, Salt Lake City, and other cities. Wilbur Laroe Jr., attorney representing the American Paper and Pulp association, said the purpose was to give "those people interested in the rate increase a chance to submit their evidence without a long trip to Washington."

Laroe asked that each class one railroad be required to provide a financial statement which would show which lines most needed higher rates and which least needed them.

George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railroad Labor Executives' association, told reporters railroad labor favored the proposed rate increase because the roads were not being paid an amount sufficient to compensate for increased costs.

MEXICAN DECREE BARS STRIKES BY BANK EMPLOYES

President Lazaro Cardenas published a "labor code for credit institutions and branches" which apparently was designed as a substitute for collective labor contracts in force in other industries. The code stipulated that banks were empowered "to select and employ their personnel freely."

The code provided for a 42 hour week, a minimum salary 50 per cent higher than the minimum prevailing wage of the bank district, vacations, disability, and pension benefits, and indemnification for discharge.

It was understood Finance Minister Eduardo R. Suarez joined bankers in seeking the decree after strikes closed branches of the Bank of Mexico at San Luis Potosi and Tampico for several days.

Stock Market Sinks Again in Light Trading

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—Stock market prices dropped fractions to about 4 points today. Observers said traders apparently ignored President Roosevelt's message to congress urging a revision in the housing laws so that billions of dollars could be liberated for housing construction in the next five years. Sales totaled only 1,145,910 shares.

Pivotal industrial shares, such as United States Steel common, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, and farm equipment issues were the chief losers. The Dow-Jones industrial average declined 2.13 at 121.58. Carrier shares held close to previous finals, the group average easing .17 to 31.54. The utility share average sank .48 to 22.48.

Profit Taking Is Factor.

After an irregular opening, stocks were put under pressure when profit taking, said to have been predicated on the list's abrupt rise Saturday, afforded traders an opportunity to realize some advantages. However, the selling gave out when leading shares displayed unexpected resistance. The market was irregular during the remainder of the session.

United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic were among the most active issues of the day. The first two lost 1⅞ and 1⅝ respectively, and Republic gave up ⅞. Chrysler and General Motors practically kept pace on volume and loss. Chrysler lost 1¾ and General Motors 1⅝.

Rails Resist Selling.

Hope that the interstate commerce commission would look favorably on their demand for higher freight rates buoyed railroad stocks. Pressure against them was slight and in consequence losses were minor. Atchison and Union Pacific each gained ½ point.

Among building stocks Johns Manville dropped 2⅛ and United States Gypsum lost 1. Lower priced shares eased fractions.

Monopolizing the tape for a time in the morning, the common and preferred shares of Schulte stores provided one of the day's features. The daily turnover in these stocks ordinarily runs to a few hundred shares. Today the common stock was the most active issue. With one transaction of 10,000 shares swelling the total, 31,600 shares were traded. The common closed at 1¼, up ¼.

UTILITY FIGHTS JUDICIAL CHANGE IN RATE THEORY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Pacific Gas and Electric company told the Supreme court today that if the method of valuing utilities for rate making purposes is to be altered, the change "should be made by legislative enactment and not by judicial pronouncement."

The company filed a brief in connection with its attack on an order by the California railroad commission directing it to reduce its gas rates.

The Roosevelt administration has used this case as a basis for advocating valuation of utilities on a "prudent investment" or "historical cost" basis instead of "reproduction cost." The latter method has been in vogue for 39 years and has been upheld by the Supreme court.

In its brief the Pacific Gas and Electric company said the California commission "proceeded upon the basis of historical cost and not upon the basis of present fair value."

GRAIN EXCHANGE RULE HEARING TO START TODAY

The Commodity Exchange administration will hold a public hearing at 10 a. m. today in room 300 of the Chicago Board of Trade building on the desirability of prohibiting trading in an expiring grain future ten days in advance of the final delivery date.

Dr. J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the CEA, and others from the Washington office of the administration, will be here. Traders, grain receivers, processors, warehousemen, operators, and others dealing on the Board of Trade are expected to testify.

A hearing will be held tomorrow on establishment of limits on speculative transactions in grain futures contracts.

TREASURY TO REVEAL DECEMBER FINANCING TERMS NEXT MONDAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Secretary Morgenthau said today he would make public next Monday the terms of the treasury's mid-December financing.

The treasury meanwhile will continue to offer each week until Dec. 13, 50 million dollars of bills maturing in the March income tax period. On Thursday he will announce his bill plans beyond Dec. 15.

The treasury yesterday announced the sale of $50,040,000 of 107 day bills at a price of $99.965 per $100 of accepted bids. This is equivalent to borrowing money until March 18, 1938, at a rate of 0.119 per cent. Last week the treasury sold $50,152,000 treasury bills at $99.963 equivalent to an interest rate of 0.117 per cent, the best rate of the year.

Morgenthau again declined to comment on the possibility of gold desterilization or to say whether this subject would be discussed with the executive committee of the federal reserve open market committee when it meets with him on Wednesday.

AUTO EQUIPMENT TRADE PREPARES FOR BIG SHOW

Heavy reservations of exhibition booths for the automotive service industries show, which will open next Monday at Navy pier, were reported yesterday by the Motor and Equipment Manufacturers association.

With the show a week off, 1,009 booths for 380 exhibitors already have been reserved. The display, it was said, will be the largest mass exhibition in the history of the industry. More than 20,000 out of town manufacturers and distributors are expected to attend. The show is not open to the public.

The Motor and Equipment Manufacturers association is one of the three trade bodies sponsoring the exposition. Members of this organization will use about half of the booths, and the rest will be occupied by members of the National Standard Parts association and the Motor and Equipment Wholesalers associations. Hundreds of new mechanical developments will be shown.

A precedent is being set in holding the show in Chicago for the second year in succession. In the past the exhibition has been passed from one city to another. Last year's show in Chicago set an all-time high mark for attendance.

MORE FIRMS HIKE NEWSPRINT PRICE FOR '38 LAST HALF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 29.—Canadian newsprint companies moved quickly today to fall in line with International Paper company in establishing the basic price for newsprint, for last half of 1938 delivery, at $50 a ton. This was the same as previously was set for delivery in the first half of 1938. International led in the price announcements last night. The $50 price is for newsprint delivered at Chicago, New York, and other Atlantic and gulf ports. The present level is $42.50 a ton.

The companies joining in the $50 price announcement today were Abitibi Power and Paper company, Price Brothers & Co., and Consolidated Paper company.

Newsprint production in some of the major units will be curtailed still further after the first of the year following the lead of International Paper, which will cut production by another half day in addition to the full day curtailment now in effect.

Declares Advertising Has Saved U. S. Ice Industry

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Mount Taylor of Chicago, secretary of the National Association of Ice Industries, said here today that advertising has saved the American ice industry from disaster, and after ten years of steadily declining sales, has turned the tide to a sales increase. Taylor spoke at today's program of the Southwestern Ice Manufacturers' association's 47th annual convention.

Call $484,000 of School Tax Anticipation Warants

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, yesterday called for payment $484,000 worth of 1936 school tax anticipation warrants. The warants, on which interest will stop next Monday, are numbered E-9484 to E-9487 and B-3864 to B-3947.

Gay Answers SEC; Warns on Regulation

Charles R. Gay.

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock exchange, tonight warned against excessive regulation and "experimentation," and promised that when improved trading methods can be found by impartial study, the exchange would adopt them.

His statement was issued in answer to the ultimatum by William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, last Tuesday, that the exchange reorganize or face more drastic regulation.

Quotes from Annual Report.

Gay quoted again from his annual report of last August, in which he warned that regulation was making the market dangerously illiquid, and asserted:

"I would be less than candid if I failed to say that recent market developments have confirmed my belief that in the interests of the public and the investor, the question of what are wise restrictions on the scope of the market is an urgent one."

Usually well-informed Wall street sources had asserted that Douglas' ultimatum to the exchange had followed a long controversy with representatives of the SEC over Gay's August report, which some believed tended to place the blame for the autumn slump at the SEC's doorstep.

In further comment on his annual report, the exchange president said:

"I do not contend that the recent decline in market prices is to be attributed to the condition of the market to which I called attention, or indeed to any single cause."

Management Change Asked.

In answer to Douglas' demand for sweeping changes in executive administration of the exchange Gay said: "I am about to appoint, with the approval of the governing committee, a special committee to study this whole matter and to report as promptly as possible."

Douglas had called for transfer of exchange management from member committees to a salaried and impartial expert executive personnel. Gay indicated agreement, in part, saying:

"I think that in the orderly development of exchange management further progress should be made in the direction of the transfer of greater administrative responsibilities to executives acting under committee supervision."

Gay's statement was said in Wall street to have followed bitter controversy within the inner councils of the exchange as to what steps should be taken in response to the SEC ultimatum.

Replies on Short Selling.

Taking up the charge made by Douglas with respect to the influence of short selling by floor traders or "professionals," Gay said the exchange had recently invited an independent research organization [Twentieth Century Fund] to make a complete investigation of this "controversial question."

"If this investigation discloses evils which can be remedied," Gay said, "the exchange will not hesitate to take prompt action."

A more spirited defense was made by Gay to the SEC chairman's strictures on the activities of members who act as specialists and the odd lot dealers who cater to the small public traders and investors.

"So far as we can see," he said, "they are the fairest means which have yet been devised for handling the vast number of public orders to buy and sell securities. If in the search for improvement better methods can be found the exchange will adopt them. We do not feel justified, however, in undertaking more experimentation because we know that the public would pay the price of mistakes and that price may be high."

Armour & Co. has purchased a fifteen acre site near Houston, Tex., for construction of a meat packing plant and a vegetable oil refinery, company officials said yesterday. The plant is expected to cost between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

DECEMBER CORN SINKS TO LOWEST MARK SINCE '33

Closes at 52½ Cents on Liquidation.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .89⅞	$ .89⅝	$1.17⅞
Corn	.56	.56½	1.00⅛
Oats	.29⅞	.29⅞	.45
Rye	.65¾	.65⅞	.92¼
Soy beans	.94½	.94½	1.34¼

Corn for December delivery declined 1⅛ cents a bushel yesterday to 52½ cents, the lowest level at which that grain has sold at this season of the year since 1933. Closing trades were at the bottom. Liquidation by holders of contracts who feared they would be called upon to pay for large quantities of cash corn on Dec. 1 was responsible for the decline.

Trading in wheat futures was featured by the buying of the December future attributed to cash and commission houses which put that delivery to a premium of around 1 cent a bushel over the May. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅝ cent higher, the latter on December.

Hedging Pressure Grows.

Hedging pressure has been steadily increasing in corn owing to the rapid increase in the visible supply. Stocks at terminal markets increased 2,657,000 bushels last week to 22,278,000 bushels, compared with 4,597,000 bushels on Nov. 1. The increase of 17,681,000 bushels during the last month is one of the largest on record for any similar period in the history of the grain trade.

The corn trade was somewhat disturbed yesterday by estimates that only one-third of the Illinois crop was eligible for government loans under the original terms of the proposed farm legislation. Little attention was paid, however, to Washington reports indicating efforts were being made to have the government establish a minimum price of $1 on corn and $1.50 a bushel on wheat. The belief prevailed this was largely political talk for home consumption.

Heavy Damage in Argentina.

Extremely heavy damage was done to the new wheat crop in parts of Argentina by recent frosts, according to reports received yesterday. A crop expert who inspected wheat fields in the western part of the province of Buenos Aires and the eastern part of the Pampas cabled that prospective losses range from 40 to 90 per cent of the crop.

Winnipeg wheat futures closed ⅛ to 1¾ cents a bushel higher, the latter on November, trading in which will cease today. Export sales were estimated at 200,000 bushels. New crop Australian wheat was reported as being offered at equal to 4½ cents a bushel under American hard winter delivered at United Kingdom ports.

NASH SLASHES OUTPUT; LAYS OFF MANY MEN

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Nash Motors today inaugurated a four day work week instead of the five day week, and curtailed production and employment to the lowest level of the current model year.

Since Thanksgiving week the company has laid off 3,300 of the normal pay roll of 10,200, and this week's production estimate is set at 1,200 units, compared with 1,495 during the three day week last week and 2,500 as the average week in October. Of the layoffs, 900 are in Kenosha, 1,100 are in Racine, and 1,300 in Milwaukee.

Negotiations were begun in Racine this afternoon between a delegation of United Automobile Workers committees from the three plants and company official over a contract.

Hupp Closes for Inventory.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Hupp Motor Car corporation has closed its plants for 10 days to take inventory. In the last several weeks Hupp has worked full time in order to fill current shipment orders and to build up stocks to carry it over the inventory period.

STEEL OUTPUT SCHEDULE FOR WEEK DROPS

Steel ingot production this week is scheduled at 29.6 per cent of theoretical capacity, a decline of 1.4 points or 4.5 per cent, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. This is the lowest rate since Dec. 3, 1934, when operations were scheduled at 28.8 per cent of capacity.

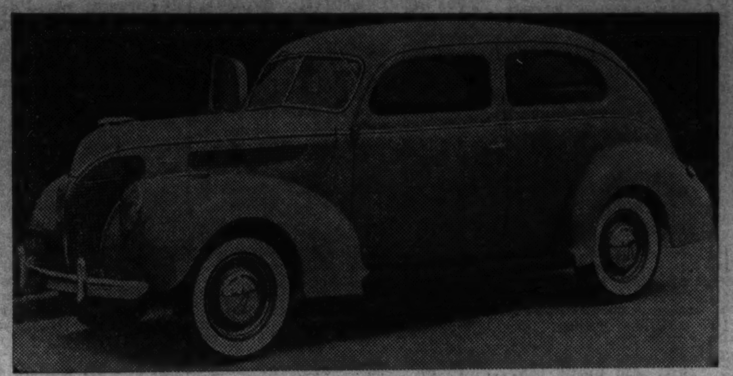
Ingot output in the Chicago district is scheduled at 26.6 per cent, off a point from last week and 12.6 points lower than a month ago. Operations in the Youngstown district are scheduled at 32 per cent, compared with 37 per cent last week.

A month ago the steel industry was operating at 48.6 per cent of capacity. In the corresponding week of 1936 the rate was 75.9 per cent.

Propose $50,000,000 Fund to Aid Butter, Cheese Trade

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A $50,000,000 fund to purchase surplus butter and cheese to protect price levels will be asked of congress by Representative Gardner Withrow, LaCrosse, Wis.

Ford Dealers Show New Lines Today



Here is the 1938 Ford V-8 de luxe Tudor sedan, one of the new models which dealers' showrooms in the United States will display today. The new de luxe line is designed for owners preferring additional appointments and style and includes eight body types. The standard line has new styling and is larger in appearance than the previous models.

Ford Dealers to Display 1938 Models Today

A newly designed de luxe line will feature the 1938 Ford V-8 models which will go on display today in dealer showrooms in the major cities of the United States. The standard models also will go exhibition.

The de luxe line, which officials say was designed for owners who prefer additional style and appointments, is powered only by the 85 horse power V-8 engine. It includes eight body types: Coupé, tudor, and fordor sedans, club coupé convertible cabriolet, club convertible cabriolet, convertible sedan and phaeton.

Detroit prices on the new models are $30 to $70 higher than the prices prevailing in the latter part of the year on the 1937 models. Chicago prices, including freight, federal tax, sales tax, oil, gas, and anti-freeze, range about $60 to $65 above the Detroit prices.

Hood Is Lengthened.

While the standard line and the new de luxe cars have the same chassis, their styling differs considerably. The de luxe cars are larger in appearance. A lengthened hood, and changes in the front and in the grille bars are among the points which differ from the standard line.

The de luxe cars have a flexible multiple steel spoke type steering wheel, as contrasted with the three spoke type on the standard models. Both lines have a headlamp beam control on the toeboard, designed to increase safety in night driving.

The standard line has been newly styled. It is offered with either the 85 or the 60 horse power motor, and is designed, Ford officials say, to meet the requirements of owners who seek economy in first cost as well as in maintenance and operation.

The standard line also is larger in appearance than in the past, and changes have been made in front end design, the grille, hood and fenders.

Fenders Are Lower.

Fenders in both types are lower, the purpose being to provide more complete coverage of the running gear, and they extend farther back. Headlights are recessed in the front fender aprons, and tail lamps, newly fashioned, are in the tips of the rear fenders.

Refinements in the engines have been made to improve performance, especially at the lower speeds. Improvements in the brakes and in the springs also were announced.

The Ford company yesterday announced a new unit in its 1938 expanded V-8 truck and commercial car line. It is a one ton model available in several body types.

Hearing Set on Note Issue Plan of Western Union

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The New York state public service commission will hold a hearing Thursday on the petition of Western Union Telegraph company to issue $8,500,000 refunding notes to be used in refunding the $8,745,000 collateral 5s, due Jan. 1, 1938, it was announced today.

USE OF CHECKS SHOWS A DECLINE IN BUSINESS ACTIVITY DURING WEEK

Commercial activity in the Chicago federal reserve district in the week ended last Wednesday fell below the level of the preceding week and the corresponding period of 1936, according to bank debits figures published yesterday.

Debits to individual deposit accounts [checks cashed] totaled $1,164,910,000, a decline of 1.5 per cent from the preceding week's total of $1,183,087,000, and a decrease of 9 per cent from the total of $1,280,742,000 in the corresponding week a year ago. The figures are based on reports from banks in 41 clearing house cities in the area.

Most reporting cities showed decreases from last year. Chicago debits were $643,577,000 against $760,136,000 last year. Milwaukee debits dropped to $57,809,000 from $62,517,000 last year. Detroit debits registered a gain, totaling $237,538,000 compared with $227,112,000.

TESTIFY TVA OFFICIAL ADVISED TAXING UTILITIES

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Mayor E. D. Bass and City Attorney Joe W. Anderson of Chattanooga testified before a three judge federal court today that David E. Lilienthal, Tennessee valley authority director, told a group of Chattanooga city officials seeking a TVA contract in 1934 that the Supreme court had affirmed the right to tax private utilities.

W. E. Wilkerson, a witness for the eighteen utilities attacking the TVA power program, testified Friday that Lilienthal had advised the group to stifle private utility competition by "taxing hell out of them—or words to that effect."

"During the course of our conference," said Mayor Bass, "Mr. Lilienthal called to our attention a Seattle case before the Supreme court which he said gave us the right to tax the utilities."

"Mr. Lilienthal was the one who brought up the subject of taxing the utilities," Anderson said. "He said it would be legal."

Lilienthal said last Friday that he "made no such statement to the representatives of the city of Chattanooga or anybody else."

TRUST COMPANY ENTERS FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

The Metropolitan Trust company, 11 South La Salle street, has been admitted to membership in the federal reserve system, Barnet L. Rosset, president, announced yesterday.

The company does only a trust business, having no loan or deposit business. It is the only such organization belonging to the reserve system, Rosset said.

"We joined the system," he said, "because we desire to throw every possible safeguard around trust operations. We will obtain the benefit of periodic examination by the federal trust examiners in addition to the very thorough examinations which are made by the Illinois trust examiners."

October Spurt Erases Earlier Lag.

An expansion in exports in October restored a favorable balance to America's foreign trade, it was disclosed in figures released yesterday by the department of commerce.

The United States began October with an unfavorable balance for 1937 of $50,000,000. October's heavy sales of American goods wiped out the deficit and created a credit of $60,443,000 for the first 10 months of the year. In the first 10 months of 1936 the country had an export balance of $18,783,000.

Biggest Month Since 1930.

October exports totaled $333,136,000, the largest for any month since March, 1930, the department reported. This represented an expansion of 12 per cent over exports in September this year and a gain of 26 per cent over October last year.

Imports of $224,391,000 represented a decline of 4 per cent in October, compared with the preceding month, and were 6 per cent below the corresponding month last year.

The department said that the bumper crops harvested in the United States this year played a large part in restoring an export balance in the country's international transactions. In 1936 the drouth virtually cut off American exports of farm products and resulted in huge importations of foreign agricultural commodities.

Machinery Exports Rise.

October exports included large shipments of wheat, apples, dry fruit, and cotton. Exports of industrial machinery reached the highest figure since May, 1930, and gains were shown in shipments of iron and steel products and automobiles. Declines were reported in exports of leaf tobacco, motor fuel, and wood pulp.

Imports of farm products, which had reached $45,000,000 last June, declined to $19,000,000 last month. With the harvest of the big domestic corn crop, the imports of that grain fell sharply, the department reported.

The export total for the first ten months of 1937 was $2,712,426,000, against $1,999,814,000 in the corresponding period last year. Imports aggregated $2,651,983,000, compared with $1,981,031,000 last year.

Liquor Duties Yield More.

Duties collected on liquor and wines imported during the first nine months of the year amounted to $28,151,815 compared to $26,152,796 for the same period last year, an increase of about $2,000,000, Customs Commissioner James H. Moyle announced in Washington, D. C.

September collections were $3,366,488 compared with $2,764,347 in September, 1936, he said. Duties collected on distilled liquors were $25,539,985 in the first nine months compared with $23,558,570 in the same period of 1936, and were $3,065,667 in September, compared with $2,451,231 in the same month last year.

JANUARY 1938
1938
TOO EARLY to think about it? NOT AT ALL!

Again in 1938, banking costs will be lower here. Credit will be cheerfully and liberally extended, with Safety of Deposits our first consideration always. Our business will continue to be transacted on a more personal basis.

Isn't that what you need? Now is the time to make a change. Let us help you make the most of 1938.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Bond prices swung fractions to a point in both directions in an idle market today. United States government loans were about steady and foreign dollar issues improved.

In the corporate group utilities tended lower and rails were irregular. The Associated Press average for twenty rails stood unchanged at 71.6. Ten utilities dropped .5 of a point to 92.1. Ten industrials dipped .3 of a point to 96.2.

In the foreign group German and Italian loans pushed up fractions to a point, but French governments tended lower. South American and Japanese obligations gained.

Turnover for all bonds was $6,625,500, face amount, compared with $6,829,700 Friday.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks closed irregular yesterday within a narrow range. Of the eighty-five issues traded, twenty-four advanced, thirty declined, and thirty-one held unchanged. Sales totaled 29,000 shares, against 30,000 in the two hour session Saturday.

General Household Utilities, most active issue, advanced ⅛ point to 1⅛ on turnover of 1,650 shares. Advances of a fraction of a point were made by Armour common, Commonwealth Edison, and Butler Brothers.

Issues losing up to a point included Zenith Radio, Marshall Field, and Bastian Blessing. Chicago corporation common was ⅛ lower at 2⅜.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were quiet yesterday. First National shares advanced $2. American National and Harris Trust stocks were quoted unchanged to $5 lower, and National Boulevard unchanged to $5 higher by various dealers.

COTTON

Cotton futures declined over .10 cent a pound yesterday as the result of selling attributed to foreign account. Reports indicated sales of cotton cloths last week were only a small percentage of the total production, and there was talk of drastic mill curtailment unless a better demand developed.

Closing trades on cotton futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of .10 to .12 cent. Other American markets declined .11 to .14 cent a pound.

Spot cotton closed .10 to .15 cent lower, with New Orleans 8.15 cents; New York, 8.10 cents, and Galveston and Houston at 7.85 cents a pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

Commodities

Hides, wool tops, rubber and coffee led another decline yesterday in quotations on commodity futures contracts. Cash prices of important staples closed irregular as gains by export copper, copper scrap and silk were offset by recessions in wool tops, rubber, and coffee.

The Dow Jones commodity futures index eased 0.23 to 52.54, but the Associated Press index of 35 cash staples was unchanged at 76.02.

Rubber futures lost 0.03 to 0.11 cent a pound, and crude rubber for immediate delivery declined 0.12 to 14.44 cents a pound. Wool top futures declined 1.0 to 2.5 cents a pound. Wool tops for immediate delivery closed 1 cent lower at 84 cents a pound.

Coffee futures again established all time lows in the New York market as Santos contracts receded 0.16 to 0.22 cent a pound and Rio contracts finished 0.12 to 0.18 cent lower. Number 7 Rio coffee for immediate delivery slipped ⅛ to 6⅝ cents a pound.

A sharp recovery of copper on the London metal exchange was reflected by a spurt in the price of export copper. After rising steadily all day final transactions were made at 10.36 cents a pound, up 0.485 cent from Saturday.

Number one copper scrap also was marked up ¼ cent to 8⅝ cents a pound by some smelters. Tin for immediate delivery closed at 42.62½ cents a pound, compared with a final Saturday price of 41.75 cents, but other cash metals were unchanged.

OIL DEFENDANTS ASSERT POLICIES AID COMPETITION

Seek to Disprove Charge of Price Fixing.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The defense in the federal government's gasoline price fixing case began today an attempt to prove that major oil company purchases of small refiners' gasoline in 1935 and 1936 restored a competitive market.

The government contends that the major companies bought gasoline as part of a scheme to raise and peg midwestern prices.

The jury, which had not been in the courtroom since Nov. 12, when arguments on dismissal motions began, was recalled during the day when Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone withheld action on defense motions for acquittal of the remaining 41 individuals on trial. Five have been discharged. The court said the trial could proceed without immediate determination of whether the individuals should be dropped as defendants.

Clashes Enliven Trial.

A series of clashes between attorneys punctuated the testimony of Wirt Franklin, Ardmore, Okla., crude oil producer and former NRA petroleum code authority chairman, who was the first defense witness.

Principal arguments resulted in Judge Stone ruling that the defense might show general conditions in the oil industry prior to March, 1935, when the government alleges a price fixing conspiracy began operating, and that Franklin's case was not typical of small refiners because his company also produced crude oil.

Chief Defense Counsel William J. Donovan, who asserted during the argument the defense contention that purchases restored the competitive market, sought to show through Franklin that refiners were in a distressed condition.

Tells of Closing Refinery.

Franklin testified his refinery was closed in March, 1935, "because it couldn't recover from a barrel of crude oil enough products to pay the cost of the crude."

Previously Donovan had asserted the defense would present a case that would have been valid regardless of whether there had been an NRA. "The defense will attempt to show," Donovan said, "that oil companies were carrying out the same objectives sought by the government through the NRA petroleum code, of which Secretary of Interior Ickes was administrator."

Special Prosecutor Hammond Chaffetz declared the NRA was being used by the defense as a "red herring" to becloud the real issue.

Petition Seeks Revision of Board of Trade Rule

A petition was circulated yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade in an effort to force to a vote of the membership of the exchange a proposed change in the rules of the exchange which would make the office of first vice president an elective office. Under the present regulations the second vice president automatically becomes first vice president at the expiration of his term as second vice president. A previous petition was rejected by the directors of the Board of Trade.

Everyday Economics

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

Futures Market.

The wheat crop of the United States is bought and sold many times over in the course of a year on the Chicago Board of Trade. Transactions in wheat futures on the exchange may amount to ten times the number of bushels of wheat produced in the United States. But these transactions do not mean that wheat is transferred when a trade is made. Most of the trades are bookkeeping transactions in which no actual grain is transferred. The futures market activity constitutes part of the elaborate machinery which has grown up for marketing the grain crops of the country.

During the harvest season millions of bushels of wheat are being sold daily on the exchange. They represent in a large measure the "hedging sales" of elevator interests, grain processors, and others who are purchasing the wheat which the farmers are marketing.

How the futures market functions to eliminate the risks for the middle man who handles the farmers' grain may be illustrated by the case of an elevator company. A Kansas elevator in July may purchase 25,000 bushels of wheat from farmers at an average price of $1.10 a bushel. To protect itself against a sudden decline in prices it will sell 25,000 bushels of wheat for December delivery in the Chicago market at $1.20. Should the price of wheat decline during the period it is carrying the grain the elevator will incur a loss on the wheat in storage but will realize an offsetting profit on its futures market "short sale."

While a differential ordinarily exists between the cash and future prices of wheat, the fluctuations in the two normally parallel each other. This permits the use of the futures market as a hedge for handlers of cash wheat.

Chicago Trade and Industry Down Sharply in October

Reversing an upward trend maintained in the first nine months this year, Chicago business and industrial activity slumped sharply in October, according to figures released yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce. The association's summary of trade and industry showed declines from last year in twenty of the thirty-seven indices used. The declines were most pronounced in the industrial lines.

Pig iron production, a key to industrial activity generally, showed declines from both September of 1937 and from October, 1936.

Department store sales fell below the level of 1936, according to the association's index, which stood at 97.4 in Ocotber, against 98.4 last year, and 90.5 in September, 1937.

Building construction for which contracts were awarded held above the level of September this year but dragged sharply under 1936.

Important indices that registered gains over 1936 were registration of new automobiles, industrial pay rolls and wages, electric power consumption, the number of telephones in use, and merchandise freight shipments.

CUMMINGS HINTS AT MORE LIBERAL LAWS ON TRUSTS

Favors New Definition of Monopolies.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—A thorough overhauling of the nation's anti-trust laws, which were described as difficult to understand and well nigh impossible of practical application in many situations of modern times, was urged today by Homer S. Cummings, attorney general of the United States, speaking at the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America.

Cummings indicated that new anti-trust legislation still is at least months away. He called upon American business for discussion and debate.

There are some who believe, he said, that any natural resource industry might be a candidate for regulation.

New Approach Hinted.

Possible new tactics were foreshadowed by the attorney general. Among them, he said, may be a new definition of monopolistic practices, with a possible rebuttal presumption of wrongful intent based upon results.

Other items he indicated were extension of the advisory authority of the federal trade commission, and overhauling of legislation on mergers, holding companies, financial control, base point bidding, price leaders, identical bids, patents, and taxation.

The attorney general's talk followed a series of hints from Washington that trusts might be made the target in the next phase of the administration policy of recovery through reform.

People Oppose Monopoly.

"The American people will not permanently tolerate monopoly or its evil fruits," Cummings declared. "Every business group understands this full well—and, indeed, those who maintain conditions that are tantamount to monopoly are opposed to every monopoly except their own."

Cummings insisted at the outset that his discussion was "my own viewpoint and grows out of my personal experience."

Business Bits

Frederick H. Ecker, chairman of the board of Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who was to retire Dec. 31, 1937, after more than 54 years' service with the company, has been reëlected to the position by the board of directors, who refused to grant the retirement. Ecker agreed to continue in office, at the insistence of the board, but said he will serve without salary.

Ernest T. Weir, Pittsburgh, chairman of the National Steel corporation, and Prof. Paul H. Douglas, University of Chicago economist, will address the Economics club at the first of the club's seasonal meetings at the Palmer house, tomorrow night.

Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, will speak before the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the American Butter institute today in the Palmer house. Milton Hult, president of the National Dairy council, will also address the meeting.

The first of a series of eighteen conferences on welding practice and design will be presented by Armour Institute of Technology at 7:30 p. m. today. Dr. W. A. Pearl, director of engineering shops at the institute, will discuss "Metallurgy and Heat Treatment of Welds."

Frank V. Whiting, general claims attorney for the New York Central system, will retire today after 53 years' service. He will be succeeded by O. G. Browne, assistant general claims attorney for the last nine years.

A membership on the Chicago Mercantile exchange has been posted for transfer to John L. Keeshin, chairman of the board of Keeshin Transcontinental Freight Lines, Chicago.

SEVERAL MORE COMPANIES PAY EXTRA DIVIDENDS

Some Reduce Disbursals as Profits Fall.

Several more companies yesterday voted extra disbursements or larger dividends than previously in order to reduce surtaxes on undistributed earnings, but a few declared smaller dividends or omitted action because of unfavorable earnings.

Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, billiard table and sporting goods manufacturer, ordered a dividend of 50 cents on its common stock. On Oct. 5 the company paid 50 cents, marking resumption of dividends on the common. It also voted the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the preferred stock.

Votes Special 65 Cents.

New Idea, Inc., agricultural implement maker, announced a special disbursement of 65 cents in addition to its regular 15 cent payment, and a 10 per cent bonus to all employés.

Directors of Woodall Industries, Inc., decided not to take action on the quarterly dividend of 25 cents due Dec. 15. The company paid a special dividend of 30 cents on Dec. 15, 1936. H. J. Woodall, president, said that the company during the summer had introduced a new process for manufacturing its major products which resulted in temporarily increased manufacturing costs and lower earnings. The company makes door panels, dash boards, and other parts in the interior of automobiles.

Youngtown Sheet and Tube company voted a dividend of 75 cents on the common stock. Payments of 75 cents each were made April 1 and July 1, and a dividend of $1 was paid in October.

South Penn Oil Pays Extra.

An extra disbursement of 77½ cents and the regular quarterly payment of 37½ cents were ordered by directors of South Penn Oil company. A similar extra was paid Sept. 30.

W. T. Grant company declared a dividend of 35 cents on its new $10 par common stock and a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the new 5 per cent $20 par preferred shares.

General Telephone corporation authorized an extra payment of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of the same amount on the common stock. It also declared the usual quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the $3 convertible preferred shares. The company paid an extra dividend of 10 cents on Sept. 23.

Stockholders of the Walworth company, meeting at Boston, approved a plan for dividend payment and issuing of additional stock. At the directors meeting following the stockholders' session an optional dividend of 25 cents in cash or 30 cents in the new 6 per cent convertible preferred stock was declared. Directors will meet again on Dec. 1 to declare an additional 70 cent dividend in new preferred stock unde the terms of the plan.

SOO LINE REPORTS LOSS

The Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad—the Soo Line—yesterday reported an October deficit after charges of $357,202, compared with deficit after charges of $[illegible]55,980 in the same month a year ago.

In the first ten months of this year, the road had deficit after charges of $4,349,833, compared with deficit after charges of $4,613,147 in the corresponding 1936 period.

The Canadian Pacific railroad reported October net operating income of $4,729,107, compared with net operating income of $4,403,183 in the same month a year ago. October gross revenues increased to $14,729,16[illegible] from $14,249,421. In ten months ended Oct. 31, gross revenues were $119,831,155, compared with $114,193,001 in the corresponding 1936 period. Net operating revenues increased to $17,353,048 from $16,230,652.

COLD WEATHER AIDS ADVANCE IN EGG FUTURES

Egg futures advanced ⅜ to ½ cent a dozen at the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday on buying induced by cold weather in some producing areas, heavy withdrawals from storage, and the decision by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation to continue its egg buying program indefinitly.

November egg contracts closed ⅜ cent higher at 18¾ cents a dozen, December contracts ½ cent higher at 18⅞ cents, and January contracts ½ cent higher at 18½ cents. In the cash egg market, refrigerator eggs advanced ¼ cent a dozen, but fresh goods were unchanged.

Butter futures were unchanged to ⅛ cent a pound higher. November contracts finished unchanged at 33¾ cents a pound, the highest final price for the November delivery since 1927. Cash butter was unchanged.

CROP CONTROL IS ASSAILED BY GRAIN DEALERS

Proposed legislation for setting up new controls over agriculture production was attacked yesterday by Homer B. Grommon, president of the Farmers National Grain Dealers association, at the annual meeting of the organization at the Hotel La Salle. Curtailment of farm production will add to the country's economic difficulties, he said.

"We cannot hope to produce less and less at continually increasing cost and hope to have enough to distribute to the one-third of our population that is ill fed, ill clothed, and ill housed because even now they cannot buy," he said. "Complete control over farm and industrial operation and production is evidently what the agricultural department and this administration are aiming at."

Cold weather and a decrease in supplies sent fresh pork and hogs into a sharp rise yesterday. Gains of 30 to 40 cents were general on hogs, with spots up as much as 50 cents at the close, the high point of the session.

The general market was 60 to 70 cents higher than the three year low of early last week. Selected 180 pound averages topped the list at $8.70, highest in two weeks. This compared with $8.35 at the close of the week and $8.00 the preceding Monday. Prices for the day averaged 35 cents higher than on Saturday and 40 cents above last Friday.

Fresh Pork Higher.

Brisk buying of fresh pork stimulated the demand for hogs. Fresh pork loins rose 50 cents to $1.00 per hundred pounds in wholesale channels over the week-end prices. Heavy loins sold at $14.00 and top light loins as high as $17.00.

A liberal run of cattle depressed the prices in this branch of the live stock trade. Steers sold weak to 25 cents lower than at the close of the week and as much as 35 to 50 cents under the high point of last week. A surprisingly good killing class of short fed steers was bought from $7.50 to $8.50, and many short feds with good weight landed from $8.75 to $11.00.

One Load Tops at $16.60.

The bulk of the day's supply was of the class selling between $7.50 and $12.50, although a few loads reached $13.00 to $16.00 and one load that averaged 1,174 pounds topped at $16.60. Beef cows, hefers, canners, and cutters sold weak to 25 cents lower. Calves gained 25 cents. Lambs sold steady to 10 cents higher. The top at $9.85, paid for natives, was highest since Nov. 16. Packers bought the bulk down from $9.75.

LOST AND FOUND.

TO FINDERS.

If you have found a cat or dog, a pocketbook, jewelry, or fur, and cannot locate the owner through the "Lost and Found" advertisments in The Tribune, call and go through the "Lost and Found" index at the PUBLIC SERVICE OFFICE. 1 S. DEARBORN-STREET.

TO LOSERS.

If you are listed in the telephone directory you can charge an advertisment of your lost article by telephoning Miss Miller of the Tribune ad taking department, Superior 0100. Your advertisment receives the benefit of free listing in the Tribune Public Service office mentioned above for a period of two months. This service facilitates the recovery of lost articles advertised.
